HOOVER COUNTS FIRE LOSS AND NAMES CABINET

Spends Christmas at Home with Friends.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 25.—[Special.]—President Hoover's Christmas today was divided between celebration of the holiday with his family and friends and stock taking of last night's fire, which burned the interior of the White House executive offices to a mass of charred and blackened wreckage.

The President spent a part of the morning inspecting the damaged structure and making plans for its reconstruction and for temporary offices. Later in the day, however, he joined in festivities, supervised by Mrs. Hoover, inside the brightly decorated residential portion of the White House. The celebration, although quiet, was similar to those in millions of other American homes.

Secretaries' Children Frolic.

With their younger son, Allan, who came home from Harvard for the holidays, the President and Mrs. Hoover exchanged presents. They did not attend church, as their own church, the Friends' meeting house, did not hold services. Although their elder son, Herbert, Jr., and his wife and two small children, of Pasadena, Cal., were unable to be present, the children of the President's secretaries, George Akerson and Walter Newton, and several other intimate friends spent the day romping through the White House rooms.

Members of the cabinet and their families were guests of the Hoovers at dinner tonight. Two huge wild turkeys with pudding, cranberry sauce and all the other Christmas goodies graced the table.

Crowd Watches Fire Company.

Meanwhile the White House fire received the big topic of excitement throughout the capital. During the day thousands of curious persons passed in a steady stream past the burned offices and a crowd of spectators, patrolled by policemen, stood by all day to watch a fire company clear away the debris. This evening, except for the blackened walls and gaping holes, the evidences of the fire had been removed.

The cause of the fire was definitely traced today to an overheated fireplace chimney in the office of Secretary Newton. The firemen found the embers of a log in the fireplace and the adjacent wall was burned through in such a way as to indicate the source of the blaze.

No Irreplaceable Damage.

Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant III., director of public buildings and public parks, estimated the damage to be approximately $50,000. Further inspections showed that, although it will be necessary to completely rebuild the structure, there was no irreplaceable damage.

Despite the fact that he stood outside watching the fire for two hours last night, the President was up early this morning for a stiff medicine ball workout with Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur, Chairman Alexander Legge of the farm board, and several other friends.

Representatives Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.] and Royal S. Johnson [Rep., S. D.], administration leaders in congress, after discussing the fire today, announced that they will lead a movement for the construction of a new and separate executive office building as a part of the capital's proposed building program. Their plan was for the burned building to be reconstructed and turned over to the President for strictly private use.

Find Lady the Heroine.

Another idea was that the executive offices might be incorporated in a new state and war building.

The heroine of the fire was Mrs. Hoover, and the hero M. M. Rice, White House telephone operator.

The first lady quietly carried on with children's party which was in progress when the fire report reached the White House dining room. While the President and the other men present hurried out; Mrs. Hoover, in order to frighten the children, had the band strike up a lively air and then presided over the celebration unaware of what was happening a few hundred feet away.

Telephone Operator Rice not only discovered and reported the fire but remained at his switchboard for more than a half hour while smoke swirled around him and firemen crashed their way through the surrounding walls. He continued punching plugs in the switchboard as fast as his hands could work until finally forced into the fresh air, other than smoked clothes and reddened eyes he suffered no harm.

OCEAN POUNDS EUROPE; 24 DIE AS SHIP SINKS

Vessels Sent Scooting for Safety.

LONDON, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Ye olde Christmas day in England came in like a lamb and went out a lashing, roaring gale that sent ships scooting for shelter all around the British isles. The storm area extended from the Orkney islands to Spain.

Vigo, Spain, reported the loss of the Norwegian steamer Aslaug with its entire crew of 24 off Farallones Bayona early today. The steamer Dumana, reaching Plymouth today, reported she had been buffeted by gales all the way from Port Said, Egypt.

The storm blew out of the southwest, banishing the blue skies and summery weather of southern England. Rain fell in torrents and hail rattled on the streets of London this morning, while wild weather ruled the south coast districts, where Christmas visitors to resort towns watched great seas pound on the beaches and harbor walls at Folkestone and other ports.

Storm Holds Up Xmas Mail.

Many ships sought sheltered water from Plymouth to Scotland, where a seventy mile gale swept toward the Orkneys. The mails were held up at Kirkwall and the north Orkneys were without Christmas letters, all sea services being suspended.

For the first time in thirty years no trawlers were in with fish at Aberdeen market today. The harbor bar was not passable. The Aberdeen district has been stormbound for a week, while southern Britain was enjoying warmth and sunshine. Not a vessel has entered or left Aberdeen since last Monday.

Ireland experienced gales which at times had the force of hurricanes last night and early today. Trees were uprooted and minor damage done in towns.

34 in Yule Swimming Race.

Lloyds reported numerous steamships in difficulties with propeller or rudder trouble, but the Norwegian craft was the only instance where loss of life was reported.

Despite the gale England was moderately warm today. This morning 34 stalwarts, whose ages ranged from 17 to 72 years, swam across Serpentine lake in Hyde park in competition for the silver cup presented annually by Sir James Barrie.

Ship Goes Down; Fear Big Loss.

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, Dec. 25.—[U.P.]—The schooner Siglo was wrecked near Trujillo today with an undetermined number of its passengers lost. Several survivors were found near Aguan and they reported that two children died of exposure after the wreck. Most of the passengers and crew escaped in lifeboats and rafts.

Steamer Blocks River Elbe.

HAMBURG, Germany, Dec. 25.—[U. P.]—The German-American Petroleum company's 12,000 ton steamer Wilhelm Riedman went aground near Blankanese in the River Elbe last night. The steamer was reported out of danger, although it blocked all river traffic.

Two Vessels on Rocks.

BREST, France, Dec. 25.—[U. P.]—Severe storms hampered shipping today, driving two schooners on to the rocks off Porspol and delaying the departure of Russian cruisers which were damaged two weeks ago in the severe channel storms.

2 CHILDREN SEE FATHER SLAIN ON CHRISTMAS NIGHT

Adolph Mata, 29 years old, 1328 Jackson street, Gary, was found shot to death last night on the sidewalk at 13th and Monroe streets, Gary, where he had been attacked by an unidentified man while on the way to a grocery store with his two small children. The children were taken home by an unidentified man and on their arrival they told their mother that Mata had been hurt. Mrs. Mata went to the scene and found her husband dying. The stranger disappeared after delivering the children at their home.

Mrs. Norman Hoffman, Ex-Opera Soloist, Dies

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Mrs. Norman Hoffman, 63, former soloist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra under Frederick Stock, director, died here today after a three months' illness. She was head of the piano department of the Milwaukee Institute of Music.

Italian Cardinal Dies; College Reduced to 62

ROME, Dec. 26.—[Thursday.]—(AP)—Cardinal Gamba, archbishop of Turin, died today. His death reduced the college of cardinals to 62, of whom 29 are Italians and 33 foreigners.

Divorce Every Hour, Record in Cook County

An average of one divorce every fifty-five minutes wrecked one of every 103 families in Cook county during 1929. The extent of the destruction of homes is brought to the attention forcefully by the fact that 5,793 children were taken either from the father or mother by the decrees, although the majority of couples who appeared in court were childless.

A total of 9,669 divorce decrees were granted in the county in the fiscal year of 1929. The total was 220, or two per cent, more than that in the preceding year, the 1928 total being 9,449. The figures were released yesterday by M. S. Szymczak and Thomas O. Wallace, clerks of the Superior and Circuit courts.

6,111 in Superior Court.

Of the decrees 6,111 were granted in the Superior court and 3,558 in the Circuit court. The total for the former court fell short of the 1928 record figure by 181, while the latter court showed a gain of 400. The combined figures represent a new peak for the county.

The reports disclose that approximately three wives are granted divorces to every husband seeking separation. In the Spperior court 4,701 women won decrees as against 1,410 men. The proportion was maintained in the Circuit court.

The records show that 84 per cent of the defendants were found guilty of either cruelty or desertion. Drunkenness figured in only 12 per cent of the cases and infidelity in 6 per cent. The causes listed in the frequency of appearance are desertion, cruelty, drunkenness, adultery, bigamy, felony, disease, and impotency.

How Charges Compare.

In the Superior court 1,698 women won decrees on allegations of desertion against 1,003 men. Cruelty was charged by 2,242 women and 211 men, drunkenness by 560 women and 27 men, and bigamy by 30 women and 10 men. The only charge on which husbands brought the majority of complaints was infidelity with 121 men and 114 women. The Superior court numbered 63 annulments and heard 176 contested cases, while the Circuit court granted 60 annulments and heard only 10 contested cases.

The total amount of alimony and settlements was estimated at $4,500,000, approximately $3,000,000 in the Superior court and $1,500,000 in the other branch.

Approximately 15 per cent of the contestants were native Americans, the reports show. Negroes figured in 12 per cent of the total. Germans, Jews, Irish, Poles and English followed in that order. The surveys list representatives of almost every nation.

AUTO PLUNGES IN LAGOON; TOW TRUCK FOLLOWS

Mistaking a foot path through the snow for automobile ruts, Arthur Young, 35 years old, 2315 Adams street, yesterday drove his automobile out on to the ice on the Garfield park lagoon, where it sank in four feet of water. Young, his wife, Mrs. Mary Young, and three other passengers, Gertrude Loukes, 18 years old, her brother Howard, 12, of 1607 Van Buren street, and Arthur Shiers, 20 years old, 27 North Paulina street, scampered to safety before the ice broke.

Five minutes later a tow truck driven by Edward Washington, 25 years old, 322 North Washtenaw avenue, colored, skidded down the bank while trying to pull Young's car out and plunged into the lagoon, giving Washington an icy ducking. He waded out of the water, but the two automobiles were left in.

FLORIDA'S COLD SNAP IS ENDED BY BRIGHT SUN

Jacksonville, Fla., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Rising temperatures and a bright sun brought added Christmas cheer to Florida today after subfreezing temperatures last night in the northern and central portions of the state.

Fair skies and continued rising temperatures were forecast for tomorrow by the local weather bureau. Growers were warned, however, of frost tonight in the northern and central sections.

Gainesville, in the central portion, was the coldest point in the state last night with a low of 24, while Eustis, also in the central section, was next with 26. Bartow, in the lower ridge section, reported a 28.

RanieriKidnap Suspect Shot for Third Time

Salvatore Mastroianni, alleged Black Hand leader who was indicted in connection with the Billy Ranieri kidnaping case, was shot three times last night by a man who walked into his poolroom at 726 Taylor street and started shooting. Mastroianni was taken to the county hospital with bullet wounds in his neck, shoulder, and arm and physicians said his condition was serious.

Mastroianni told the police that the man attempted to rob him and shot him when he resisted, but because of his connection with Angelo Petitti, who is now serving a 25 year prison sentence for the kidnaping of the Ranieri boy, the police were skeptical of his story. Two witnesses who were playing pool when the gunman entered fled after the shooting.

Shot for Third Time.

It was the third time that Mastroianni has been shot in recent years and the police saw in the shooting a possible connection with the killing of Tommasco Tiritilli. Petitti's father-in-law, who was shot in front of 3109 Lexington street two weeks ago yesterday.

Four years ago Mastroianni was shot several times in front of his poolroom and left lying for dead on the sidewalk. He was shot the second time only a few months ago, and although his wounds then were not serious he was kept in the county hospital for a short time.

Go-Between in Kidnaping.

Mastroianni, known as Frank the Calabrian, acted as a go-between in the Ranieri kidnaping case, posing as a friend of Frank Ranieri, the boy's father, and offering to ransom the child for $10,000. In September, 1928, he was one of the first persons arrested in the police investigation of the case, after he is alleged to have taken $1,000 from the elder Ranieri.

He was indicted with Petitti on a charge of extortion, but the charges were dismissed two months ago, when witnesses refused to testify against him, through fear of the vengeance of the Petitti gang, according to the police.

Dies from Gas as Family Works on Christmas Tree

John Hart, 60 years old, 2239 Walnut street, was found dead of asphyxiation last night in the kitchen of the home of his daughter, Mrs. Fred Rockwell, 5739 Winthrop avenue, where he was paying a Christmas visit. Hart went into the kitchen for a cup of coffee while Mr. and Mrs. Rockwell were decorating a Christmas tree and a few minutes later Rockwell found him slumped over the stove with two burners open.

Triplets, and All Girls, Are Born on Christmas

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Riley will have three good reasons for remembering Christmas day, 1929. Triplets, all girls, were born to Mrs. Riley at a hospital tonight. Mrs. Riley and the triplets were reported to be doing nicely.

Slayers Find No Liquor on Niagara Boat

Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 25.—[Special.]—A policeman's son in a motor boat in the Niagara river was fatally shot by United States coast guardsmen here tonight. Officers reported they suspected the man of running contraband, but a search of the boat failed to yield any evidence of smuggling either liquor or narcotics.

Eugene F. Downey Jr., 27 years old, was the man slain. He died in the emergency hospital here soon after he was admitted.

Immediately after the boat was towed ashore it was padlocked until further investigation of the killing can be made by federal authorities.

Report Machine Gun Used.

Reports of the shooting vary. Waterfront residents assert that Downey's boat was fired on by machine guns. Coast guardsmen reported that only revolvers were fired while they were pursuing the craft.

Downey and an unidentified companion were reported to be cruising in a 26-foot motor boat off Erie Beach, Canada when the coast guardsmen sighted them.

The officers reported that when the boat entered the main gap of Buffalo harbor it was signalled to stop. The signals were ignored the officers said and fire with revolvers was opened.

Boat is Guarded.

Neither United States District Attorney Richard H. Templeton nor Commander W. M. Rasmussen would comment on the slaying, but they issued orders that the motor boat be hauled from the water and placed on the sea wall. Guards were posted to prevent examination of the craft.

Members of the coast guard crew declared that the Downey boat was proceeding without lights. Downey's companion, believed to have been operating the boat, and apparently uninjured, clambered over the dock at the foot of Genesee street and escaped, the officers said.

Officers Use Ladder.

Considerable difficulty was experienced in removing the fatally wounded Downey from the boat. He weighed more than 200 pounds and insecure footing on the dock forced officers to send to a nearby fire station for a ladder before they could raise the stricken man to the dock level.

The coast guard boat from which the fatal bullet was fired was the C. G. 2245 and was manned by Randolph Thompson, Asa C. Ennes and Orville Lagrant.

Downey was arrested last week by special agents of the intelligence service of the coast guard in connection with alleged smuggling activities of the barge Loretta. He pleaded not guilty and was released on $10,000 bond, which he filed in federal court. Eight other men were arrested in connection with the Loretta case.

Downey is survived by a wife and child.

HERO SAVES LIFE OF GIRL IN LOOP, THEN VANISHES

Five year old Jessica Rolph is speeding on her way to her home in Pasadena, Cal., alive and happy because an unidentified, bashful hero risked his life to save her's in the loop traffic yesterday afternoon. The child had just come out of the United Artists theater on Randolph street, near Dearborn, with her parents and started to cross the street. The child dashed ahead of her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Rolph, and in doing so slipped in the slush, falling in the path of a car. A man leaped, scooped her to safety, and put her in the arms of her father, a retired oil operator. Then he vanished in the crowd.

BORAH SCOLDED BY DORAN FOR DERIDING DRYS

Prohibitionists No Longer United.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 25.—A new wedge was driven into the widening breach between senate drys and the Hoover administration over prohibition enforcement today by a statement from Prohibition Commissioner James M. Doran, assailing Senator W. E. Borah [Rep., Idaho], an outstanding constitutional dry.

Dr. Doran took sharp issue with Borah's observation in an interview yesterday that the prohibition law will never be enforced by the present personnel. Such a "sweeping condemnation" of the prohibition unit, Doran declared, "is most unfortunate and bound to have a disheartening effect upon the morale of the service."

Thrust "Perilously Near" Law.

"To say that prohibition cannot be enforced with the present personnel, the prohibition director added, "comes perilously near to saying that it cannot be enforced at all."

The Borah statement, which Mr. Doran looks upon as so unfortunate, was made by the Idaho senator during a discussion of the demands of two other dry senators, William J. Harris [Dem., Ga.] and Carter Glass [Dem., Va.], for an immediate report from President Hoover's law enforcement commission.

Borah, after stating that he was not deeply concerned about a report from the commission, added that the real trouble with dry law enforcement is the men trying to enforce it.

Blame Put on Personnel.

"In my opinion," he added, "it will never be enforced with the present personnel from top to bottom. If the commission should report they will not tell us anything we do not know, either as to the law or the facts. We will still be back to the one proposition, and that is, that with the present personnel nothing will be accomplished."

Senator Borah, although in favor of enforcing the 18th amendment because it is a part of the constitution, has on previous occasions caused the Anti-Saloon league group embarrassment by his somewhat independent views on dry law enforcement. His critical attitude, as manifested in his latest statement, is entirely different from that of other bone drys who are backing up Doran's machine to the limit.

Drys are Divided.

Among the other drys, too, there have developed of late signs of division, as some of them have become convinced that something really is wrong with enforcement methods.

One of the controversial subjects is the pending Sheppard law to punish buyers as well as sellers of liquor and more recently the doings of the crime commission. Harris, for instance, demanded the ouster of Judge McCormick of Los Angeles, a member of the commission for protesting against third degree enforcement methods, while Glass said he had no quarrel at all to pick with Judge McCormick. All of which, most observers believe, presages prohibition fireworks a-plenty when congress considers enforcement appropriations after the Christmas holidays.

Commissioner Doran's statement of three typewritten pages was issued from the treasury building after he had read the Borah statement in the morning newspapers.

Charge Is "Disheartening."

"My attention has been called to a statement by Senator Borah in which he says that the prohibition law, in his opinion, will never be enforced by the present personnel," Doran declared. "With all due respect to the senator, it seems to me that such a sweeping condemnation of a group of public servants who are honestly and conscientiously endeavoring to perform their duty, is most unfortunate and bound to have a disheartening effect upon the morale of the service.

"This is not to say that in a large organization such as that of the prohibition bureau there are not weak spots. It is not to say that administration is not susceptible to improvement but to say that prohibition cannot be enforced with the present personnel comes perilously near to saying that it cannot be enforced at all.

Personnel Conscientious.

"Based on my 22 years of experience in the government service, I can affirm that on the whole we are not likely to find a more loyal and conscientious group of men than are now serving under me. In this connection it should not be forgotten that they are now chosen from civil service lists, based on open competitive examinations, in accordance with the reorganization act recently passed by the congress and it is hard to believe that in the future the congress will autorize looking elsewhere for new recruits.

* * *

"Moreover, such a sweeping statement overlooks the very marked progress which has been made in this particular field of law enforcement which is set forth in detail in my report to the congress and which is amply supported by facts.

Hoover's Declarations Cited.

"Important as is the problem of personnel, it is not the only problem. As I see it, aside from the cooperation of private citizens, there are other factors involved in the enforcement of the prohibition laws. First, there must be the will to enforce. No one, I think, will deny that under the present administration there has existed a whole hearted determination to enforce the law. This has been evidenced by the clean cut declarations of the chief executive, which, in my judgment, have not only an inspiring effect on the morale of public servants, but have met with a very genuine response on the part of private citizens. No one in my bureau has any doubt as to the position of this administration on this point.

"But, given the will to enforce, given a suitable personnel taken from civil service lists, there still remains the problem of the most effective kind of an administrative setup and this relates not only to the enforcement of the law within our borders, but to the shutting off of the supply of illicit liquor from without our borders.

"Acting under instructions from the President, in the course of the last few months, an exhaustive study has been made, not only of the best means to improve the administration of the law, but of the proper relation between federal and state enforcement forces. As a result of these studies, there has been prepared and will be submitted to the congress a plan of reorganization, which, in my judgment, will promote the better enforcement of the law.

Coast Guard Busy, Too.

"Moreover, the treasury department is prepared to submit to the congress a program looking to the more effective prevention of smuggling on our land borders by establishing a limited number of points of entry and providing for the guarding of the area between those points by a unified border patrol under the coast guard. Insofar as our water frontiers are concerned, I understand that Admiral Billard has submitted a program looking to the strengthening of our coast guard fleet, not only on the ocean, but on our inland waters, which has met with the approval of the treasury department.

"In conclusion, I affirm that genuine progress is being made in the enforcement of the prohibition laws, that the personnel in the federal prohibition service is steadily improving in morale and efficiency, that my observation leads me to believe that under the leadership of the President, there has been a much more helpful attitude on the part of the public, and finally, insofar as administration is concerned, a program is ready for submission to the congress."

HOOVER'S PLAN OF COMMISSION WORK OPPOSED

Congress Prefers to Do Own Investigating.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Dec. 25.—[Special.]—President Hoover's habit of entrusting expert commissions with the solution of important problems is making trouble for him.

Already the President is at odds with congress because of methods employed by his law enforcement commission and his proposal for the creation of a commission to investigate conditions in Haiti. More difficulties are in store for him in connection with other commissions, already existing and proposed.

Both drys and wets seem disposed to stir up trouble for the President's law enforcement commission which has been working for many months without taking congress or the public into its confidence. If congress had had its way, there would have been a joint congressional commission which would have produced daily sensations through public hearings. Much political ammunition would have been produced. At the end two reports would have been submitted to congress, one signed by the drys and one by the wets.

Experts Are Employed.

Instead, the President sought to pick a commission of jurists and others not actively identified with either side. The commission hired experts and is making a comprehensive investigation. Just what its final conclusions will be, no one knows, but from rumblings in congress it appears unlikely that neither drys or wets will be entirely satisfied.

Immediately after the holidays, Senator W. J. Harris [Dem., Ga.] intends to press his pending resolution calling upon the commission to transmit a report of progress to congress. Reluctance to allow the President to appoint another commission is responsible for failure of the senate thus far to approve the house resolution embodying his proposal for an investigation of American policies in Haiti.

Members of congress prefer to have investigations conducted by their own standing or special committees, rather than by commissions selected by the President. Both Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho], chairman of the senate committee on foreign relations, and Senator Claude A. Swanson [Dem., Va.], ranking minority member, are disinclined to approve the commission proposal and it is doubtful if the house resolution will receive senate approval.

Approval Unlikely.

The President proposed the appointment of several commissions in his annual message to congress. Besides one to deal with Haitian matters, the President suggested a commission to study the branch banking problem and a commission with authority to dispose of the Muscle Shoals plants. Members of congress have made it plain that they do not intend to authorize appointment of a banking commission along the lines of the suggestion of the President, who proposed placing upon it senators and representatives and also other federal officials. There is also no disposition to entrust settlement of the Muscle Shoals controversy to a commission.

NEW YORK CHRISTMAS WETTER; NO DEATHS; LIQUOR GETS BETTER

New York, Dec. 25.—[Special.]—Christmas, 1929, was considerably wetter in New York than Christmas of the preceding year if the record of alcoholism cases in the city's hospitals can be taken as a criterion. No death from poison liquor was reported, however. This seemed to indicate an improvement in the quality of stimulants available. During the 24 hours ending at midnight today, 75 persons suffering from alcoholism had been admitted to New York hospitals.

A comparison of these figures with records for the preceding Christmas shows an increase of fourteen cases. During the corresponding period last year, two deaths from alcoholism and 59 cases of alcoholism were recorded in the city hospitals.

Despite the increase in wetness, police declared today was an unusually quiet Christmas. Few disorderly persons were seen in the streets and in public gathering places. Police remarking on this fact, expressed the opinion that it had been the most abstemious Christmas in many years. But that was before returns had been received from the hospitals.

ROME TELLS OF PLANS FOR ROYAL WEDDING WEEK

Belgian Princess to Be Bride Jan. 8.

ROME, Dec. 25.—(AP)—The tentative program during the week's festivities for the marriage of Princess Marie-Jose of Belgium to Crown Prince Humbert of Italy, on Jan. 8, has been prepared. It is subject to change at the request of the Belgian royal family. It is as follows:

Jan. 5—Sunday, day of rest for the visiting royalties; informal calls.

Jan. 6—Formal reception in the Quirinal palace to highest officials of Italian state, with the participation of the visiting kings and princes and high Belgian officials.

Jan. 7—Reception in the Quirinal to the diplomatic corps and some 2,000 persons presented at court.

Jan. 8—Wedding in Pauline chapel of the Quirinal, after wedding breakfast, the bride and the bridegroom will go to the Vatican City state to pay homage to the tomb of the first apostle in St. Peter's. Then they will be received by Pope Pius. In the evening there will be a family dinner in the Quirinal palace, restricted to the visiting sovereigns and princes.

Jan. 9—The prince and the princess, with their parents, will repair to the Pantheon to lay wreaths on the tomb of King Victor Emanuel II., the prince's great-grandfather, on the 52d anniversary of his death. In the afternoon, a reception by Rome municipality.

Jan. 10 or 11—Gala performance at royal opera.

Spinach Is Just as Green as Leaves of Mistletoe

Coeur d'Alene, Ida., Dec. 25.—Chief of Police Michael Roche today was asked by a young woman to arrest a young man. She claimed the mistletoe the youth held over her head was spinach.

TWO BIG FIRES TIE UP TRAFFIC; LOSS $105,000

Two spectacular Christmas fires yesterday evening caused damage of more than $100,000, drew thousands of spectators, and tied up traffic for more than an hour.

The first fire broke out just as holiday crowds were leaving loop theaters and attracted a throng that blocked street car and automobile traffic in State street for more than an hour. The blaze started on the fourth floor of a vacant building at 23 West Monroe street, formerly occupied by the American Railway Express company.

Blaze Reaches Roof.

The flames had gained considerable headway before they were discovered. They swept into the upper floors of the seven story structure, and broke out on the roof.

A 2-11 alarm was sounded and lines of hose stretched across State street and the gathering throngs completely blocked traffic, street cars lining up for several blocks in both directions. Fire Marshal Michael Corrigan said the fire evidently started from spontaneous combustion in a pile of rubbish. He estimated the damage at about $5,000.

The building has been vacant most of the time since the express company vacated it about seven years ago.

$100,000 Fire Wrecks Laundry.

The second fire caused damage estimated at $100,000 when it wrecked the interior of the Munger laundry at 2412 Indiana avenue. For a time the flames, which are believed to have been caused by crossed wires, threatened neighboring flat buildings and rooming houses, but were brought under control after a 2-11 alarm had been sounded.

The laundry was closed for the holiday and there was no one in the building when the fire broke out. Only the walls and the roof of the two story structure were left standing. The large loss was caused by the destruction of expensive machinery, according to A. J. Tilley, owner of the laundry.

IDENTIFY BANK ROBBERS.

Omaha, Neb., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Fifteen employes and patrons of the Farmers and Merchants' bank of Benson, an Omaha suburb, which was robbed of $15,500 Nov. 14, have partially identified three robbery suspects brought to Omaha from Wichita, Kas.

IOWA WOMAN IS 104 TODAY; HAS LIVED IN ONE COUNTY 45 YEARS

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Dec. 25.—[Special.]—One hundred and three years ago today Mrs. Mary Glenappe saw her first Christmas and tomorrow at her home near Hopkington she will observe her 104th birthday. She was born in Prussia when John Quincy Adams was President of the United States and came to this country when she was 59 years old. She has lived in Delaware county 45 years. She never learned to speak the English language.

The only person in Iowa, so far as is known, who tops her in age is Henry Homewood of Shenandoah, 104 today. Mrs. Glenappe had been a widow since 1881. Her only two children living are John Glenappe of Laurel, Neb., and Mrs. Ben C. Kurth of Hopkington, who has made a home for her mother for half a century.

Mrs. Glenappe's sight is poor, but her hearing and general health are excellent. She will receive friends tomorrow who come to congratulate her on her birthday.

TWO ARE KILLED; OBSERVERS SAY PILOT IS DRUNK

Gasoline Was Refused to Aviator.

Springfield, Mo., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Sam Bartel of Springfield, world war flyer, and W. B. Allen of Mountain Grove, Mo., a student pilot, died tonight of injuries received today when their plane crashed near Cabool, Mo. The craft, a dual control biplane, was wrecked when both men attempted to pilot it.

Bartel, who was 35, was a stunt aviator although he had been refused a pilot's license by the United States department of commerce. He went to Cabool today with Allen, who was a student under him, planning to take up passengers. He was refused permission by Mayor H. E. McKinney after citizens had complained of Bartel's allegedly intoxicated condition.

A gasoline filling station also refused to sell him fuel, but he either had some in the plane or obtained it elsewhere, as the plane took off a short time later, headed in the direction of Mountain Grove. The plane flew at a low altitude, witnesses said, barely missing several houses and then dipping down and almost striking a man walking on a highway.

Three Men Killed.

Dunn, N. C., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Three men were killed late today as an airplane in which they were riding failed to right itself after a loop the loop and crashed inside of Dunn city limits. The dead are Alton Stewart, pilot, of Coats, and Worth Stephenson, student flyer, and Hugh Blalock, passenger, both of Angier.

The plane, which had been flying over Dunn for some time, hurtled to earth and piled up in a mass of wreckage near a Negro schoolhouse. The bodies of the three men were badly mangled.

Stephenson was said to have been at the controls at the time of the crash. Stewart, owner of the plane, was an experienced pilot.

ANGORA MAY HAVE BEST MUSEUM OF RELICS OF HITTITES

ANGORA, Turkey, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Charles Breasted, son of the director of the Oriental institute of the University of Chicago, is in Angora consulting with the Turkish government about plans for the creation of a Hittite museum in the Turkish capital.

Hundreds of Hittite monuments, discovered by American archaeological expeditions under the direction of Prof. Van Der Osten of that Chicago institute, are stored in packing cases in Angora for want of a suitable museum. These American discoveries and the finds of former German expeditions will make the Angora museum one of the richest Hittite collections in the world.

CHILDREN FROLIC, POOR FEAST ON CHRISTMAS DAY

City Ready to Return to Normal.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Chicago will settle down today to the business of trying to realize Christmas is over.

A certain leftover excitement lingers in the air this morning as loop bound crowds return to work. At home, housewives began sweeping out tinsel and tinsel.

It was a quiet Christmas for Chicago, and the fresh mantle of snow which settled lightly over the city Christmas eve seemed to add to the stillness, so that the city, in its new whiteness, looked to the excited children who rushed to the window early Christmas morning like the pictures of Christmas on postcards and Christmas seals.

Good Use for Sleds.

The snow covered parks and ice coated ponds were fine for the boys and girls who found new sleds and skates under the Christmas tree. The temperature was not severe, the mercury hovering around the freezing mark.

Christmas is something which doesn't change much from one year to another. It was the children who counted yesterday. No one cared about anything else, except to attend church services, which many thousands did. Church bells were heard at intervals from midnight until late in the morning and churches were reported crowded. Except for church, it was a day for firesides.

Destitute Share in Plenty.

Destitute families in the city and suburbs which hadn't had a square meal in a long time were given baskets groaning with food as well as presents by Chicago's reserve forces of generous hearted citizens who wanted to spread good cheer. Most of the army of men and women, boys and girls, who carried baskets, clothes and toys to pour families finished their mission of cheer Christmas eve, but a few remained to distribute Christmas supplies yesterday.

More than 3,000 cups of coffee and thousands of cakes, cookies, and large meat sandwiches were given to the homeless and destitute by the Holy Name mission, 126 North Des Plaines street. Msgr. William A. Cummings, head of the mission, directed the work.

Boy and Girl Scouts visited more than 300 Evanston families, most of them colored, giving Christmas baskets of food and presents. Ten automobiles full of Scouts went the rounds of the Evanston poor families, under the direction of Dr. E. D. Kelly, head scout master of Evanston.

Cermak Feeds Thousands.

Several thousand men whom Christmas found without jobs received warm food, coffee, meat sandwiches and apples, at the expense of Anton J. Cermak, president of the county board. The lines formed early and as fast as they were filled and departed others took their place. The supply was apparently endless. Mr. Cermak also helped finance the feeding of unemployed men in other parts of the city.

More than 4,100 patients at the Cook county infirmary, at Oak Forest, were awakened at 6 o'clock by carols sung by the nurses of the hospital as they walked through the corridors. Later presents from the Englewood High school students were distributed, each patient getting one. A dinner of roast goose was provided by the county, and Mr. Cermak provided a tree 30 feet high for the lobby, and an additional tree for each of the 56 wards.

In the county hospital a bountiful Christmas was provided by various organizations which donated presents, and after a chicken dinner the Bishop Kettler council of the Knights of Columbus entertained the patients with a program of music and dancing. There also the nurses sang carols in the early morning.

In the Cook county jail everything except Christmas was forgotten and a chicken dinner was enjoyed by all. Every one shared equally in the festivity. Choirs sang and church women brought baskets of food and presents.

Fifty orphans were guests at a Christmas dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. James Pappas, proprietors of a restaurant at North avenue and Vine street. They all got toys and stockings.

Chief of Police Lester T. Tiffany of Lake Forest and members of his staff received $40 in gold and other gifts from millionaire residents of Lake Forest.

CHANCE TO FEED HOGS HIS WISH; STEALS; GETS IT

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 25.—[U.P.]—Probably the weirdest Christmas present in the land became a reality today, just as things looked blackest to Tom McGee.

For more than a week the middle aged man, who can neither read nor write, had besieged the police courts here to send him back to the prison camp where he had served seven terms for petty offenses.

"It's the only home I have and I just love to feed those hogs," he said.

Twice he was turned down by police recorders. He became desperate. With deliberate intent he hunted up a brick, hurled it through a store window, stole a cheap shirt, and promptly reported his act to the nearest policeman.

Until last night it looked as if Tom would be held in jail for the January grand jury, but the approach of Christmas mellowed Judge John D. Humphries, who signed a court order assuring Tom of Christmas among the hogs.

MEXICAN DRIVERS DEMAND LAWS ON JAYWALKING

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 25.—(AP)—If chauffeurs and street car conductors are to be subject to the severe penalties prescribed by the new penal code when they run down pedestrians, then it is only just that the pedestrians be obliged to keep out of the way of the vehicles, says the Mexico City street car company employés' union in a petition to Gen. Antonio Gomez Velasco, chief of the federal district traffic department.

The union requests that a set of regulations be drawn up for pedestrians and that signs be placed at the street intersections instructing pedestrians how to cross. It recommends that violation of these instructions be adequately punished.

The penal code fixes six years imprisonment as the penalty for the chauffeur or conductor who is found responsible for an accident involving death.

CLINGS 45 MINUTES TO MAN IN ICY RIVER; POLICE SAVE BOTH

New York, Dec. 25.—[Special.]—For forty-five minutes this morning in the icy waters of the East river, Patrolman Peter C. Franchini, 35, grimly clutched a pile with one hand and with the other clung to the body of the man he had plunged in to save.

Through Franchini's grit, Herman Schwartz, 40, was finally rescued from the river when he and Franchini were pulled out after two policemen of the emergency squad had also jumped into the water.

Schwartz's condition was reported as critical tonight at the hospital where he and Franchini were taken. Franchini, it was reported, had narrowly missed pneumonia from the exposure.

PRISON HEADS TRAP FUGITIVES BY FAKE PARTY

East View, N. Y., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Two prisoners who escaped from East View penitentiary last September today were back in their cells because they went to a Christmas eve party without investigating the source of their invitation.

The prisoners were Charles Sirico, 29, and Harry de Stefano, 22, both of New York. Yesterday morning Sirico, calling at an address in New York where he sometimes received his mail, found a letter signed with the name of a prisoner he had known at East View.

The letter, which purported to have been smuggled from the penitentiary, said the prisoner was to get out and hold a party at a New York apartment celebrating his release.

Last night, when both Sirico and de Stefano arrived at the party, they found four policemen awaiting them. They then learned that the letter had been sent by penitentiary authorities.

Texas Merchant Gives Clothing to City's Poor

Dallas, Tex., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Having never forgotten kindnesses shown him when he came to the United States years ago to escape poverty and hunger in eastern Europe, L. Ruda, Dallas clothing merchant, today opened his store and distributed gifts of wearing apparel to 3,700 of this city's poor.

FIND ASSASSIN HAD NO AIDS IN ARGENTINE PLOT

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Police investigation into the attempt on the life of President Hipolito Yrigoyen yesterday satisfied them that Gualterio Marinelli acted alone and not as the agent of an organized band. On the other hand, it appeared that Marinelli, who was killed by shots of the presidential escort, had planned his attempt at assassination carefully.

It was found he had bought a revolver some time ago and had practiced marksmanship with it on several occasions. It also was established that he had appeared daily near the presidential palace and peeped into the gateway to observe the door of the house.

No motive has been found for the shooting. Marinelli was not associated with the known anarchistic circles here and had lived quietly as a dental mechanic. The police, however, have taken a number of suspected anarchists into custody, in an effort to establish some connection between them and Marinelli.

"FRIENDLY" ROW COSTS LIVES OF 2 ON CHRISTMAS

Toledo, O., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Two men paid with their lives in a quarrel which began as a "friendly argument" early today.

Edward Shofner, 43, widower and father of a 9 year old son, was killed, and Paul Smith, 34, left a widow, a young son and daughter when he died of wounds received in the altercation.

Patrolmen Mills and Rosenthal, who were summoned to the scene, were unable to learn the cause of the shooting other than that Shofner had wanted to leave the house to visit relatives and Smith had insisted that he stay. Shofner lived at the Smith home.

When police arrived Shofner was lying dead on the sidewalk and Smith was on the front porch threatening the officers. Patrolman Mills grappled with him and in the struggle Smith was shot in the head.

TAKEN FROM JAIL, SHOT AND HURLED OVER CLIFF TO DIE

Kentucky Mob Avenges Slaying by a Tenant.

Jackson, Ky., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Chester Fugate, a tenant farmer, held for the slaying of his landlord, was taken from the Breathitt county jail this morning, shot half a dozen times, and thrown over a cliff where, five hours later, his prayers and groans attracted help.

Fugate was brought to a hospital here and when it was learned that he was not expected to live, his signed statement was taken. He is said to have stated that he recognized several of the mob, but county officials declined to give their names pending arrests.

The mob that avenged the death of Clay Watkins, lawyer and wealthy land owner, worked quietly and apparently under good leadership. Five men about 2 a. m. slipped into the bedroom of Sollie Combs, the jailer, in his home adjoining the jail. Combs said that before he was fully awake his arms and feet had been bound. He woke to a warning to keep quiet if he valued his life.

Jailer Helpless, He Says.

"I couldn't make an outcry," Combs said. "They had guns on me and had my hands and legs tied. Then they took the keys and went and got Fugate. That's all I know. There were five in my room. There must have been 75 to 100 in the crowd."

The men did not harm the 25 other prisoners in the jail but sought out Fugate's cell, hustled him out into the snow, and drove away. The jailer's son, Louis Combs, sleeping in an upstairs room, heard the noise and gave the alarm. A deputy sheriff fired a few shots as the crowd drove off and then search was begun, Sheriff S. J. Cockrell being aroused.

Cries Heard by Farmer.

Five hours later, Jim Butler, a farmer, going out to pick fodder, heard a man praying and groaning. He summoned help, and Fugate was brought to the hospital here. It was not believed that he could survive the wounds and exposure. He had been shot in the head, body and limbs, and had suffered greatly by lying in the heavy snow at the bottom of a ditch. He had been hurled some twenty feet from the roadway also.

Fugate, who is 25 years old, was not married but lived with his aged father and several brothers. His quarrel with Watkins was said to have occurred over his claim that the latter failed to pay him for some coal that Fugate had dug for the lawyer. Watkins and Fugate met a week ago in a country store near here and the quarrel was renewed. Fugate shot him to death. Watkins, who was 45, was married and had two children.

Five Burned by Kerosene Blast; 2 Victims May Die

A father, a mother, their four months' old son, and two Christmas day guests were severely burned yesterday when the father, Louis Liska, 22 years old, 1442 South 51st avenue, Cicero, sought to quicken the fire in the family stove by pouring kerosene upon it. An explosion resulted. A passing taxi driver heard the cries of the victims and took Liska and the baby to Frances Willard hospital, where physicians said their burns might prove fatal.

DR. SNOOK UNAWARE HE MAY HAVE EATEN LAST YULE DINNER

Ohio State Penitentiary, Columbus, O., Dec. 25.—[U.P.]—Unaware that his doom is sealed in so far as the Ohio courts are concerned, Dr. James Howard Snook, former university professor under sentence to die Jan. 31 for the murder of his co-ed inamorata, Theora Hix, sat down today to what may be his last Christmas dinner.

The bald, bespectacled ex-professor was not advised, in keeping with the spirit of Christmas, that the State Supreme court yesterday refused to review his case—that only the United States Supreme court or possible executive clemency stands between him and the electric chair.

"I'll tell him after Christmas," Warden P. E. Thomas said. "I'd rather not spoil the day for him."

WEDDING BRINGS MIXUP, BUT IT'S ALL IN FAMILY

Cadillac, Mich., Dec. 25.—[U. P.]—Theodore Renner married his stepsister, Hazel Selden, here last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Goodman and the following relationship situations resulted:

Mrs. Goodman is now step-mother and mother-in-law to the groom, and mother and step-mother-in-law to the bride.

Goodman is both step-father and step-father-in-law to Renner.

The groom is step-brother and step-brother-in-law to his former brothers and sisters and step-brothers and step-sisters.

EX-MANAGER OF GILDA GRAY GETS YULE DIVORCE

Maquoketa, Ia., Dec. 25.—[U. P.]—C. D. Krepps, famed as business manager of Gilda Gray, said today that a divorce which had been granted his wife constituted a "mighty fine" Christmas present.

Krepps was notified yesterday that an absolute divorce had been given Alice Krepps in St. Louis on grounds of incompatibility of temperament. Previously she had brought suit for separate maintenance, charging that Krepps married her to spite the shimmy-dancing Gilda Gray.

3 Suspects in $93,000 Bank Robbery Being Held

Peru, Ind., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Three men suspected as the bandits who held up the First National bank here Oct. 19 and robbed it of $93,000 were being held in the Miami county jail here tonight. The men, partially identified by the bank employés, are John D. Nolan, 29; J. W. West, 36, and Harry Cook, 26, all of Lafayette. They denied any knowledge of the robbery when questioned tonight, but will be questioned again tomorrow by Indianapolis and Chicago detectives.

LONDON "QUIET AS A MOUSE" ON CHRISTMAS DAY

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 25.—The last wreath of holly has disappeared from the curbs of Covent garden and market crowds which have infested the shopping district for the last few days have been mysteriously swallowed up—the curbstone peddlers wearing false noses, eyes, teeth, and ears, in the evident belief that a horrible appearance thus created attracts trade, have folded up their bags and gone home, and London has once more achieved the annual feat of hiding some 10,000,000 citizens from view.

The world's greatest metropolis is certainly the deadest spot in the world on Christmas day. Those who have not gone to the continent or the country for the holidays have withdrawn to their homes, for the English Christmas is essentially a home celebration.

Only "Bobbies" on Streets.

Streets are deserted save for an occasional policeman, and even Fleet street, which is the busy home of newspaperdom and is usually alive all night as London slumbers, is abandoned today, for no newspapers appear either on Christmas or Boxing day, the holiday which follows Christmas. Street cars, subways, and buses are running minimum services and many quarters in the city are not served at all.

Shops are closed, with curtains drawn or with boards shutting off façades. Even theaters and cinemas are not operating.

But tomorrow gayety breaks loose with equal proportions to today's dullness. Boxing day is the beginning of a series of parties and balls and social affairs of all kinds, culminating on New Year's eve, when all sorts of entertainments take place. The most notable event is the Chelsea arts ball in Albert hall, where all the participants this year will wear costumes connected with the story of Noah's Ark, the selection of which has already brought forth some of the most ingenious animal costumes.

Germany Buys Christmas Trees.

BERLIN, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Germany today celebrated Christmas with less money than last year, but with the same traditional cheer and devotion that have characterized the day for centuries.

The economic distress of recent months, of which the increased unemployment speaks eloquently, made necessary restriction of gifts particularly in the luxury class, but this seemed to prevent no one from acquiring a Christmas tree, without which this festival is unthinkable to a German.

So devoted are the Germans to the Christmas tree that the American idea of a community tree has made great strides, since it was introduced only a year ago. This was especially true in Bavaria, and among other municipalities. Munich erected a splendid spruce on Lenbach square in the center of the artists' colony.

Trees in Public Square.

Other communities having notable public trees were Mittenwald, center of the violin industry; Garmisch-Partenkirchen and Berchtesgaden, famous for winter sports, and Rosenheim, a bathing resort. In the Harz mountains, too, many towns had a community tree about which school children sang carols. Public squares in Berlin, Potsdam, Frankfort, Magdeburg, Dresden, Stuttgart and Elbing were similarly decorated.

In the great central lobby of the reichstag, a scene of many bitter campaigns, two huge trees flanked the statue of the founder of the former empire, Wilhelm I. The federal railways carried out the American idea by placing trees in many instances at railway stations to cheer passengers forced to travel on the day regarded as most sacred in Germany.

Bootleg Trees in Russia.

MOSCOW, Dec. 25.—[U.P.]—Soviet propaganda against religion did not prevent thousands of persons from celebrating Christmas with bootlegged trees and last year's decorations. Sale of both trees and decorations was prohibited.

Crowds attended anti-religious ceremonies and carnivals and other atheist attractions, one of which was called "the funeral of religion."

Hundreds of churches throughout Russia have been transformed into clubs and warehouses and tons of church bells consigned to the junk heap. Everywhere there were special window displays against priests. The orthodox Christmas falls on Jan. 7.

Buenos Aires Swelters.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 25.—Christmas day in Buenos Aires was one of suffocating heat which, however, did not prevent an enormous consumption of turkey and plum pudding in the British, American and German communities. Oddly enough, races were run in extraordinarily good time at the Palermo track, where one horse set up a South American record of 1,700 meters in one minute forty-two seconds.

SHOT RESISTING ROBBERS.

Adolph Sirsinski, 39 years old, 3151 Emerald avenue, resisted two bandits at 32d street and Emerald avenue early yesterday and received a bullet wound in the right foot. The bandits fled empty handed.

PARIS COLLECTS OVER $600,000 IN TAXES ON CHRISTMAS FOWL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Dec. 25.—Through a municipal tax on all food products brought inside of Paris three days before Christmas, this city made $628,800 on turkeys, geese, and chickens that graced Parisian tables today.

Exercising a privilege that is a hangover of the middle ages, the municipality collects approximately 2 cents a pound on turkey brought into the town. Over $20,000,000 is taken in annually at the city gates, where agents assess all food and fuel and other staples. The figures for holiday fowl are higher than any other year in history, which indicates an extraordinary prosperity.

France spent a snowless Christmas, with sunshine prevailing on the Riviera. In Paris the temperature rose to 70 degrees.

CHURCH SERVICES SPREAD YULETIDE GOOD WILL SPIRIT

Christian Unity Stressed by the Rev. McAfee.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Good will pervaded Chicago as Christmas devotions of the churches ended and the people reassembled around the laden dinner tables. Sectarianism reached a low ebb as the Christmas spirit spread. It struck every section of the city. Even non-Christian groups felt its force.

As a priest hurried to his rectory after services yesterday noon, he swung his car around a corner on the near north side. Another car approached which he did not see until too late. The two cars crashed. Fenders crumpled. The occupant of the other car was a Jew.

Greetings Follow Crash.

"This is Christmas," said the Jew, "and we won't fight about it. Nobody was to blame."

"Merry Christmas," shouted the priest, and to his greeting came the reply:

"Same to you."

In his sermon yesterday at the Fourth Presbyterian church, Dr. Cleland B. McAfee, moderator of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church, declared that the complexity of modern life is answered by the simplicity of the manger birth of Christ. Later in the day, Dr. McAfee, who is an acknowledged leader among the Protestant churches of the country in the move for church unity, declared that the Christmas spirit finally is a spirit of unity.

Urges Unity That Is Visible.

However, Dr. McAfee pointed out that the spirit of unity is not enough, and declared that the unity must be something that the world can see.

"The present spiritual unity of Protestantism may be sufficient for us, or even for Our Lord," Dr. McAfee declared, "but it is not enough for the world. If we actually have a unity, the world ought to be able to see it. And the world will not be able to realize it until it is worked out in an organic way."

Representative members of the various Presbyterian bodies will meet in January at Pittsburgh to discuss means of uniting the groups into one organic whole, according to Dr. McAfee. He stated that the purpose of the meeting will be to aid the movement beyond Presbyterian borders. Representatives of the northern and southern branches of the Presbyterian church, as well as the United Presbyterian and the German and Dutch Reformed churches will be present.

Plan Other Meeting.

"The Presbyterian church has a standing committee on church unity," said Dr. McAfee. "This committee is composed of President J. Rose Stevenson of Princeton Theological seminary, the Rev. Dr. W. P. Merrill of New York and the Rev. Dr. J. A. Vance of Detroit."

Dr. McAfee said this committee has recently met with representatives from the Methodist Episcopal and the Protestant Episcopal churches with such success that another meeting of the three committees has been called at Atlantic City in June.

Hundreds of automobile loads of his followers greeted the return of the Rev. Paul Rader, pastor of the Chicago Gospel Tabernacle, 825 Barry avenue, yesterday. Dr. Rader spent the last five months in a world tour in which he studied Christian missions in all lands. He will resume his leadership of the Tabernacle at once.

STORE MANAGER ROBBED OF $1,500.

Harry Stiegle, manager of a men's store at 407 East 47th street, was robbed of $1,500 in cash and checks early yesterday by two armed bandits.

TRUCKMAN FINDS COUGH-RELIEF ON CAR RIDE

MR. LOUIS F. BRAUN

Car-card Introduces him to REM

Mr. Louis F. Braun of 72 E. McMicken Ave., Cincinnati, spends most of his time on a truck—and he doesn't find it all easy riding. There are lots of hours and days he must spend in the cold and wet. One day he had a very bad cough when he happened to ride on a street car. There he saw a REM card, and decided to give it a chance to prove its worth. Mr. Braun found that "REM was just what it claimed to be, for it relieved my cough very quickly." Mr. Braun's bottle is only one of the 10 million bottles of REM that have been sold under an absolute "money-back" guarantee. Yet not one customer in a thousand ever wanted it back! There's a record for you!

REM has "made good" in over 10 million cases. Follow the 10 million!

KONJOLA

MRS. MAURICE SMITH
(Photo by Hollywood Studio.)

. . . sold on a record of deeds; not of promises. Times without number Konjola, the new and different medicine, has ended indigestion when all hope of relief had been abandoned. Read of the experience of Mrs. Maurice Smith, 6113 South Park avenue, Chicago, who said a few days ago:

"For ten years I suffered intensely from indigestion and inactive bowels. After eating, my food lay in my stomach in a sodden mass. I became run down generally, and was very nervous. I tried everything that was recommended, but found no relief until I tried Konjola. Just as I was told it would, Konjola gave speedy and thorough results. Four bottles of this remarkable medicine put an end to both of my troubles. My nerves are calm; I can eat anything; am sleeping fine and am gaining in weight and strength."

INSANE FARMER SLAYS WIFE, SIX CHILDREN, SELF

Killer Prepares Victims for Burial.

Walnut Cove, N. C., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Becoming suddenly insane, C. D. Lawson, 43 year old Stokes county farmer, today killed his wife and six of their seven children and, after laying them out for burial, killed himself with a shotgun.

Lawson's body was found about half a mile from the home with a wound in his chest.

At the home were the bodies of Mrs. Lawson, 38; Marie, 17; James, 7; Raymond, 5, and Mary Lou, four months. The mother and her oldest daughter had been shot in the chest, apparently with the same gun the father used to end his own life. James, Raymond and Mary Lou had been beaten to death with a blunt instrument.

Two Shot in Back.

In a tobacco barn a quarter of a mile away neighbors found the bodies of Carrie Lawson, 14, and Maribelle, 11. They had been shot in the back. Blood on snow outside the building led to the discovery of the bodies in the outbuilding.

The father, after he had slaughtered his wife and children, carefully prepared them for burial. He closed their eyes and folded their hands over their breasts. The heads of the five victims found in the home were placed on pillows. Old sacks were placed under the heads of the two girls whose bodies were found in the tobacco barn.

Kills Self in Woods.

After he had done this, Lawson, believed to have become deranged from a blow he received on the head a year ago, went into the woods and shot himself to death.

Arthur, a 19 year old son, who was visiting an uncle near Germantown, in Stokes county, a few miles from Walnut Cove, was the only member of the immediate family to escape the crazed man's carnage. He was prostrated when he returned home and learned of the tragedy.

Doctor, Wife, Nephew Slain.

Knoxville, Tenn., Dec. 25.—(AP)—The motive for the slaying of Dr. Barclay J. Jones, 61-year-old physician, his wife, Mrs. Lucy Lane Jones, 52, and her nephew, George Lane, 13, mystified different officials investigating the killing since discovery of the three bodies this morning.

All had been beaten to death. A coroner's jury this afternoon returned a verdict of murder by some unknown person with robbery as a motive.

Sheriff Walker Anderson and his son, Deputy Sheriff Anderson, however, expressed belief that the slaying had followed an attack on Mrs. Jones and announced that they were seeking a young Negro named Sam, who had been employed in the household for the past week.

Door Broken Open.

Sam, the Sheriff said, made his home in the basement, where Mrs. Jones' stripped body was found with that of her young nephew nearby. He also said the door of her bedroom had been broken open and her bed was in a state of extreme disorder.

The body of Dr. Jones, who was one of the most prominent physicians in Knoxville, was found on the floor of a garage. A blood-stained axe and a pair of hedge clippers, also blood-stained, were found nearby.

The bodies were discovered by Bert Lane, well known business man and a brother of Mrs. Jones, who was bearing Christmas gifts to the household. He first called on the telephone, but no one answered. On arriving at the home, which is about three miles from the center of the city, he found the house locked and forced entry. Entering he found the bodies of Mrs. Jones and the boy in the basement and then went to the garage, where he found the body of Dr. Jones.

Ice Crushes Byrd Whaling Boats; Crews Reported Safe

LONDON, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Exchange telegraph dispatches from Wellington, New Zealand, today reported that the crews of two whaling expeditions sent out by the Byrd antarctic expedition had been rescued after their boats had been crushed in the ice. The news was received by the Byrd supply ship, "Eleanor Bolling" by wireless. The Eleanor Bolling is now at Dunedin, New Zealand.

Capt. H. H. Rolley, New York representative of the Byrd expedition, said he did not know of "any whaling expeditions" having been sent out by the Byrd party. He said, however, the whaling ship Neilsen Alonso left her base in New Zealand recently for whaling grounds, and carried supplies for the exploring party on the ice barrier, and which were to be transferred to one of the small "chaser" whaling ships.

CLAIMS GENERAL CONFESSED PLOT BEFORE DYING

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 25.—(AP)—A report to the government by Gen. Juan Felipe Rico, military commander at Nogales, on the execution recently of Gen. Carlos Bouquet and the detention of seven companions, was made public here today.

It said that prior to the execution, Bouquet, in a signed statement, said he had been commissioned by José Vasconcelos, defeated candidate for the presidency, who now is in the United States, to recruit revolutionists on the Mexican Pacific coast and that he had gone to Nogales to receive orders, money and munitions from a revolutionary directorate established at Tucson, Ariz.

Those apprehended with Gen. Bouquet have been handed over to the federal attorney general for prosecution.

FEEDER BUS O. K. ON JAN. 7 WILL END LONG BATTLE

Hadley Sees Early Action for Northwest Side.

The operation of feeder bus lines on the northwest side by the Chicago Surface lines on a 7 cent fare basis, recently upheld by the Supreme court, may be authorized by the Illinois commerce commission when that body reconvenes at Springfield on Jan. 7 after the holiday recess. This was announced yesterday by Chairman Charles W. Hadley after the commission was served Tuesday with a copy of the Supreme court's sustaining order and a mandamus to reinstate a previous order, allowing feeder buses.

Favorable action by the commission will end a two year fight by northwest side residents for adequate transportation at a 7 cent fare, with street car transfer privileges. The residents carried their protest against the Chicago Motor Coach company's 10 cent fare without street car transfers through the Central Northwest Business Men's association and more than a hundred civic bodies. Color was given to the campaign when "kitchen armies," organizations of housewives, laid siege to the commission's offices during hearings.

Plan Trackless Trolley.

The street car company has stated it has sufficient money to finance the buses. The company proposes to operate electric buses that derive their power from trolleys, but do not use tracks. The wires will permit a deviation of about ten feet on either side for passing moving or parked vehicles.

The feeder bus controversy opened late in 1927 when the street car company asked permission to operate. On Jan. 26, 1928, the Illinois commerce commission, then headed by Patrick Moynihan, issued an order granting the right to operate on a number of northwest side streets, principally on Diversey and Belmont avenues. The order was protested by the motor coach company.

At a number of hearings witnesses protested that revocation of the seven cent feeder bus order would force thousand of residents to pay 17 cents to get to work or the loop. However, on Sept. 20, 1928, the commission set aside the grant of Jan. 26, ruling that the street car company could not legally operate feeder buses. The following Oct. 3 the commission decreed that the service could be supplied by the motor coach company.

Victory in High Court.

The decision was appealed in behalf of civic organizations by Attorneys Henry M. Ashton and R. T. O'Keefe. Circuit Judge Otto Kerner reversed the commission's decision. He was upheld by the Supreme court last Oct. 26. The bus company petitioned for a rehearing and this was refused on Dec. 12. The attorneys petitioned for an immediate hearing before the commission on Tuesday, but Chairman Hadley ordered a delay so that proper legal notice might be given to interested parties.

BERLIN, Dec. 25.—[U.P.]—One hundred and seventy-nine political prisoners were accorded amnesty today as the Christmas gift of the Saxon government.

TWO FAMILIES GET TWIN GIRLS AS YULE PRESENTS

Five future Chicagoans are to be subjected to the varying experiences of having their birthdays fall on Christmas day. This became a certainty yesterday when two sets of twins arrived at the Chicago Lying-in hospital, followed closely upon the heels of a fifth infant born upon the stroke of midnight on Tuesday.

One set of twins, both girls, was born to Mrs. William Siedler, 4633 Barry avenue, with Dr. Frank Whiteacre in attendance. The other set of twins, also girls, was presented by Mrs. Geraldine Goldman as a Christmas present to her husband, Martin Goldman, 4322 West 16th street. The fifth baby was a nine and a half pound boy, born just after midnight yesterday to Mrs. Charles Rizzo, 3721 Division street. All five infants and their mothers were reported by physicians as doing well.

JAPANESE VISION LOCARNO OF SEAS WITH U.S., BRITAIN

Scheme Would Offset Paris-Rome Pact.

[Copyright: 1929: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, Dec. 25.—Suggestions from Paris and London that a Mediterranean Locarno might solve the Franco-Italian naval problems, and the problems of both these countries vis-a-vis England, have aroused keen attention here.

The Japanese naval men have always seen that the Franco-Italian claims might throw a monkey wrench into the five power conference machinery by forcing Great Britain to stiffen her cruiser standards, which Japan wants to see lowered as a step toward American reduction.

Some reports reaching here describe the proposed pact as merely bringing about Franco-Italian parity in the Mediterranean. Others represent it as a full blown Locarno, in which the British navy would guarantee either country against aggression.

Vision Atlantic Locarno.

An extremely important potential development of this idea would be an Atlantic Locarno, in which England and America might guarantee each other against a violator of the Kellogg pact.

Such an arrangement would open the way to that reduction in Anglo-American parity figures at which Japan's policy is aiming, and would receive Japan's benevolent support. It might also form a model for the expansion of the Washington four power pact into a Pacific Locarno, linked with the anti-war treaty.

All those eventualities are possible, although Prime Minister MacDonald's statement to the house of commons that the conference will discuss naval strength only, and not naval policies, seems to rule them out. Japan is ready to consider them all, but will not take the lead, since her attitude is based on the simple principle that her demand does not menace America, while the American demand contains a potential menace to Japan.

No Instructions for Pact.

It is premature to say that the Japanese delegates have been instructed to align themselves with England and America should France and Italy form a bloc against the Anglo-Saxon powers. Such instructions are unnecessary. Japan has almost no interest in the French and Italian navies, whereas her naval building policy is directly affected by America's, and her national policy is generally profoundly influenced by the importance of maintaining good relations with America and England.

The Japanese agree with the French on the necessity for keeping submarines, but on general issues of the conference their interests wholly depend on reaching an understanding with the United States, and in the event of the conference dividing into a continental and Anglo-Saxon bloc, Japan will gravitate towards the latter, where all her interests draw her.

Holds Balance of Power.

At London, as at Geneva, conditions make Japan the natural balance holder between England and America and the general agreement on principle reached at Washington in favor of reduction has shown Japanese statesmen that they will again have a mediatory rôle. They will use it in the direction of reducing other navies to a figure which will enable them to cultivate security and economy together. A tripartite Anglo-American-Japanese agreement would suit Japan well enough, but the government believes this eventuality entirely depends on whether Great Britain can accept it.

NASON WANTS AUTO THROWN INTO OCEAN TO SAVE DUTY BILL

Boston, Mass., Dec. 25.—[Special.]—With the arrival of his second hand automobile in New York last Tuesday aboard the Leviathan, Leonard Nason, Cohasset war writer, became a man without a country, he revealed tonight.

"I ducked the French income tax as a nonresident," he explained, "and now I'm bringing this car in on a ninety day tourist permit, so I can't be a resident of the United States."

Last Friday Nason telephoned the Leviathan 1,500 miles at sea to dump his chariot overboard, inasmuch as it is worth not more than $300 now and would cost him almost twice that sum in customs charges in New York.

"But they had it in the bottom of the hold or something," the harried Mr. Nason said, "and it would have cost almost as much to get it out as the customs outfit is planning to hook me for it."

Train Kills Three on Way to Christmas Dinner

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 25.—Mrs. Hannah Redmond, 74, her son, John, and her son-in-law, Robert Morrison, were killed at Islington, a Toronto suburb, today when an express train crashed into their automobile. They were on their way to Christmas dinner at the home of their son-in-law and were within 200 yards of his home. The aged woman's first government old age pension check was found in her purse.

FRENCH ENVOY TO REMAIN IN RUSSIA DESPITE "INSULT"

Refusal of Roumanian Note Angers Paris.

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Dec. 26.—[Thursday.]—The French foreign office this morning issued an official note denying that Jean Herbette, French ambassador to Moscow, intends to return to Paris following Maxim Litvinoff's blunt refusal to accept the Roumanian note of intervention in the Russo-Chinese conflict. The short communique, which makes no comments on the incident, merely sets out that Ambassador Herbette merely acted as an intermediary on behalf of countries not diplomatically represented at Moscow and that therefore France does not consider herself insulted.

The incident had been construed as an insult last night in the semi-official Temps which printed a vitriolic article on the rough and ready diplomatic methods used by Moscow. Russia's sharp reply to the Washington note on the Russian-Chinese imbroglio was cited. "The gentry of Moscow, being what they are, one must not expect any act of courtesy from them," the paper went on to say, referring to the Roumanian note affair.

Moscow Taunts French Power.

As one of the signers of the Kellogg anti-war pact and in accordance with a circular request to the signatories from Washington, Roumania addressed a note of protest to Russia over the Manchurian war. There being no diplomatic relations between Roumania and Russia the note was presented to Under Secretary of Foreign Affairs Litvinoff by M. Herbette. M. Litvinoff frankly took the document from his hands but announced that even the French government was not strong enough to make Russia accept the note of the admonishments of a third class power like Roumania. Unofficial Paris circles regarded this as a slight to France.

"The mistake is in wanting to entrain official relations with a revolutionary government which affects sovereign scorn of its international obligations," said Le Temps.

Try Not to Insult U. S.

The paper went on to point out that Litvinoff was willing to accept the American note delivered by Ambassador Herbette although America does not recognize Russia either, and was careful not to insult her as he did Roumania.

"This is the way the soviets understand equality in theory and in the equity of peoples. We must draw a moral from all this, and that is, it is useless to try to treat such a government courteously," Le Temps concluded.

GANGSTER SLAIN AND BODY LEFT NEAR HIS AUTO

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Frank Cosenteno, 36, alleged gangster, was found shot to death today in North St. Louis with his blood stained automobile nearby. The body was in a shallow ditch.

John Cosenteno, a brother, identified the body but declared he knew nothing of the shooting. Three men were rounded up for questioning, including Carmela Frisina, alias Charles Freese, whom police said was closely associated with the slain man.

Police believe Consenteno "was taken for a ride" in his own automobile, shot from the side, his body tossed out, and the car abandoned.

An attempt to assassinate Consenteno was made in April, 1928, when a machine gun crew opened fire on him at Edwardsville, Ill.

REVEAL COUNT AS LEADER OF RARE STAMP FAKERS

Collectors Pay Dearly for Counterfeits.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LISBON, Dec. 25.—A gang of counterfeiters has been uncovered here—but instead of counterfeiting money, they counterfeit postage stamps, and not current issues, either. Their specialty is duplicating rare stamps and selling the frauds to collectors at high prices.

The value of the counterfeit stamps exported to New York during the last year is estimated to be $40,000. The greatest single victim, it is said, is a well known stamp collector of Chicago, who has completed his collection in several groups by means of the faked stamps from Portugal.

The counterfeiting band was discovered when a rare Prussian stamp, of an issue which had been destroyed owing to a mistake in the engraving, except a single copy reserved for the collection of the former crown prince, was counterfeited and a copy sold to two collectors. Both men were proud of possessing what they believed to be a unique stamp.

Experts examined the stamps and declared both copies false. Tracing the sources from which the stamps emanated narrowed the trail down to a single source, a group of stamp sellers headed by Count Toljouk, who was arrested in Budapest. He admitted that Portugal was the site of the workshop where the fake stamps were produced.

The counterfeiter was discovered to be a skilful engraver who had long attracted the attention of the police because he lived in an ostentatious style, although his only apparent means of support was a small engraving establishment. A legitimate business was carried on in the engraving shop during the day, and at night the dies for the counterfeit stamps were made.

The biggest single coup brought off during the year was stated to be the sale of a single counterfeit stamp to a Chicago collector for $3,000.

Business Man Attempts to End Life; Blame Worries

Financial worries, police believe, were responsible for the attempted suicide yesterday of Hyman Mendelson, a well to do retired business man. Mendelson was found unconscious in the gas filled kitchen of his home at 1108 North Richmond street with his wrists slashed. He was taken to the North American hospital.

PILOT IS HAPPY AFTER CRASH; HE WILL RECOVER

Informed that his injuries were not as serious as they were believed to be at first, Thomas Hill, 26 years old, of Kalamazoo, Mich., last night viewed philosophically the crash of the air mail plane which he was flying from Chicago to Detroit Tuesday night. Hill is in St. Anthony's hospital at Michigan City, with both jaws broken, his face lacerated and his back injured, but he observed that it "isn't such a bad Christmas after all," when physicians told him he would recover.

Hill crashed in a snowstorm on the farm of Fred Bantwart near Michigan City, when he tried to land after failing to find the Chesterton landing field light. Bannwart seeing the flares, which Hill dropped and hearing the drone of the faltering motor, pulled Hill from the wreckage of the plane and took him to the hospital. Michigan City policemen saved the seven bags of mail which Hill was carrying.

NEW PAY CRISIS IS SIGHTED FOR SCHOOL BOARD

No Help Expected from City and Bankers.

The board of education may face a new financial crisis in meeting its January pay roll, school officials said yesterday. The board was able to meet the holiday pay roll on Christmas eve after four days delay by raising a loan through an extra-legal expedient.

Before raising funds through the sale of 1930 tax anticipation warrants, the board must adopt its 1930 budget and obtain the city counsel's approval of the school tax levy ordinance. Members of the council committee on finance have said the city tax levy ordinance probably will not be passed before Jan. 22. This will be too late to aid the board in meeting the next pay roll, due on Jan. 30.

Selling Warrants a Problem.

Another problem, the more serious of the two, is the question of whether the board can find a market for the tax warrants after they can be issued.

Loop bankers have declined to make further loans to the board and little help, according to reports, can be expected from the city council. In signing the interim certificates making it possible for the board to pay the teachers on Christmas eve, City Controller Schmidt said it was the last time the city would come to the aid of the board.

Trustee James A. Hemingway, chairman of the school finance committee, offered one solution of the problem last night.

"Since the attitude of the local bankers is not favorable to the board," he said, "we may have to go out of the city to sell our tax warrants."

Plan to Start on Budget.

As provided by the school relief bill, passed last summer by the legislature, the school budget may be adopted only between Jan. 1 and April 1. A public hearing is scheduled for Dec. 31 and after that the board will start shaping the budget for passage.

President Caldwell of the school board has said this work will require only two or three days. No controversy is expected over the educational fund appropriations, as teachers' salaries represent 87 per cent of the total.

As for the appropriations asked for the building fund and other funds, it is known that several trustees will oppose certain items. This may delay the final vote until late in January.

HARVARD JUNIOR, SON OF COLLEGE PROFESSOR, FALLS TO HIS DEATH

New York, Dec. 25.—(AP)—The pajama clad body of Benson Boring, 20 years old, a junior at Harvard university, was found in the courtyard of the home of his parents, Prof. and Mrs. William A. Boring, today by a Negro porter.

Police said he apparently had fallen from the window of his room on the eleventh floor. His father is a professor at Columbia university.

The youth's mother was hysterical when informed of his death. Prof. Boring scouted the idea that his son might have committed suicide.

The boy had arrived home Saturday to spend the Christmas holidays. He was an only child. Christmas eve he went out and returned home at about 3 a. m. His father told detectives that the boy had first gone to the ice box for some cold duck and wine and had then retired. He then became ill, apparently, and went to the window. It appeared that he lost his balance and fell to his death. In the fall he struck a fence which mangled his body. The porter, Thomas Owens, notified the police.

PREDICT FIGHT IN COUNCIL ON BUDGET SLASH

Committee to Get Report on Reductions Today.

A detailed budget report of what the city council finance committee accomplished when it tentatively cut the 1930 budget to $55,000,000 in an all night session on Monday will be given to the committee at a special meeting today at 2 p. m. The committee's staff worked all Tuesday on the report and plans to have it ready for this afternoon's meeting.

The budget probably will be presented to the city council on Monday. It is predicted that the 7 per cent reductions agreed upon by a majority vote in the committee will be challenged before the council by the three aldermen who led the fight against the slashes in the committee. Ald. Louis B. Anderson [3d], B. A. Cronson [4th], and Oscar Nelson [46th] were the administration councilmen who fought acceptance of the winning plan.

Chairman John S. Clark [30th] pointed out yesterday that while on the face of the budget it appears that a reduction of only $6,000,000 from the 1929 budget had been effected, the cut is really about $9,000,000 considering that $4,200,000 was appropriated for interest on tax anticipation warrants for 1930 as compared with the $1,000,000 appropriation in 1929.

Report 12 Killed, 6 Hurt as Train Crushes Auto Bus

ANNUAL SCIENCE CONVENTION TO START TONIGHT

Des Moines, Ia., Dec. 25.—(AP)—The eight day annual convention of the American Association for the Advancement of Science will open here tomorrow night with an assembly and reception for the education section at which E. G. Lockhart of the department of psychology of Drake university will present the first of the numerous papers to be given. His topic is "A Study of Children's Attitudes Toward Law."

More than 3,000 American and foreign visiting scientists are expected to attend. The sessions will be divided into more than a score of sections, from mathematics and astronomy to agriculture.

Papers will be presented by Dr. Henry Fairfield Osborn, retiring president of the organization and head of the American Museum of Natural History; Dr. Alex Hrdlicka, anthropologist; Dr. Irving Fisher, professor of economics at Yale university; Robert A. Millikan, physicist and incoming president of the organization, and many others.

OHIOAN NAMED PRESIDENT OF CHEMICAL BODY

New York, Dec. 25.—(AP)—The American Chemical society today announced the election of William McPherson, dean of the graduate school of Ohio State university, as president for 1930. He will take office on Jan. 1.

Moses Gomberg, professor of chemistry at the University of Michigan, was elected president for 1931, pursuant to a new policy of the society. Prof. James F. Norris of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and Charles L. Reese of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., Wilmington, Del., were elected directors for 1930-'32.

The Water Level Route ... Comfort

BLACKHAWK

...last word in modern transportation

SMOOTHLY over rails laid on a grade leveled by the Mississippi—the natural water level route—speeds the new Blackhawk to St. Paul and Minneapolis.

It is the latest, most modern triumph in travel luxury. A railroad's gift, at the start of it's eightieth year, to Chicago and the Northwest. One of the world's great trains!

Its new type Pullmans are matched, so that the color harmony of the entire train is uniform, restful. Try the deep seats. Note that each has a winged head rest, like a comfortable chair. In each berth are real reading lamps, new easy-to-open ventilators. You sleep on deep, cushion-spring mattresses.

A new feature is the unique mid-train salon car where you may secure bedrooms, compartments and drawing rooms individually, or en suite! In the same car is a spacious club lounge.

Ahead is the palatial ivory, blue and gold dining car. What meals it will serve! Waiters, chefs, steward are specially chosen. The full-length lounge car contains library, ladies' lounge, solarium, buffet, radio.

Beside the new Blackhawk the Burlington has inaugurated two other de luxe new Anniversary flyers. The Ak-Sar-Ben to Omaha, Lincoln. The Aristocrat to Denver.

Enjoy the new Blackhawk on your next trip to St. Paul or Minneapolis. Reservations and tickets, Union Station, Canal and Jackson Blvd. Telephone Franklin 6700; or at City Office, 179 W. Jackson. Telephone Wabash 4600. S. J. OWENS, General Agent.

AIRMAN FERRETS OUT SIBERIA CLEW IN EIELSON HUNT

Seattle, Wash., Dec. 25.—(AP)—A clew has been uncovered in the search for Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland, arctic flyers, missing more than six weeks, Alfred J. Lomen, director of rescue operations in Nome, informed the Seattle Times today. He said Pilot Joe Crosson radioed a message from the trading ship Nanuk, near North cape, Siberia, that traders and natives near there had heard Eielson's plane circling overhead for a long while as though seeking a place to land.

While not stated in the message, it is assumed that the plane was heard but seen flying from the Alaskan mainland to the icebound Nanuk to take passengers and furs off the manned vessel.

Lomen also said Crosson has had natives build a temporary hangar out of snow blocks near North Cape to shelter his plane and keep it out of the cold while warming the motor. Crosson, if weather permitted, planned to take the air in a further search today.

Russia's Air Hero Heads Hunt.

MOSCOW, Dec. 25.—(AP)—The soviet government today dispatched an airplane to search for Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland off the Siberian coast and ordered two other soviet planes to join in the mission. It was believed the ice in the district to be covered was too strong to permit the use of icebreakers.

Moscow authorities took prompt action on the request of Senator Borah of Idaho to Acting Foreign Commissar Litvinoff and the similar appeal of the United States department of the interior.

Sergyen Shestakov, a national hero upon his return after making a flight from Moscow to New York, was selected as the most able man to lead the rescue expedition. He will pilot an airplane of the same type as the Land of the Soviets, in which he and two companions flew across Siberia and over the northern reaches of the Pacific to Alaska, a route which took them close to where the American explorer and aviator is belived to have been lost.

Two Planes on Bering Strait.

Two of the soviet planes now are in Providence bay in the extreme northeast of Siberia on Bering strait. Another was at Cape Northern.

Cape Northern does not appear on available maps, but many of the promontories of the Siberian coast have several names given them by explorers and seamen of various nations.

Three Planes Leave Seward.

SEWARD, Alaska, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Three Fairchild airplanes, accompanied by a contingent of Canadian aviators, who will engage in the search for Pilot Carl Ben Eielson and Mechanic Earl Borland, left here at 2:15 p. m. today for Fairbanks aboard a combination freight and passenger train on the Alaska railroad.

The planes and flyers were en route to Fairbanks less than six hours after the coast guard cutter Chelan, which brought them from Seattle, arrived here. The planes will be assembled at Fairbanks and flown to Teller, Alaska.

From Teller the planes will hop off across Bering strait on the 500 mile flight to North Cape, Siberia. The Canadians expected to take off for Teller within 24 hours after they reach Fairbanks.

Missing Plane Returns.

Arrival of Pilot Bill Graham and his passengers, W. B. Miller and R. B. Atlas, who flew to Elephant point in connection with a huge reindeer drive now under way for the Canadian government, was reported by Pilots Dorladt and Cope, who flew yesterday from Teller, Alaska, to search for them. The party had been forced down by a storm at an isolated point.

Father Killed by Train on Way Home for Reunion

PLAN EDUCATION, NOT LAW, TO DRY UP MEXICANS

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Next year's program of the national anti-alcohol commission, created by President Portes Gil last April, will continue along the lines of persuasion and education rather than creation of restrictive measures, to curb the drink habit in Mexico.

Beginning on Jan. 1, the commission will have funds with which to work, and so will be able to expand its activities, thus far limited by the fact that it had no budget. The money, to be supplied by the government, will give the commission means of extending its educational campaign to the most remote parts of the country and reach precisely the people who owe their fondness for alcohol to ignorance.

President Portes Gil's aim in launching his anti-alcohol campaign was to carry to the people the conviction that the drink habit brings moral and physical unhappiness and to interest them in uplifting forms of diversion so as to keep their minds off liquor.

POLA AND PRINCE USE DIVORCE PAPERS TO KINDLE YULE FIRE

PARIS, Dec. 25.—[U. P.]—Pola Negri played Santa Claus today while her husband, Prince Serge Mdivani, with whom she was reconciled only last week, held a reception for hundreds of children at the chateau at Seraincourt.

Prince Serge and Miss Negri celebrated Christmas eve with a yule fire at the Crillon hotel, the fire being kindled with papers in the divorce case which they agreed to drop a few days ago.

"We intended to burn them ceremonially at our chateau," the prince said, "but we couldn't wait, so we burned them at the hotel. They were an eyesore to us and we are so happy."

In the Christmas exchange Miss Negri gave her husband two race horses which are to form the nucleus of a racing stable. Prince Serge gave the actress a diamond and emerald necklace.

ARIZONA CAPTIVE NOT BURKE; TO GET FREEDOM

Sheriff H. J. Patterson of Nogales, Ariz., on the Mexican border, last night notified the Chicago detective bureau and Sheriff Fred Bryant of St. Joseph, Mich., that finger prints of a man arrested there, on the belief that he was Fred R. Burke, did not resemble the classifications received from Chicago as Burke's. The sheriff said the prisoner, who identifies himself as Joseph Morrison, was about to be released.

Morrison was arrested Tuesday on suspicion that he had been connected with liquor running. When this charge was discovered to be false he was released. Soon after his release the sheriff saw a Chicago police bulletin with Murke's picture, and decided Morrison bore a striking resemblance to the man wanted in connection with the St. Valentine's day massacre. He sent a posse out and had Morrison taken back into custody again.

Burke on Dec. 16 shot and killed Policeman Charles Skelly of St. Joseph in the heart of that city. Later at his house $319,000 worth of stolen bonds and two machine guns were found.

TRACK ELEVATION BY NICKEL PLATE IS HELD UP AGAIN

Railroad Asks City to Give Up 103d Street.

The Nickel Plate railroad, in the reopened negotiations with the city to elevate its south side tracks to eliminate a number of grade crossings, has brought up a new problem, according to information obtained yesterday. The new difficulty is in the proposed disposition of 103d street, which is now blocked near an extended Jeffery avenue by the Nickel Plate tracks.

The ordinance ordering the elevations was passed two and a half years ago. It is reported that the railroad is willing to complete the required track elevation work if the city will give the company a clear title to 103d street. The Nickel Plate now has a number of tracks blocking an extension of that thoroughfare and plans, according to the information, to build a large railroad yard which 103d street would strike somewhere near the center.

If the railroad is not permitted to use 103d street it would have to move its yard southward with the street as the northern limit.

Plan Stony Island Extension.

A proposal has been made to open Stony Island avenue southward from 95th street to 103d street, Commissioner of Public Works Wolfe said yesterday. An extension of 103d street east to the new Stony Island avenue would be made, he said, but no crossing of the Nickel Plate tracks farther east is planned.

"The Nickel Plate is willing to continue its track elevation work, opening up 87th, 91st, 93d, and 100th streets and holding the disposition of 103d street in abeyance," said Commissioner Wolfe. "I have made it clear to Vice President Klein of the railroad that this procedure is not to prejudice the right of the city to a subway or viaduct for the opening of 103d street to the east.

"I regard it as better to let the railroad go ahead with 90 per cent of its track elevation work and hold the other 10 per cent in abeyance than to wait until an agreement is reached on 100 per cent of the work before anything is done. As to the final disposition of the street, which the railroad and the city both claim, I have made no decision, waiting for the residents of the district to tell me what they want done."

South Side "Chinese Wall."

The Nickel Plate tracks were characterized by Wolfe as a "Chinese wall," holding back the development of 5,000 acres of land in the vicinity. He pointed out that there is no through east and west thoroughfare between 95th and 147th streets and that at present 95th street is not in good condition.

Failure to keep 103d street for the city would increase hauling costs for industries in the Calumet region, Wolfe admitted. It is proposed, he said, to open 100th street and make it a boulevard which would not be available to trucks as an east to west highway.

The commissioner said that the damage to the city, in traffic delays, caused by the failure of the railroad to elevate its tracks in accordance with its agreement with the city, is so great that it cannot be estimated.

Other Track Elevation Plans.

In connection with track elevation work, Ald. A. J. Horan [29th], chairman of the council track elevation committee, wrote to all the railroads entering Chicago asking them what amount they intend to spend in Chicago next year. His request was based on the report to President Hoover that the railroads would undertake a billion dollars' worth of work in 1930.

Five railroads, Ald. Horan said, have replied to his communication and have estimated that they will spend approximately $6,300,000 if their plans mature. The railroads which sent answers are the Pennsylvania, Santa Fé, North Western, Baltimore and Ohio, and the Illinois Central.

The largest possible expenditure, Ald. Horan reported, would be $5,000,000 by the Pennsylvania in case negotiations for the elevation of its Englewood connecting branch tracks are successful. Property owners in the 16th ward have held a number of conferences with Commissioner Wolfe in an effort to obtain this elevation work. Whether the project is undertaken or not, the Pennsylvania, according to its officials, will spend $350,000 in track elevation work during 1930.

The Santa Fe railroad reported that its projects would cost $500,000 and an official of the North Western said that work would start on the elevation of that railroad's tracks through Norwood Park and Edison Park, which is expected to cost $300,000. An additional outlay of $150,000 by the North Western is contemplated if plans for a grade separation at Stewart avenue are accepted.

F. L. Thompson, vice president of the Illinois Central, wrote Ald. Horan that he is willing to work with the council committee on an ordinance for the elevation of the suburban tracks in 71st street and Exchange avenues.

BRITAIN BARS DUTCH AIR LINE TO EAST INDIES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

THE HAGUE, Dec. 25.—The British air ministry's uncompromising attitude has nipped in the bud plans for a new Dutch air line to the British East Indian possessions. The British have refused to allow Dutch planes further use of the air fields of British India, so Holland must discontinue air service, for the time being at least.

Only eight planes have been dispatched since the Dutch service began. A dispatch from Batavia announced the arrival of the last plane, which reached Java just before Christmas after covering the journey from Amsterdam in twelve days, carrying record air mail of about 700 pounds.

The success of the first few flights of the projected line has made the disappointment of the Dutch authorities at the attitude of the British particularly great.

Two Are Injured When Yule Package Explodes

Portland, Ore., Dec. 25.—(AP)—G. T. Woodlaw, owner of a theater here, was slightly injured and his daughter, Mrs. H. Kleinschmidt, was burned last night when a Christmas package delivered to Woodlaw at his office in the theater building exploded as he was opening it.

Voyager Freed on Xmas Day After Ocean Tragedy

CADIZ, Spain, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Dr. Francesco Franceschi Caballero has received his liberty as a Christmas gift from a Spanish court. The court found he was not responsible for the death of his one-man crew, Angel Carbo Rivera, drowned Sept. 3 at San Lucar de Barrameda, the day after they completed a voyage from San Juan, Porto Rico, by way of New York, in a 40 foot yacht. The stowaway on the voyage, Roberto Lopez, bore out the statement of the boat's commander that Carbo Rivera had picked a fight with him and had fallen overboard.

HIGH WINDS FROM LAKE MAKE COUGHS ON SHORE

HAROLD KAVANAGH

REM brings prompt relief however

Harold Kavanagh of 9 Iroquois St., Sea Breeze, N. Y., enjoys himself outdoors, no matter how cold the winter breezes blow in from Lake Ontario. For a cough isn't a calamity to Harold since his mother discovered REM. A neighbor had recommended it to Mrs. Kavanagh, when she was suffering from a severe cough, and it brought relief to her very quickly. "REM has always stopped Harold's coughs, too," she adds. This quick action of REM is due in part to a special ingredient that clings to the throat as it is swallowed and soothes the sore and irritated membranes. Try REM yourself. You'll find it quite an improvement over ordinary cough syrups.

REM's easy to take, too. Children and parents can both appreciate that

JAMES GRANT AND THE MAJESTY OF THE LAW.

James Grant, resisting arrest for shoplifting last week, killed Douglas Richeson, superintendent of maintenance of the Boston Store, a veteran of the 149th artillery, and wounded two other employés.

Grant is a habitual criminal, a very dangerous animal at large. His record is as follows: More than 30 years ago Grant, alias George Burns, alias Richard Byrne, alias James Baker, alias John Reams, etc., was a member of the old "Market street gang." Burglary, murder, rape, assault, and attempted murder comprise the list of his criminal activities. Grant has been known by a number almost as often as he has gone by one of his several names, the police records show.

As James Baker he was sentenced to one year in the Bridewell for burglary on Feb. 17, 1891. As Richard Byrne he was sent to Pontiac reformatory on Jan. 13, 1897, for burglary. He was paroled on July 26, 1898. As George Burns he was found guilty of disorderly conduct on Nov. 15, 1900, and fined $50.

As John Reams he was sentenced to Joliet prison on Aug. 5, 1903, for assault to rape. Under the same name he was committed to an insane asylum in March, 1905. As George Burns he was sentenced to Joliet for burglary on March 3, 1913. He served six months, was paroled on the honor farm, and was discharged on March 20, 1916.

As James Grant he was given one year in the Bridewell on Sept. 20, 1917, and fined $1,000 for assault with a deadly weapon by Judge Caverly.

Ten months ago Grant was released from Joliet after being sentenced by Judge Hugo Pam to fourteen years in prison for assault with intent to murder. He left behind him on the day he was sentenced, Nov. 1, 1920, a Lincoln park policeman, Otto Kalben, whom he had shot down in cold blood after haunting the park for a week. Kalben was responsible for sending Grant to the Bridewell in 1917 when the policeman found him molesting a little girl in the park.

The case of Grant is extreme, but not egregious. It is representative. Yet in the remarkable situation it illuminates the political preachers and the organizations whose political pressure they direct upon government remain singularly uninterested. American law enforcement has not yet contrived to deal efficiently with the primary needs of social protection from the habitual criminal, but that problem can be postponed while government undertakes to force teetotalism on a hundred and thirty million people.

A FORGOTTEN INCIDENT IN AMERICAN HISTORY.

When at its last session the Wisconsin senate passed a resolution calling upon the federal government to suppress the murders of prohibition and to bring guilty dry agents to justice it recalled to this department that Wisconsin had employed a somewhat similar method in protest against the fugitive slave law. Although there is no analogy between the prohibition and slave resolutions and although we by no means indorse the ideas of the earlier memorial, we are reproducing it for the information of our readers as an interesting episode of American history.

The incidents preliminary to the protest of 1859 are familiar to students of Wisconsin history. In 1854 a fugitive slave, Joshua Glover, was taken by government authorities in Racine, Wis., but he was captured from the officers by opponents of the fugitive slave law in Milwaukee. Sherman M. Booth, the editor of the Wisconsin Free Democrat, was held to trial before the United States District court on the charge of aiding in the forcible rescue of Glover. Before the session of the court Booth applied to the Wisconsin Supreme court for a writ of habeas corpus. The Wisconsin Supreme court discharged Booth on the ground that the fugitive slave law was "unconstitutional and void." Subsequently the United States Supreme court reviewed and reversed the decision of the Wisconsin Supreme court. Whereat the Wisconsin assembly adopted this resolution of protest:

"Whereas, the Supreme court of the United States has assumed appellate jurisdiction in the matter of the petition of Sherman M. Booth for a writ of habeas corpus, presented and prosecuted to final judgment in the Supreme court of this state, and has, without process, or any of the forms recognized by law, assumed the power to reverse that judgment in a matter involving the personal liberty of the citizen, asserted by and adjusted to him by the regular course of judicial proceedings upon the great writ of liberty secured to the people of each state by the constitution of the United States:

"And, whereas, such assumption of power and authority by the Supreme court of the United States, to become the final arbiter of the liberty of the citizen, and to override and nullify the judgments of the state courts' declaration thereof, is in a direct conflict with that provision of the constitution of the United States which secures to the people the benefits of the writ of habeas corpus; therefore,

"Resolved, the senate concurring, That we regard the action of the Supreme court of the United States, in assuming jurisdiction in the case before mentioned, as an arbitrary act of power, unauthorized by the constitution, and virtually superseding the benefit of the writ of habeas corpus and prostrating the rights and liberties of the people at the foot of unlimited power.

"Resolved, That this assumption of jurisdiction by the federal judiciary, in the said case, and without process, is an act of undelegated power, and therefore without authority, void, and of no force.

"Resolved, That the government formed by the constitution of the United States was not the exclusive or final judge of the extent of the powers delegated to itself; but that, as in all other causes of compact among parties having no common judge, each party has an equal right to judge for itself, as well of infraction as of the mode and measure of redress.

"Resolved, That the principle and construction contended for by the party which now rules in the councils of the nation, that the general government is the exclusive judge of the extent of the powers delegated to it, stop nothing short of despotism, since the discretion of those who administer the government, and not the constitution, would be the measure of their powers; that the several states which formed that instrument, being sovereign and independent, have the unquestionable right to judge of its infraction; and that a positive defiance of those sovereignties, of all unauthorized acts done or attempted to be done under color of that instrument, is the rightful remedy."

It will be plain to the reader of today that these resolutions amounted virtually to a secession from the constitutional system of the United States although that was far from the intention of their authors. The resolutions illustrate how a passionate partisanship will confuse the mind, and at this safe distance of time it is amusing to note that with New England, which was threatening to secede in the earlier days of the republic, and South Carolina, which threatened a little later and later still did secede, we must add to the history of secessionism these Wisconsin protestants of the great slavery crisis. Secession was not intended in this instance but the ideas were in effect a secession or, to put it otherwise, a repudiation of the constitutional system.

SAFETY IN THE MINES.

The American Association for Labor Legislation has issued a bulletin to its members on the mine disaster in North McAlester, Okla., in which sixty lives were lost. The victims have left two hundred and fifty dependents, none of whom will receive workmen's compensation. Because of the opposition of mine owners, the bulletin charges that the Oklahoma constitution has not been amended to permit the workmen's compensation law to cover fatal cases. Moreover, it is alleged that the owners have defeated mine safety bills, so that most casualty insurance companies decline mine risks in Oklahoma.

The coal industry is not prosperous. Because of the depression in the industry, economists have been tolerant of the employers' failure to reward labor as generously as employers in more successful enterprises. The financial plight of mine labor has been regretted, but impartial observers have been convinced that relief is not now at the disposal of the owners.

There is no apology, however, for mine owners who refuse to equip their properties with every method available for the protection of the lives of their employés. The inhuman owner may object that an investment in safety for the miners is not productive. The argument is not admissible even if it were true. If mine owners neglect to install safety equipment and if they continue to lobby against ordinances requiring the equipment, they may expect even greater state interference in the industry, if not, indeed, serious agitation for state operation of the mines. An investment to forestall these consequences may certainly be counted as productive.

Editorial of the Day

CENSORSHIP IN NEW YORK AND BOSTON.

[New York Herald Tribune.]

We are lucky who live in New York. Our judges and magistrates have faith in us. As Magistrate Brodsky remarked in dismissing one of Mr. Sumner's complaints against Arthur Schnitzler's "Hands Around": "We think that our people are anything but licentious in their national character; nor do we believe that they are so unusually squeamish that they are subject to corrosion and corruptibility to a higher extent than any other people in the world. . . . Books in general circulation through the world which do not corrode or affect the morality of other nations can have no disastrous effects on the American people or the people of the city of New York."

In Boston they think otherwise. The law seems to provide, and the judges to believe, that if any sentence or phrase from a book seems, taken by itself, to be obscene or licentious, the book should be suppressed without taking its general tenor into consideration; and the timid booksellers of that city have agreed, without daring to test the questions in court, to suppress any book outlawed by ukase of the police. To any one familiar with the course of muzzling in Boston it is not surprising to learn that Mr. Donald Friede, formerly of the publishing house of Horace Liveright, has been fined $300 for attempting to break this booksellers' and police censorship by openly selling a copy of Theodore Dreiser's masterpiece, "An American Tragedy." The book is prescribed reading in English courses across the Charles river in Cambridge, where the same state laws rule, but where the public has intelligence and the booksellers have courage.

It may be that Boston is awakening to her new, strange fame. Zachariah Chafee Jr. of the Harvard law school, who was recently named with Walter Pollak to investigate the lawless activities of law enforcement officers, has written for the civil liberties committee of Massachusetts a pamphlet revealing the amazing extent and variety of censorship in Boston, and it is possible that it will stimulate a revolt against such medieval conditions. Not only do the booksellers accept the word of a police officer as the judgment of God; the theaters are subject to a mayoral dictatorship which vetoed "Strange Interlude," "Gods of the Lightning," "Fiesta," and "Desire Under the Elms," and insisted upon clearing "Porgy," "What Price Glory," and other plays of mild profanity such as is common in the most refined police stations. Boston common, once the Hyde park of America, is not permitted to hear the horrid words "Sacco and Vanzetti," and by a peculiarly up-to-date "racket" the mayor exercises complete control over the subjects of discussion in public meeting halls. The law permits him to revoke the license of a hall for "unsatisfactory structural conditions," and he and his agents almost invariably discover unsatisfactory structural conditions in halls unsatisfactory on other days of the week, which propose to permit discussion of birth control or of the eternal Sacco-Vanzetti case.

How to Keep Well By Dr. W. A. Evans

OUT OF DOORS WALKING.

Out of door walking, especially in winter, is almost a necessity for one who wants to resist winter infections. That the practice may be comfortable, as well as beneficial, the proper footwear is necessary. Dr. C. P. Fordyce gives detailed advice on this subject in his book, "Touring Afoot."

For long walks in cold weather he advises light, undyed socks and over these heavy woolen stockings reaching to the knees. The end of the trouser leg should be stuffed in the stocking leg. The feet can be hardened by soaking nightly in salt brine. The shoe should be rather too broad and too long. Excess breadth is more essential than excess length, though neither can be neglected. When the foot flattens out under the body weight the sole of the shoe must be long enough and broad enough to receive all the impact. None must fall on the side of the shoe, the big toe arch, or the end of the toes.

Walking causes the foot to lengthen one-half inch and to broaden at the toe [or ball] one-half inch. At the end of a very long walk the foot will be found to have swollen about one-half inch over and above the increase due to spreading. The shoes should be large enough to allow for this amount of spreading and swelling without cramping or binding the toes.

Dr. Fordyce says the upper part of the shoe must be soft leather without lining or box toe cap. The sole should not be thick enough to make the shoe heavy. The heel should be broad and not over three lifts high. He advocates rubber heels. While mountain climbers and persons who travel on rocky ground should wear heavy hobbed shoes, such footwear is not best for others. The probability is that nine-tenths of the people who wear hobs suffer by doing so and, in an equal proportion, the soles are unduly heavy and stiff.

The moccasin is a better foot covering than the shoe. A person wearing a heavy shoe is almost certain to toe out, while moccasin wearers are apt to toe in, and the latter is the better method of walking. Another advantage of moccasins is that they call for more work by the foot muscles. However, few people are trained to wear moccasins and others are not likely to get comfort from them. Placing a cork insole in a moccasin makes the Indian footgear more comfortable for some people.

Dr. Fordyce thinks we cannot make a shoe waterproof and it would be a source of harm if we could. Moisture and air should not be sealed in around the foot. However, rubbing the shoes well with foot oil is advised. This prevents the leather from becoming water sodden on a wet day, even though it is not waterproofed.

JAUNDICE MIGHT BE CAUSE.

A Reader writes: Please give your opinion on the following. Two sisters each had two children. One child of each bled to death when less than a week old. The diagnosis in both cases was "bleeders." The other two children are healthy. I know the family for five generations and there never were any bleeders among them.

REPLY:

The probability is that these children were not bleeders. They may have had jaundice, such as babies frequently have. It is a prominent cause of death in new born babies. The blood clots poorly in jaundice.

MAY LIVE MANY YEARS.

E. writes: How long can a woman of about 42 to 45 with a fibrous tumor live? She refuses to be operated on. One surgeon says it weighs about five pounds.

REPLY:

I have known women to live with fibroid tumors for forty or more years. As a rule, however, they were invalids during much of the time.

LANDLADY'S PREDICAMENT.

Chicago, Dec. 15.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A party having a lease on an apartment lost all his furniture and clothing in a bad fire. Small insurance was used up, he says, waiting for settlement. 1. Can he be held to his lease? 2. What hold have I on them as their landlady? 3. Could I sue and get judgment? 4. Is this of any use if they own no property? 5. Could I attach an automobile they have not quite paid for? Would it be better to wait until they own it outright? H. G.

1. The mere fact that their furniture has been destroyed would not relieve them from liability if that is what you mean to ask. 2. Depends on their assets and income. 3. Yes. 4. One possibility is that they might acquire property in the future. 5. Yes, if their personal property exceeds $400 worth. 6. This will be running the risk that they might sell it. You should leave such questions to your attorney.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

NO FUNDS FOR STREET SIGNS.

Chicago, Dec. 20.—[Friend of the People.]—A number of streets in the city of Chicago are sadly in need of street signs. Can't they be installed to avoid the confusion caused in numerous locations due to their absence? F. S.

Our supply of street signs has become exhausted and there being no funds available at this time for replenishing same we are unable to comply with your request.

These streets have been placed on the list for preferred attention as soon as it becomes possible to do the work.

JOSEPH J. BUTLER,
Deputy Superintendent of Streets.

CHANGED NAME VALID.

Chicago, Dec. 23.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My name is hard to pronounce and to remember. Do I have to go to court to have it changed legally? B. Z.

No legal proceedings are required to make a change of name valid. Hence a marriage or other legal act performed under an adopted name is not for that reason invalid.

A person adopting a new name permanently should for convenience give notice of the change to those persons to whom the information may be material. In transactions in which the old name appears we suggest continuing to use it to avoid confusion. For example, if real estate records show title in the old name, it should be used in a subsequent conveyance.

MESMERISM.

Now, I've returned to find, still here,
Those travel tours I read last year
"Eat gnnochi in Napoli"—I did try,
And, it's only too true, you "see Naples and die."
"Brooding Pompeii" left me awestruck but tired,
And the only street singers, this year, were hired
By local hotel management
To keep the customers more contest.

"The fisher boys of fair Capri"—
I was the fish. They fished for me
In every shop, with baited weal.
(I find my corals aren't real.)
Yes, I motored the Amalfi drive
And prayed that I would end alive—
Not on those shining rocks below,
Where "sunlit waters bluely glow."

Why do those Rhenish castles look
So much more feudal in a book?
And Montpernasse—of wicked nights!
My maiden aunt could see the sights.
Yet, creeps the old familiar thrall—
How grand it does sound after all.
I wonder if I've really been.
I wish I could go back again.

JUDY SHEA.

THE DAY AFTER CHRISTMAS! This is it! Probably the most horrible day in the year. Of course, the day after New Year's will run it a close second, but this day today is the most horrible. Well, there's nothing to be done about it. You might write to your congressman, but it's too late now, for this year anyhow. You might try to smile, but that would probably give you a worse expression than you had before. Oh, well, the day after Christmas comes only once a year anyhow.

A Room and Bath for the Hound, Please.

We are gratified that our auto expert says the roads down through Kentucky are in fine shape. But what we want to know is, what about the roads from these parts to Richmond via the Shenandoah Valley and Washington? We are thinking of taking that trip some time for the benefit of Tylwyth Teg, who wants to chase otters, badgers, rabbits, porcupines, congressmen, and Secretary of State Stimson. And, most of all, we want the names of hotels that will permit dogs as guests. We know one in New York and it's as good a hotel as we ever stopped at, too. (Send self-addressed envelope for information respecting same.) And way down somewheres in Indiana lives old Marsh Hill. We plan to stop at Marsh's the first night, only we don't know where he lives. All information on this point will be treated as strictly confidential.

PEOPLE even called us up at the house yesterday, to say nothing of the special delivery letters that poured in, seeking to explain the fire in the White House offices. The governor said it was probably caused by instantaneous combustion from the letter the soviets wrote in reply to Sec. Stimson. Lithesome Lucy thought the spread of the flames was due to Mr. Hoover organizing the fire department into a commission to study the matter deeply and make a full report before turning on the hose, and H. H. H. said morosely that the Democrats would probably be accused anyhow, but he thinks everybody should keep calm until Sen. Heflin uncovers the whole plot. Anyhow, in spite of the White House fire, let us remember the words of James A. Garfield, "God reigns and the government at Washington still lives!"

The Author Does as He Has Been Done By.

RHL: Tha unsuccessful author goes over his morning mail and then turns his thoughts to some important affairs. He returns a tough rooster to the butcher with a note: "In returning the inclosed chicken the customer desires to thank the butcher for submitting it, and to express the hope that other birds may hereafter be forthcoming from the same pen. The customer feels that the butcher will understand, where so many chickens are constantly being fattened, and where the span of life is so short, that only those roosters can be retained which are particularly fat and tender and suited to the customer's taste."

He returns a forty-seven dollar hat his wife ordered: "Thank you very much for your hat and for permitting us to wear it. We wish we could keep it, but unfortunately we have so many of these hats on hand that we cannot add to the store of them just now."

He returns a peck of potatoes that came C O D: "Our needs are so limited that we are returning you potatoes without delay on the day of their receipt. Our limited wants make it impractical for us to cook any material for which we have not previously arranged and contracted."

He returns the gas company's bill: "We regret to say, after careful consideration, we do not find the statement which you have been good enough to send us available for present settlement. We beg leave to thank you for your courtesy in offering it to us and we remain yours very truly."

And then he writes to his banker: "Let us assure you than in returning the inclosed statement of overdraft we do not mean that the material lacks merit. We are always glad to receive and read new material, and to accept what properly fills our requirements. We wish to thank you for thinking of us, and hope the future may bring other work to us from the same pen." ORACLE.

THE SENATE PAGES have presented a tomahawk to the Vice President to use in presiding over the upper house. And those pages well know how the senators break loose now and then and go on the warpath. And Mr. Curtis has Indian blood in his veins. Tut, tut! It's just tempting him.

RECIPE FOR CONTENTMENT.

Would you be happy? Do not know this world too deep,
Preserve some innocence, be as a child,
Letting it cast at times its fairy spell
That you may be so momentarily beguiled.

Wisdom has its Nemesis for us all,
We grow in brain oft at the expense of heart,
I'd rather keep some little remnant of a child,
Some little lack of knowledge, dear, apart.

Some little friendliness for simple things,
Some unspoiled love and reverence in my breast,
Hope in my heart, kind memories, blessed peace
These are for me, of happiness, the test.

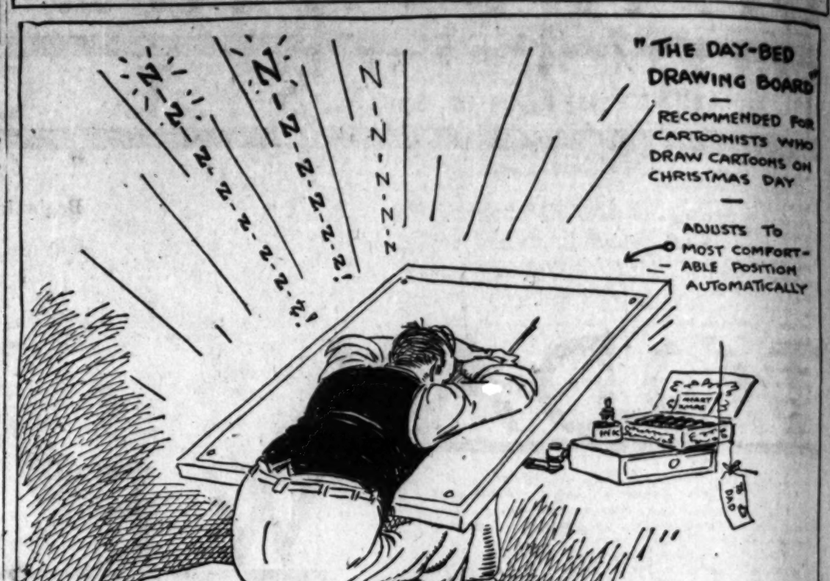
A few such friends as I know staunch and true,
A hand clasp firm with courage, faith in me,
A child's faith that no learning then may rob
As I grow old, no bitterness come to be.

If by sharp learning I shall grow to hate
A wondrous world where love reigns over all,
Keep me illiterate as a pratting child,
Then, as a child, in faith, I shall not fall.

CLARENCE P. MULLIGAN.

WELL, this is fine. Papa has to go to work today and little Clarence will at last have a chance to play with his toy aeroplane. R. H. L.

ANOTHER GREAT MODERN INVENTION



FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 26, 1864.

WASHINGTON. — A dispatch was received by President Lincoln this morning [Christmas] from Gen. Sherman, dated Dec. 22, announcing his occupancy of the city of Savannah and the capture of 150 guns and plenty of ammunition and about 25,000 bales of cotton. An official dispatch from Gen. Foster to Gen. Grant says that Sherman occupied Savannah on Dec. 21, and that on the preceding day the rebel Gen. Hardee escaped with the main body of his infantry and light artillery after blowing up the ironclads and the navy yard. Gen. Foster enumerates the capture of 800 prisoners and three steamers, in addition to the guns, ammunition, and materials mentioned by Gen. Sherman.

NEW YORK.—The Herald's Washington dispatch says: "Richmond papers of the 24th contain official dispatches from Wilmington. At that time twenty-six Union vessels reappeared off that place. No attempt had been made to land troops or attack the forts. The rebel papers also contain a rumor that Charleston, and probably Savannah, had been evacuated." Much space is occupied in the papers in lamentations over the disasters which have befallen the armies of the confederacy.

CHICAGO.—There are 362 vessels of a total tonnage of 90,760 laid up for the winter in the port of Chicago. They include 4 steamers, 13 propellers, 45 barques, 19 brigs, 194 schooners, 27 scows, and 60 tug and canal boats.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 26, 1929.

WASHINGTON.—In all probability the fund being raised for the widow of Gen. Henry W. Lawton, killed in the Philippines, will reach a total of $50,000 before it is closed. Subscriptions already total more than $30,000.

LOS ANGELES.—A severe earthquake shock was felt over a large portion of southern California this morning. The center of the shock appears to have been at San Jacinto, a small town in Riverside county. At the Saboba Indian reservation six squaws were killed by falling walls. The main business street was such a wreck that tons of débris had to be removed.

LONDON.—There is still no news from the South African front, and experts explain the apparent deadlock by comparing the positions of the Boers at Magersfontein to Gibraltar and at Tugela to Plevna. It is expected that Gen. Buller will try again to defeat the Boers before the arrival of Lord Roberts, the new commander in chief.

CHICAGO.—The structure of the Northwestern elevated railroad was completed yesterday and now an unbroken line of steel trestle extends from the Union loop at Lake street to Sheridan park at Wilson and Evanston avenues.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 26, 1919.

PARIS.—President Raymond Poincare's successor will be elected on Jan. 17, according to the inference drawn by the Parisian press from Premier Clemenceau's statement in the chamber that his cabinet would definitely resign on that date. It is also deduced from the declaration that Clemenceau will be a candidate for the presidency, which means that he will be elected virtually without opposition.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M.—Six railroad crafts, numbering 600,000 members, will strike if congress in enacting legislation to govern the railroads when they are returned to private ownership on March 1 includes an anti-strike clause, it was asserted in a statement issued by W. S. Patterson, secretary-treasurer of the International Machinists' union on the Santa Fé system. It is believed he speaks the general sentiment of rail workers.

CHICAGO.—The wedding of Miss Josephine Crilly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Crilly, 5544 Woodlawn avenue, to Herman Root Kern will take place this evening at the residence of the bride's parents.

HALL OF LOGIC.

Chicago, Dec. 23.—Your editorial, "Law Schools and Law Reform," was very satisfying to me, for when the program of the Northwestern university was announced I wanted to inquire why in the great array of new buildings for putting the law right there is to be no hall of logic. In the scheme of things now that is the great desideratum.

The other day the dean of a law school in the east said in debate of the ninth and tenth amendments to the constitution that "both give final power to the people to do what they wish."

Of course, that theory, now too widely held, is wholly un-American. Our constitutional doctrine, as stated by Jefferson and as generally believed at the time, is that the individual is entitled to a "bill of rights against any government on earth." The Declaration of Independence had stated that he is superior to his government. While the constitution was up for ratification the conventions in the states insisted that there must be added to it, as a warning to all administrations, a statement of the most important particulars in which the individual would be untouchable by government. That statement was made in the first ten amendments, known as the bill of rights.

In his religion, in his freedom to write and speak, in his right against unreasonable searches and seizures, in his right to a grand jury and a petit jury, to confrontation by witnesses, to reasonable bail, to just compensation for property taken for public use, to liberty, and in many other ways the individual is above any majority and "any government on earth."

The immutability of the bill of rights and the superiority of the man to his legislature were recently discussed by the Supreme court of Florida, which refused to follow the reasoning of the Supreme court of the United States and the Supreme courts of the states in the majority of cases where the legislature extended the limits of a city to take in lands used in farming and to subject the owners to the heavy burden of city taxes without their receiving in compensation any of the benefits of water, light, drainage, and so on accruing to city property. To the minds of the farmers and to any mind not unduly affected by education, it was plain that in violation of the fourteenth amendment the state had deprived persons of "property without due process of law," without compensation and arbitrarily.

The other courts held that the action of the legislature was political and therefore not subject to judicial review. But can political action break a provision in the bill of rights? At that point a judicial question arises and the political question sinks.

Lest this reasoning by law deans to coming lawyers, and by courts in backing down to legislatures, leave us eventually without a bill of rights, each university should provide a hall of logic, even though it have to sell its stadium to get it. THOMAS JAMES NORTON.

DEMOCRACY AT ANCHOR.

Chicago, Dec. 15.—As a member of the Cook County Democracy club I must take exceptions to the slanderous remarks of Alphonse Denis Jr. of Winnetka regarding our club boat at Wacker drive and Wells street. As Winnetka is a foreign city and not annexed to Chicago, no reason can be seen for Mr. Denis to libel our boat. It also is proper for me to mention that Chicago is a well run city in spite of what the nearby country folks think.

The boat pays the gas company in Chicago for gas heat, the Edison company for electricity, the city water department for water. The city officials in Chicago are honest; the boat gives no favors and it asks none. Persons like Mr. Denis have had the cooperation of the press in making foolish remarks. W. GAZZA.

IN PRAISE OF THE FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Chicago, Dec. 17.—A letter signed "A. F. F." and recently printed in this column is, in my opinion, a deliberate attempt to mislead the public concerning the activities of the Chicago fire department.

"A. F. F." asks: "Why a deputy fire commissioner?" And who, pray answer, is going to run an organization of 1,300 men, spending upwards of $3,000,000 a year, without an assistant or deputy?

Why 12 division marshals? There are six on one day and six the next. Records will prove that each does ample work. Why a fire department at all? When a building is on fire and people to be rescued, why a division marshal? Why a general in an army, or lieutenant generals? The same holds true for a department inspector. Some one has to be responsible for buildings equipment, etc., the same for a signal engineer.

For years Chicago's fire department on three-alarm and four-alarm fires moved up by telephone from the fire alarm office; now we have a five-eleven automatic move-up system, in use in every major city.

Why sixty-day men? And why not if a former civil service commissioner refused to hold examinations and then wrote the questions himself? As soon as lists were posted the positions were filled. Today for the first time in history Chicago has a 100 per cent civil service department.

But why go on asking why? It is so simple, rescue squads; of course, nine of them supposed to add man power and where are they? Rescuing lake victims, elevator accidents, train and trolley wrecks, gas asphyxiation cases, all 119! The fire prevention bureau has one head, Chief Patrick J. Egan, uniformed, efficient, courteous, experienced for thirty years.

But why waste any more space on "A. F. F."? Any one with an ounce of common sense knows that the Chicago fire department, under A. W. Goodrich and Chief Michael J. Corrigan, is a credit to the city and pleasure to the taxpayers, because it is carrying on despite the fact that it could use hundreds more firemen, more apparatus, more fire houses, returning day in and day out one hundred cents service on the taxpayer's dollar. SYNOPSIS.

John Andrew Kellogg, heir to millions, asks Barbara Thornton to marry him. She agrees but not very graciously. When she hears that he has just lost his job she scolds him and calls him a playboy. He calls on his attorney, David Craig, who tells him that he will never inherit the money his father left if he doesn't prove himself capable of managing his life in a sensible way. He tells him that since he has lost one job after another he will have to double five thousand dollars in thirty days or live on an income from a trust fund for the rest of his life. John Andrew telephones this to Barbara and she offers to give him five thousand to turn over to Craig. He refuses and tells her he is going out to Hollywood. She is furious with him and breaks the engagement. He decides to go to San Francisco and starts for California. On the train he meets Anne Ames, who is now her way to Hollywood with a letter of introduction to a movie producer. They become interested in each other. Before saying good-by in Utah, John Andrew tells Anne that he will see her in Los Angeles in a few days.

INSTALLMENT XVI.

THE LOVE SCENE.

The embrace, John Andrew feared, would never end; when Anne pulled away, and said breathlessly, "O, please don't," it sounded so natural, so true and lifelike that Kellogg's hands balled into fists.

The director's hand raised, and, sign that the action was over, he brought it down in a chopping motion; an engineer pressed a button, notifying the other units of the interlocked system that the machines should be stopped. The blazing lights over the set were snapped off, making the place seem in half darkness for a moment; the horn outside sounded twice; the great doors swung open. The camera men, taking off earphones, emerged from their booth like deep sea divers, and at once lighted cigarets. John Andrew crushed out his own, and started quietly to a position where Anne, sitting in a canvas backed chair, eyes closed, might eventually see him. Just as her eyes did open, some one called, "Playback!" and the doors swung shut; the stillness returned somberly. John Andrew stopped where he was.

A moment later the ringing of a bell was heard, followed uncannily by the sound of a lock turning in a door; next, "'Lo, honey."

Every word and sound produced came back with singular lifelike fidelity, brought not by the actual record, which was made on film the same as used in the camera and on which the series of photographs would later be developed, but by a thick wax disc like a phonograph record, made only to assist the director in knowing that the particular scene was satisfactory. John Andrew heard the soft cadences of Anne's voice, the deep throated, increasingly passionate words of Chester, the faint gurgling of the liquor as it was poured from the bottle. The directors and engineers carefully checked the dialogue lines, the tonal qualities of the voices, the reproduction of the sound effects, and seemed very satisfied with what they were hearing.

The youngster in the "mixing room," who alone had heard what the microphones had picked up, leaned from his glass caged balcony; he also smoked a cigaret. He stared out over the crowded set below him calmly; but for all his casual air he seemed to be waiting for something, for several times his lips moved into a broad grin, swiftly erased.

The love scene, the great moment, became more tender. Slowly the voice of Anne and Chester lowered to short, hard-breathed words; the listeners could vision her surrender, her parted lips, closed eyes, the man bending to kiss her.

Wild sound burst into the studio; sound unearthly. Noise like the grating of steel on steel, followed by wind smashing through pines, eery, tremendous, and then a terrible gasping noise, the last sucking breath of a dying beast.

The director, hand to his ears, cried, "Stop!"

Not only the playback record ceased; everything in the room became silent.

"I've heard squishes and squashes when people kissed," the tormented director bellowed, "but I never heard anything like that in all my life! Good lord, Chester, what were you doing? Eating the girl up?"

While Anne flushed through her coat of rouge and powder, Chester said angrily, "I didn't move my lips."

"Neither did I," Anne said.

"A kiss like that," one of the actresses said, loudly enough to be heard, "is cert'nly hot enough to drag 'em in by the thousands."

"Passion, dear, passion," her companion sniffed. "We gotta lot t' learn, huh?"

The goaded director snapped, "Just because you've never kissed Miss Ames before, Chester, is no reason why you should spoil this action! I don't care what you do off the set, but what I want here is silent kisses, see? Think how that'd go when it was shown! The audience all hopped up to see you kiss Ames, and then something sounding like a raid on a gambling joint. If——"

"I didn't touch her mouth, except the corner," Chester said nervously. "And I tell you I didn't make any noise; neither did Miss Ames——"

"Then it's these damn' mikes," the director said. "I wish the things had never been invented——"

"Sure you do," drifted down the voice of the engineer from the balcony. "You wish you were back in the good old candle days, studying your First Reader and thinkin' you were Abe Lincoln. . . . I didn't stop the action because you fellows need a lesson. How many times have we said not t' bring visitors here? How many times have we asked that every one except the techni'l staff be excluded? As far as that goes," he went on with happy candor, "how many times have we fellows waited all morning for a scene that wasn't shot until you got done with a lunch date?" With the electricians and technicians grinning up at him, he concluded, "This, ladies and gentlemen, is the day of science, and maybe you think we won't rub it in! Now, Mr. Armstrong"—to the director—"do you want me to explain what that noise was?"

Armstrong glared at him, and then grinned weakly. "Shoot," he said.

"What you heard was, firstly, some one striking a match or getting a light from one of those patent hickies; secondly, some one puffing away at a cigaret, and, thirdly, some guy wishin' he was kissin' the girl, and sighing like either Venus or Adonis. Now will you keep visitors out of the lot?"

John Andrew looked down at the cigaret at his feet, and as swiftly looked up again; in that moment his eyes met Anne's.

She was, he saw, frowning at him, as if she sensed his guilt.

Armstrong, already staring about the set, caught her glance, and John Andrew's answering flush. He said to Anne, "Did you notice who did it, Miss Ames?"

"No," Anne said softly. She looked squarely at John Andrew, and then added, "I was being kissed; I didn't think about anything else."

"Every one not in this company off the set," Armstrong said. To the publicity man, "Take your visitor somewhere else, Bud." John Andrew's companion scuttled over to Armstrong, whispered a moment in his ear, and the director added more genially to Kellogg, "You see what we're up against, sir. Suppose you go upstairs and see the way the voices are recorded."

John Andrew bowed and said as firmly as he could, "I wish a word or so with Miss Ames when it is convenient."

"We finish this morning at twelve. I'll bring Miss Ames out to the front office."

John Andrew tried to appear interested in the explanation of the recording of the scene below. He was waiting with his eyes on a red bulb in the room; when it flashed on, all too soon, he again saw Anne swept into Chester's arms, giving herself into his embrace, although he could neither see nor hear anything which took place on the set below. John Andrew had always prided himself upon his broadmindedness; what, he asked himself, was a kiss between actress and actor? Just the same, Anne needn't have entered into the business so thoroughly.

Since he felt he must show interest to the explanations which were being made, John Andrew brought out, "You fellows have this down to a fine point."

"We're a couple of jumps ahead of our other departments," a lanky-engineer agreed. "We can give 'em anything they want, if they'd only find out what that is. They're some things which none of us understand."

"Bill's a nut on that," a second engineer cut in, sitting on the edge of a table covered with expensive instruments; "he went to a hospital yesterday and canned the wail of a three day old baby, and this morning the kid's mother found it out, and wants a couple of hundred smacks for having her brat in the pictures! It's a swell life! The only nice part of it is that some of those Hahvahd-accent supposed male stars who have been playing the devil with us common workmen—they think a Phi Bete key's the sign of a writer!—are having a grand time trying to talk like men before the mike. One way they're Fifth avenue; the other, they're Tenth . . lay off, Bud"—to the publicity man, who was making warning gestures—"up here we don't play politics, and I don't think we'll lose our jobs by telling Mr. Kellogg what we think. . . ."

"You're perfectly safe," said John Andrew truthfully enough.

"Only thing we need's a soundless camera," the thin youngster said earnestly. "And even if the staff's fallen down on that, we expect to have——"

He paused as another of the men nudged him.

Good morning!

He has, too. There are times when he waves his coat tails and grows unctuous, but in the main he has sidestepped gush. "Dynamite" is, intrinsically, an honest and effective photoplay with two or three really surprisful punches. One of these lies in the personality and acting of Kay Johnson. She is a refreshingly real human being. An actress of consummate skill in that she never appears to act.

Mr. De Mille doesn't do right by her in a kitchen scene. His ever present urge to lay it on with a trowel proved too much for him in this instance.

The ultra modern story tells of a girl who, figuratively speaking, plays with dynamite, and who also runs up against the real article. Cynthia Crothers [Kay Johnson] is in love with a married man whose wife is anxious to dispose of him in order that she may wed a gentleman she prefers. But she's a calculating little wifey and, knowing how poor is her polo-playing spouse, says to Cynthia:

"But who will pay my alimony?"

"I don't know," is the surprised reply.

"I must have so and so much," responds Mrs. Towne, naming a huge amount, "Otherwise I will not divorce my husband."

Now somebody dies leaving Cynthia a fortune, providing she is married by a certain day. She can't wed the man of her choice, for he isn't free. What to do! She selects a coal miner about to be hanged on the morrow.

The wedding comes off but the hanging doesn't. Well——

The lady and the man she hasn't married and the man she has eventually find themselves in a little mountain mining town. Later, in a mine. From which emerge—but that I will not tell you.

Charles Bickford and Conrad Nagel are splendid in the leading male rôles. Marcia McCormac as Derk's little sister rings true. Supporting players are convincing when direction permits. Photography, sets, scenery and synchronization are fine.

"Dynamite" won't bore you. Be sure of that.

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send your name and address with your question to "Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question Mrs. Leonzo Cline, 4726 Kenwood avenue, was awarded $5.

The Question.

Do you believe in making New Year resolutions?

The Answers.

J. F. McNeely, 616 Merchants' Bank building, St. Paul, Minn., clerk—Yes, if there is a firm determination to carry out the resolutions. From a psychological standpoint one must not enter upon any self-appointed task with the thought that the resolve may be broken.

Mrs. B. B. Brewer, 4458 Woodlawn avenue, housewife—I believe it is generally true that New Year resolutions are not kept. The time to make a resolution is at the time when the need for it first appears. A New Year resolution is too mechanical. If I couldn't accomplish things without making New Year resolutions, I wouldn't undertake them at all.

W. E. Boyter, 10023 Rhodes avenue, clerk—I do not see see why everybody should not make, at the close of a year, a reckoning of faults to be avoided, then make a New Year resolution, backed by real effort to correct them.

Mrs. Lucile Webb, 1438 East 68th street, public school teacher—Certainly I believe in making good resolutions, at New Year's, on the inspiration of the moment kind, at any other time. If it is important to make them, then try to keep them. Failing, start over again. This world always needs lots of new resolutions.

C. L. Price, 7735 Coltax avenue, advertising manager—I don't believe in making them, because they are too seldom kept. The intentions at the time are good, but after a short time one is back in the old way to doing things. To start and fail weakens will power. The time to make resolutions is just as the time they are needed.

NOTHING I may say about "Street-Scene" could well be nicer than my telling you that there isn't a thing in or about the play to remind you of the circumstances that Mr. Rice, for having written it, was named as the winner of the annual Pulitzer Prize. That is how good a show this play, with the manner in which it has been staged, really is, I don't mean to imply that the committee which passes on a season's plays in New-York for the purpose of isolating and indexing a prize-winner has heretofore picked bad plays or bad shows: some of its decisions have been happy, indeed; but I do mean to imply that the committee is inscrutable. As I look at it, "Street-Scene" is about everything that a Pulitzer Prize play should not be; and so is "Strange Interlude," and so was "They Knew What They Wanted."

What takes place in "Street-Scene" justifies what seems to be a casual title. The especial street is not named by Mr. Rice; but, if you like New-York enough to wander this way or that way off Broadway, you have been in the street, and you have passed, although you may not have noted, the apartment-house, made over from a respectable old residence, in and about which the action is placed. There isn't a street and there isn't a neighborhood in kind in Chicago; but the persons who make up Mr. Rice's long list of characters may be found in Chicago, Boston, or Philadelphia—San Francisco, Cincinnati, or Detroit. They are New-Yorkers merely because New-York is where Mr. Rice saw them and listened to them.

Yes: Mrs. Jones, unflaggingly diligent in spreading gossip and fomenting trouble, belongs anywhere, including Melbourne and Madrid. So does her son, Vincent, who rouses in you a desire to murder him without waiting to find out if there be a law permitting you to murder Mrs. Jones' son. Frank Maurrant, too, belongs any place: he happens to be a stage-carpenter in "Street-Scene"; and his wife, too, is of any city in the world. When he kills her for carrying on with the fellow who collects bills for the neighborhood milkman, the "story" is too commonplace an item in any newspaper office to be worth the front page. Maurrant isn't a bad man; indeed, his philosophy of life and his attitude toward his wife and children are "square"; but he isn't a lovable man to have round. When the cops get him, he whines some and shows a bit of weakening; but, then, he has been drinking, so that his fibre is grown a bit flabby, what with the chase, the beating-up by the police, and the realization that when he shall have gone to the chair there will be two children to look after themselves. But there is a kick for you in the troubles of the Maurranta.

And so "Street-Scene" goes for its three acts, which take place in about eighteen hours. You hear from an Italian musician what he thinks about naving children, and from Mr. Buchanan the agonies of a husband while his wife is making a father of him. You learn from the Kaplans how the American children of Russian immigrants feel about imported Socialism, and how children in general feel about their elders. And from it all you get the effect of something teeming and surging and stirring.

Mr. Brady, who is something of a realist in stage-direction, gives to Mr. Rice full credit for having staged the piece; and the job, a difficult one, has been done well. The cast is, save for a few changes in minor rôles, about as it was when, last Summer, I saw the play in New-York. Now, as then, I have special praise to utter for Miss Bondi, Mr. Landau, and Mr. McHugh. Miss Raymond, recently of the Goodman Theater, is new to me in her rôle, and is expert. But, then, I take it that the good ensemble is the result of good direction.

Here Again Is the Play About the Robots.

The play-reporters had their say about "R. U. R." when, back in 1923, it was given in the Cort; and it is the same play. That is, it is an interesting use of the Frankenstein notion, put into terms of the Theater with an irony which is rather heavy-footed and forced, but by no means ineffective. For myself, I prefer "The Golem," as essential drama; but "R. U. R." is melodrama that would entertain a thousand while "The Golem" would be entertaining one: in the United States, I mean. Capek has the chief fault of Shaw in the Theater: he feels that he must pound his idea at the audience.

Well, here is "R. U. R." again for the benefit of those many Chicagoans who are forever explaining how much they regret not having seen it when it was here in 1923: their interest in it seems to derive largely from the circumstance that the play at that time added the word robots to the general vocabulary. It is well staged in this revival; and the credit for this goes to Rouben Mamulian, who put on "Porgy." The acting, too, is better than it was in the Cort performance of seven years ago. The whole thing is in the now-familiar manner and style of the Theater Guild.

And "R. U. R." is, as has been explained, the last of the five plays for the Guild's present "season" in Chicago. It was at first scheduled for March, following the run of "Strange Interlude," in the Blackstone.

Mr. Leiber Is Busy.

Stress is placed by the management on the fact that, in the current revival of "The Taming of the Shrew," the Induction or prologue is given. The Induction is not important as drama, and is not necessary to an understanding of the comedy about Petruchio and his bonny Kate. Indeed, once the comedy is started, Sly, the tinker, becomes a bit of a nuisance in the sight; and nobody has yet solved the problem of how to get him from the sight of the audience. Augustin Daly always gave the Induction, so that Mr. Leiber's revival of it is not a novelty. He takes over the rôle of Sly, plays it well enough, and then goes into the trappings of Petruchio, acting forthrightly, as is his wont, and making the customary points in the rôle, which is certainly what actors call "fat." The comedy is not the best of Shakspere for répertoire in a weekly-change arrangement; the rôles other than Petruchio and Katherine lack dramatic interest for the public, so that the play is best when it is especially cast with regard for the actor of each part. . . . Next week's play will be "Twelfth-Night"—which, in the Church calendar, would be appropriate for the week starting January 6, the actual Twelfth-Night.

Conductor.....Giorgio Polacco
Stage director.....Charles Moor

BY EDWARD MOORE.

If in the caption of this report, emphasis is placed on the fact that the opera was "sung," there is a reason. A great and abiding truth was discovered last night. It can be summarized in a few words. Mozartean style means good singing.

In order to extract the pure gold that Mozart wrote into his score some 140 years ago, one needs merely to observe the notes as Conductor Polacco observed them, to put them in their right places, to give them their full value in matters of time and their full value in matters of emphasis. If one does this, merely this and little more, one finds himself confronting an operatic masterpiece.

Wherefore the music department of this newspaper desires to extend compliments to Mr. Lazzari for "Madamina," to Mr. Hackett for "Il Mio Tesoro," to Mme. Leider for her first scene and several thereafter, to Mr. Vanni-Marcoux, in spite of the fact that he ranks as an artist of characterization rather than a singer, technically considered, for the so-called "Champagne" aria and the exquisite serenade; to Mr. Trevisan, in spite of the fact that he ranks as a buffo comedian rather than as a singer, for several incidents in the course of the performance of which his entrance was not the least; in fact, to the whole cast for its participation. For this was an evening of good singing.

"Don Giovanni," as the Civic Opera company presents it, is a decidedly modernized affair, the only permanent elements being the mountainous sides of the scenes, plus, of course, Mozart's music. For the rest there are stylized interiors, stylized costumes, stylized groupings.

I, for one, am inclined to believe that this is the proper way to treat the work. I have at one time and another heard complaints about the stylization of the production as being contrary to the mood of the opera, but it is difficult to believe that this criticism really touches the true inwardness of the work.

Several elements have to be considered. One is that an opera with five scenes to each of its two acts must be staged so that its scenes can be changed quickly. This is the practical aspect. Another, and possibly a more spiritual point of view, is that whatever may be thought of Mozart's direct, forthright, sunshiny music, there is not much to be said for Da Ponte's book from the point of view of realism. It indicates the leading items of the justly famous story about this justly famous lover, and that is about all. Why the staging should not be in the mood of the plot instead of the music is a subject for debate.

At any rate the performance, as the Civic Opera company sees it, is worth creating jubilations. It is an ideal presentation of Mozart's golden music; it is an interesting presentation of a plot that has run the course from Moliere to Bernard Shaw. Taking one consideration with another, it is much too significant and vital an affair to be limited to a few incidental showings. It should be sung often enough to come under the complete and final influence of what the Civic Opera company is doing for the sake of good music and good opera.

Charles Hackett instead of Giovanni Manuritta will sing the rôle of the duke in "Rigoletto" Saturday night. Mr. Manuritta, who is new in this country, will make his first American appearance in another rôle dealing with the nobility, Count Almaviva in "The Barber of Seville," next Wednesday night.

Miss Marion Farnsworth, daughter of the George J. Farnsworths of 1448 Astor street has chosen to have her marriage to Fairbank Carpenter, Jan. 25.

The service is to be read at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon by the Rev. Ashley E. Gerhardt of Christ church in Winnetka. Only the families and a few intimate friends are to be asked to attend. Miss Farnsworth is to have her sister, Miss Edith Farnsworth as her only attendant, and Mr. Carpenter's brother, Benjamin Carpenter, will be his best man. They are to go to Europe for a wedding trip of several months, and will find a place to live in town when they return. Numerous parties are being given for them.

In the more immediate future is the wedding of Miss Mary Ambrose to David Taber, to take place at the Wheaton residence of Mr. and Mrs. Frank O. Wetmore, The House of Seven Gables, on Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock. About a hundred guests have been invited for the ceremony and reception following.

Attending Miss Ambrose will be her sister, Mrs. Horace Wetmore as matron of honor, and as bridesmaids, another sister, Mrs. Joseph Bickert of Des Moines, Ia., and Miss Helen Hurley. Robert Whiting is to be best man for Mr. Taber. After a wedding trip to Europe, Mr. Taber and his bride will reside on the north side until summer when they will be in Wheaton. The Wetmores are to give the bridal dinner on Friday evening at the Chicago Golf club, climaxing a succession of pre-wedding festivities.

A week later, Miss Beatrice Clow's wedding to Lloyd A. Laflin takes place at the William E. Clow Jr. residence in Lake Forest, and two days later than that, Miss Betty Borden, daughter of Mrs. Waller Borden and Robert S. Piries, the John T. Piries' son are to be married at the Fourth Presbyterian church.

Miss Hannah Elizabeth Spohn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. Spohn, who lived in Chicago until a year or so ago, is to have some of her former classmates at the Chicago Latin school in her bridal party for her marriage on Jan. 9 to Malcolm Elwin Hardy of New York City. Miss Helen Meerhoff is to be maid of honor and Miss Cynthia and Miss Suzanne Kohlsaat are to be bridesmaids.

The service is to take place at 8:30 o'clock at the Church of the Transfiguration in New York City, and will be followed by a reception at the Spohn residence at 45 East 66th street. Miss Meerhoff leaves today for the east to be present for the parties before the wedding, and the Kohlsaat girls will go from Lake Placid, where the Kohlsaat family goes every year for the winter sports and festivities at Christmas time.

The setting for the debut ball given by Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Logan, and Mr. and Mrs. Stuart H. Logan, for Miss Phoebe Logan, was a modernistic vision in black, silver, and white. The crystal ballroom of the Blackstone hotel had been deftly transformed with silver and black panels decorated with modern designs, and the balcony rail was shrouded in a black and silver drape with bold zigzag designs. The lights had black and white shades, and reflectors of silver tinsel. A mammoth white fan at each end of the room concealed the musicians who were garbed in tangerine blouses.

There were various stunts and entertainments including "Ye Olde Tyme Tintype Gallery" during the evening and through the supper hour. Miss Logan wore a gay pirouette costume of silver cloth and black satin with huge pompons. Mrs. Logan wore white chiffon embroidered in crystals and carried a black and white feather fan.

The Potter Palmers also gave a Christmas night dance at their residence at 1350 Lake Shore drive, with several hundred society folk as their guests. Other events of the Christmas festivities included a debut tea given for Miss Ann Winifred McKeown by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Crawford McKeown at their Winnetka residence, and a dance at the Fortnightly given by Dr. and Mrs. Otho Fisher Ball and Mr. and Mrs. William S. Ennis for their sons, Peter Ball and George Ennis.

Today's program of festivities includes, chronologically, a debut teadance to be given by Mrs. Ralph H. Bourne of 1247 North State street at the Woman's Athletic club for her daughter, Miss Carol Bourne; a dance to be given by Mr. and Mrs. Harve G. Badgerow of Winnetka for their daughters, Susan Badgerow and Allene Withers; a dinner-dance for Miss Frances Wood, to be given by her parents, Gen. and Mrs. Robert E. Wood, at the Palmer house; a dinner-dance to be given by Mr. and Mrs. William M. Scudder and Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Kirk at the Saddle and Cycle for Mrs. Scudder's and Mrs. Kirk's sons, James Braun and Sam Cuthbertson; a dinner-dance by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Spalding at the Casino for their niece, Miss Louise Clarke, and a program and ball to be given at the Blackstone by Mrs. Jacob Baur for her debutante daughter, Miss Rosemary Baur.

Christmas holiday or no, the White Elephant Rummage shop is to hold its monthly home dressmaker's sale today. Mrs. D. Mark Cubbings is in charge. There will be a lot of "Gay Nineties" dresses on sale, as well as some of a more recent vintage.

Christmas Is 50th Wedding Anniversary for Them

Yesterday was more than just Christmas day for Mr. and Mrs. William J. Hitchcock, 811 North St. Louis avenue. It was in addition their fiftieth wedding anniversary, and they celebrated the day in their home surrounded by their five children and nine grandchildren. They were both born in England, Mr. Hitchcock in 1846 and Mrs. Hitchcock in 1858, and were married in Chicago in 1879.

Van Veen, Now 19, Has Good Show of His Paintings Here

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

A clever and talented artist has just blown into town. He is Stuyvesant Van Veen, a New Yorker, nineteen years old and the youngest artist ever to have had a painting accepted at the Carnegie institute. This fall he was commissioned to do two pictures for a building project in New York, and when one was finished it was found to be too large for the space it was to fill.

Van Veen was in despair until he heard by chance the Carnegie International was accepting some American paintings, juried. He sent his white elephant—"Below Queensborough Bridge, New York"—and waited on pins and needles to learn whether its ponderous weight would be accepted or rejected.

One week passed; it had found favor in the eyes of the New York jury. Cheers and cheers. Still another jury to pass—the Carnegie jury—but at all events the painting would see Pittsburgh. Another week of waiting and another, and then the glorious, stunning news that his picture was to hang in the Carnegie International, an exhibition ranking among the first in importance on both sides the Atlantic.

Mr. Van Veen has not let success turn his head. He is simple and naïf and very much in earnest. A little exhibit of other paintings was a success in the Fifth Avenue Playhouse. His paintings have a popular appeal. They have good color, action, and composition. They are surprisingly good for a boy of his age. He has several projects under way, one, very interesting, schemes to bring painting plainly into an everyday life focus by painting golf courses and insidiously inculcate a liking for good art through the showing of familiar places where the average spectator finds himself at home.

Another idea is to bring art into ordinary living by means of a beautiful chair or rug or other piece of furniture. To design just one intrinsically good piece and see that used in the American home would crown one of Van Veen's pet projects with glory.

"Good" taste," he quotes, "is the great essential of the artist." It also is an essential to good living. Unfortunately too few people appreciate it. Good taste and standards, given those, American art in all branches will go far.

Most Skins Need Lubrication with Creams and Oils

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Speaking of skins, one of our best skin specialists says that about the rarest thing you can find in this world is the perfectly normal skin; that is, one that has just the right proportion of oil exuding from the sebaceous glands to keep it in perfect condition.

Like the well known Spratt family division, one is too much one way or too much the other. Either too much oil floods the face, or not enough to keep it reasonably well lubricated.

Of course, you know that it is upon the lubricating oil that the preservation of skin youth and beauty depends. Whether technically aware of the value of grease on the skin or not, women sense the physiological factor they would not put so much of their own [or their husband's] good money into creams and oils. And if the billion dollar tales of oils-and-creams-investing by women are true, the fact must be deduced that we are largely a dry-faced body of spenders.

What I want chiefly to call your attention to today is that in the pursuit of the Face Beautiful, our highly popular and perfectly legitimate female occupation, we may be led into byways from whence we come armed with bottles that are not to our particular skin's liking. For instance, we may, because some rival face is being treated daily or semi-daily to astringent lotions, convince ourselves that some of that is what our face needs, when it may be the very thing our already dry complexion does not need and should not have.

There is a concession. Astringents have a certain muscle toning action we may like to test out. But if the skin is dry, let the astringents be experimental rather than habitual and after every usage put back what lubricant your face will take in from your creams or skin nourishing foods.

You counteract dryness with grease, not a fancy word, to be sure, for that gorgeous jar that cost you your theater treat. Nevertheless, good creams for dry skins have mineral oils and animal fats and, out of the fancy jars, are dubbed by the commonplace, "grease." Their virtue, however, lies not in what they're called, but in what they do and they DO preserve the skin of the face.

Society at the Opera

The family parties and other social affairs on yesterday's calendar drew many of the regular boxholders from last night's performance of "Don Giovanni." The vacant boxes were rather numerous, but some family groups and several parties of young people brightened up the box circle.

Mrs. Richard T. Crane Jr. had as her guests Count and Countess de Contades, Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Crane, Lieut. Edward Arroyo, and her daughter, Miss Florence Crane.

Mrs. Francis Johnson gave a dinner party at the Casino earlier in the evening, afterwards bringing her guests to the opera, where Mr. Lawrence Viles was host. The party included Mrs. Johnson, Miss Elizabeth Hoffiin, Mme. Zohra Heidary, Mrs. Chauncey Blair, Channing Wiley, Robert Carr and Chauncey Blair.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilhelm Ludwig Baum had a family party, entertaining their two daughters and their respective husbands, Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCormick Adams and Mr. and Mrs. Winston Lawrence and their son, Mervin Baum.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bartlett Stimson and Mr. Joseph Ryerson were guests of Mrs. Hugh McBirney. Mr. and Mrs. Louis Yager had as guests Mrs. Robert E. Lewis, Mrs. Robert Doherty and James Doherty.

In the Ernest R. Graham box Dr. and Mrs. Wilbur E. Post had Miss Charlotte Simmons, Jane and Helen Morrison, Charles C. Morrison and John Post. Mr. and Mrs. Ben Curry and Mr. and Mrs. Dave Church were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Lucas.

Ribald Remarks Reflect Bad Taste Rather than Humor

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Something has been recalled to my attention that, while not pleasant to talk about, does seem to call for an appeal to the finer instincts of the "broad-minded" conversationalists involved.

Frequently the complaint has been met with in this advisory capacity of mine, but a verbal report of recent confidence from the lips of a newlywed, a fine, clean-minded, clean-hearted young woman, revives the need of a "word to the wise."

The experience of newlyweds is alike in that it is not among a new group of friends and acquaintances that their sensibilities are submitted to the shocks complained of. Invariably it is the old group among which, perhaps, the newly married are the last recruits, anyway the latest recruits, to wedlock. Those old friends, married themselves for a few years, and heretofore reasonably decent conversationally in the presence of young persons not yet married, suddenly seem to assume on sight of the new wedding ring that the barriers are now down and anything may be said.

And what is frequently said is paralyzingly shocking to the young idealist or idealists, for it is the experience of young husbands as well as the young wives. It is as though the older married ones feel it incumbent upon themselves to put the newlyweds through an initiation fire, the conversational rites of which are not only discreditable to the individual speaker, but to the whole body of women.

And I say women advisedly, not because men may not be offensive under the circumstances. They are. But here, if anywhere under the sun, it is a woman's duty to herself and to other women and to her greatest stronghold, marriage itself, to maintain a high order of respect for sex as it is practiced in marriage.

Trailing Pajamas Are the Last Word

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—Skirts aren't the only feminine fashions to come down in the world. Pajamas are trailing in the sand, also. That is, they will be when the smartest of new pajamas from Paris reach Palm Beach, the Riviera and other smart winter resorts. Pajamas with little fish trails in back of each leg first met the public eye in the midseason Paris fashion shows, and they are already a riot, though only a few weeks old. Of course they are for formal wear.

Pajamas, like the rest of our clothes, have been divided into various categories, because they increase day by day in fashion importance; and the well dressed woman has pajamas for morning, for tea, for the home dinner and, naturally, pajamas for sleeping. They follow the spirit of skirted clothes that are worn for the same occasions.

For a long time pajamas suffered under a stigma in occidental countries. They weren't quite respectable. Now, however, the bar sinister is lifted, wiped out, or whatever they do to get rid of such things; and pajamas are more and more the resort apparel of ladies, who like them because they are more modest and gracious than most of the daytime clothes to be found.

It is more than slightly old fashioned to omit them from a wardrobe intended for wear in such smart places as Palm Beach, Cairo and Cannes. Home pajamas are worn in any climate with the utmost propriety. They are restricted to the home in city life, but certain Paris fashion authorities are trying to put them out on the streets, also.

The pajamas sketched in the accompanying drawing were designed by Mary Nowitzky for the south, but they are equally charming for the home dinner up no'th. There are the new trousers, which are wide and long, and have two trailing, circular godets set in the back at the knees. They are made of dark green satin and have a narrow buckled belt at the top.

The blouse is made of Veronese green satin and blouses amply at the waistline, so that the belt is entirely hidden. There is a small collar piped in white and the fitted sleeves are also piped in white.

Family Is Reunited.

"A promising family, the members of which were separated for more than a year, have recently established themselves in an apartment. They are now in need of the following pieces of furniture: three dressers, a square telephone table, bedroom chairs, mirrors, and sections for a sectional bookcase. G. R."

This is the type of family which appreciates an attractive home and they have made every effort to dress theirs up in a homelike, though simple manner. Can you give them the help they need by donating any of these articles you may have?

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 25.—Vice President Curtis with his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Gann, occupied a box at the ball tonight, given for the midshipmen and West Point cadets, debutantes and sub-debs, at the Mayflower.

The boxes were occupied by a distinguished company, including the secretary of labor and Mrs. Davis and the latter's niece, Miss Esther Jones who is with them for the holidays; the chief of staff and Mrs. Summerall, Col. and Mrs. U. S. Grant and their young daughter, Miss Edith Grant; Mrs. Deming Jarves and Mrs. Jacob Leander Loose.

The attorney general and Mrs. William De Witt Mitchell have with them for the holidays their sons, William D. Jr. and Bancroft. Mr. and Mrs. Davis left late tonight for their home in Pittsburgh to spend a few days with the secretary's father and Mrs. Davis' mother. They will return before New Year's day.

Children Have a Hankering for the Wide, Free Gestures

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

"I'd like to take this chop up in my two hands and tear it apart with my teeth and throw the bones under the table. And I wish we had hounds and they'd come and eat up the bones."

"I don't see the use of knives and forks—what're your hands given to you for, anyway?"

"What's the good of always being so clee-ee-een? I'd like to live the way the cave men did—I bet they never washed."

"Are you mad?"

In boys more than in girls we see these impulses—these longing, backward glances toward ruder, freer days. Some of this is a phase that passes, but some of it stays with boys and with men, too, all their lives, under the surface. That is why at least some living in the open at some time of the year is so liberating—because a boy (or a man) can satisfy these cravings—he can take his meat from the fire and eat it in his hands and throw the bones in the fire. He doesn't have to remember to keep his elbows off the table if he's sitting on one end of a log or a rock. And no one cares—or it's fun—if his nose and cheeks are black with the charred outside of his baked potato.

We all have our hankerings for a wider gesture—only not in just the same way as the children. So don't "sit on" these expressed rebellions against the mildness and mannerliness of every day living. Instead, fall in with them—talk about those early days when men quaffed from great beakers (or tankards, or whatever you call them), when quarters of deer and boars' heads came in on silver salvers, when men drew their hunting knives from their belts to cut their meat with, and when fireplaces were so big that it took several men to haul the yule log.

Even the talk, the imagine of such doings gives a sense of freedom, a relief from the restraint of polite living.

Cold Turkey.

Last year one of our sports writers gave us an entertaining paragraph on the Christmas viand the day after, which read: "The Christmas turkey is a fine and luscious bird, hot and steaming on the table, but I like him better in the ice box when the dressing has set hard so that it can be sliced thin and laid on rye bread with slivers of cranberry jelly atop. The charm of the Christmas turkey is the furtive stealing up on the remains, snickersnee in hand, with fell intent. Withdraw the bird from the chilly vault and gaze with rapture on the succulent remains. Quickly, now; hack off a titbit, a crisp, crunching of skin, a sliver from the now exposed and gleaming breast, a luscious oyster deftly dissected from its socket, a wing, craftily stilettoed from the carcass—quickly, and back into the box with it. There is nothing quite as catching as the desire to steal up on a turk, and knife him a bit."

There is a good deal of [illegible] that people do not like cold turkey, simply because the edge of their hunger has been taken away by the holiday dinner at which it was served.

A garnish of cress is also to be recommended though some people would prefer jelly or the crisp hearts of celery. If the family has had a surfeit of turkey, it is a good plan to wrap what is left over in waxed paper and keep it in a cool and [illegible] place for several days. If the temperature is near freezing, it will keep safely and best if out of doors and circulates around the box or whatever it is in. The point emphasized is that it needs to be wrapped closely to keep it from drying out.

Recooked turkey is something else again, and if need not be the turkey hash which people have pretended to despise often but really have looked forward to as something very much worth eating.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

The pattern, 2580, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3⅝ yards of 40 inch material.

Fancy Corn Salad.

I was rather embarrassed one day while eating at a cafeteria. I had helped myself to some corn salad and also a baked apple, besides some other things. I am very fond of whipped cream on baked apple and so went to the counter where they have the whipped cream and handed the girl what I thought was the baked apple. I noticed she looked at me rather odd, but still I did not wake up until she handed me back not the baked apple with whipped cream but the corn salad.

I surely felt foolish, but my embarrassment was not yet at an end. I tried to find a table where I could sit alone, but had to sit where there was one man. As soon as I was seated I started to take the whipped cream off the salad and put it on the apple and the man watched me with an amused twinkle in his eye. I felt like walking out and leaving my lunch. J. C. Mc.

TAYLOR-MASTRO BOUT ENDS 1929 LISTIC JOLLITY

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The appearance of Bud Taylor and Earl Mastro in the ring at the Chicago Stadium tomorrow night is being hailed as something more than a fight show. The fans are being especially invited to attend [for a small admission fee] because it will be the farewell flistic entertainment of 1929, a jolly era, the passing of which needs a bit of celebrating.

Those who seek to bring to the fore all that is noble in prize fighting point to the fading year as epochal because of numerous items, including the following:

1 The erection of the $7,000,000 Stadium by Paddy Harmon et al. Also Jimmy's heroic work in extinguishing a fire on the roof of the Stadium on opening night, when all indoor attendance records were being broken underneath Paddy and his fire bucket.

Got New Ring Board.

3 The old boxing commission was ousted in 1929 and, after Gov. Emmerson announced he wanted big shots to supervise the game, J. V. Clinnin, Georg Getz, and Fred Gardner, all prominent citizens, took over the job. And seriously, too.

4 There was much booing at fights in 1929, but only one fatal riot. This is looked upon as an enviable record.

5 Jim Mullen lost his shirt again. But he got it back, in part, through the loyalty of his public and the exhibition of the Great Shires, a ball player turned fighter for the nonce.

6 While it scarcely seems a matter for celebration, 1929 also is the year in which Paddy Harmon was kicked out of the Stadium he built, which later went civic.

7 This year marked the passing of the professional amateur boxer. While a moral move in itself, the commission's restrictions have had an immoral effect, for many stags have gone back to hooch dancing for entertainment, whereas they had been staging boxing shows.

8 The officiating has been dandy. The referees have kept the boys going and New York has had scores of nose dives while the dry tank technique has not been attempted here because of the stern mien of the officials, who are prejudiced against diving.

Bud and Earl Can Fight.

There are several dozen other reasons why they're going to celebrate 1929 at the Stadium tomorrow night. But right now we can't think of them. One that occurs to us is that Bruno Raggio isn't scheduled to get another permit from the commission. But we mustn't tax our mind further just now.

Of course, the fights themselves are going to be worth more than the price of admission, without the celebration features.

Then, in the semi-windup, Hein Mueller is going to fight Elsear Rioux. These boys have great futures if they don't do anything to stunt their growth. Elsear is a frail chap of only 98 pounds, but at that is bigger than Hein, who's really just a kid, full of ambition and a desire to please.

Tuffy Is Grouchy; He's Homesick, Says Dad Griffith

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 25.—[Special.]—"So this is Christmas, eh," mused Tuffy Griffith, the Sioux City lighter, as he took an extra healthy bang at the punching bag today in Stillman's gymnasium. "You would never know it to look around this joint were it not for the grand display of hand painted haberdashery I've looked at for the last hour or so.

"Hey, you with the sandy colored mop! Move over a bit and pull your head over that thing, will ya, before I get cockeyed."

He was directing his remarks at a young man who was standing along-side the punching bag stand resplendent in the gosh-awfulest bright red tie we ever feasted your lamps on.

Gerald Ambrose was in an ugly mood. This, as his father, a big, square shouldered, six foot agriculturist explained, was due to the fact that this was his first Christmas away from home. "He's homesick," said Griffith apologetically, "but that will wear off when I drag him back to the hotel and fill him with turkey. My neck is still sore from yapping at the Woolworth building," he said as he rubbed the back of his sixteen inch collarband.

These Were the Things They Needed; but Santa, 'Tis Said, Forgot 'Em

Some of the items Santa Claus forgot to bring:

A stadium for Paddy Harmon.

Something or somebody for Charley Cash and Carry Pyle to manage.

POT-POURRI.

THE Wake finds that many of our readers have taken a cordial dislike to the Great Shires, probably because he is nothing which could be compared to a modest violet. We do not sympathize with that viewpoint. We cannot bring ourself to believe he is a dumb braggart. If a braggart he is at all, he is a smart braggart. He knows the value of publicity and color in these drab, monotonous days.

Rather blame us newspaper men who fall for his stunts. Nothing is so hard to crash as a newspaper which does not want to be crashed. The Great Shires is "good copy." If you do not think he goes over big, just look at the offers he is receiving for fistic bouts all over the country after we of Chicago had made up our minds he had had his fling and no longer was a great drawing card. The Great Shires, no doubt, is crazy—like a fox.

Chicago's Blackhawks are slipping in the hockey league. That was to be expected with such a hard schedule against top notch teams. If our local skaters win half their games during the building up process, that's about all we can expect. Perhaps their greatest handicap later will prove the lack of a permanent area of ice for practice.

Florida is having trouble with its horse racing because of anti-gambling laws. Florida needs racing to compete as a winter resort against Cuba and California. Sooner or later that idea will prevail. It is far better for the sport, and we think for the state, to have enabling legislation with supervision by and revenue to the state than to have racing conducted by various subterfuges by toleration of county officials. Why talk of gambling after the recent Wall street debacle?

Airplanes go 150 miles in air, soliloquizes A Knox Teke, automobiles go 200 miles per hour, but my money at this season goes fastest of all.

The Platers In New Orleans.

The trees are bare and the shifting wind
Whistles a song that means
The summer is gone and it's time to play
The platers in New Orleans.

Ah, many's the bet I've cashed with joy
On the stakes of northern greens,
But sweeter far are the bets I cash
On the platers in New Orleans.

But each winter something wrenches
My heart down South, and so—good-by,
I'm headed for New Orleans.

For snapper sweet fresh from the Gulf
And red hot chili beans,
And old Jeff park and its oyster shells
And the Fair Grounds in New Orleans.

So let it snow and freeze and blow,
I'll bask in sunny scenes,
Laying my bets and cashing a few

TILDEN WINS YULE DAY DINNER FROM BOROTRA

PARIS, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Jean Borotra was compelled to play host to his tennis rival, Big Bill Tilden, this evening for a Christmas dinner at one of the most expensive restaurants in Paris as the result of a friendly wager between Tilden and the Bounding Basque concerning their prowess on the courts.

Tilden, paired with Charles Kingsley of Great Britain, with whom he will play in the covered courts Christmas cup tournament beginning tomorrow, defeated Borotra and Luis Torralva of Chile, 7-5, 17-15 in a practice match. Borotra had anticipated an entirely different result and had backed his opinion to the extent of the best dinner in town.

Billiard Directors Rule on Eligibility for Tourneys

Any player who fails to finish among the first two in any of the three major billiard tournaments will be eligible to compete in more than one championship meet, it was announced yesterday by C. A. Storer, director of players for the National Billiard Association of America. This decision was made as the result of a protest filed by Willie Hoppe, who asked for an opinion, as he is anxious to take part in the world's three cushion, as well as the world's 18-2 balk line tourney this season.

New York, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Frank J. [Lefty] O'Doul of the Phillies was formally proclaimed champion batsman of the National league today with the issuance of the official averages for the 1929 season. O'Doul, a former pitcher and castoff by other major league clubs, led with an average of .398. Unofficial averages had credited him with .400.

O'Doul procured 254 hits during the campaign, a new major league record. This topped by four safeties the record of 250 established by Rogers Hornsby for St. Louis in 1922. O'Doul and Lloyd Waner of the Pirates each registered 181 singles.

Rogers Hornsby, who won the most valuable player award as a result of his consistent efforts for the Chicago Cubs during the season, also broke a National league record by scoring 156 runs. Hazen Cuyler, now a Cub, scored 144 runs with Pittsburgh in 1925 to establish the previous high. Hornsby led, too, with the most total bases, 410.

Cuyler Steals 43 Bases.

Hornsby, however, saw one of his league marks shot away by another newcomer in such select class. Chuck Klein, also of the Phillies, made a new home run record with 43. Hornsby hit 42 in 1922.

Johnny Frederick's 52 two base hits were enough to create another record. Lloyd Waner led in triples with 20. Freddy Maguire, Boston, topped the sacrifice hitters with 26 and Cuyler showed the way to the base stealers with 43.

The hitting in 1929 was better than that offered for 1928. Sixty players hit for .300 or better. In 1928 the .300 hitters numbered only 47.

Hornsby Plays Every Game.

Only five players participated in all the games their teams played. Philadelphia had three of the exclusive quintet, O'Doul, Arthur Whitney, and Frank Hurst. The others were Hornsby of the Cubs and George Sisler of the Braves, who probably has played his last season as a regular.

O'Doul is the fourth player to lead the National league while wearing the uniform of Philadelphia and the first for nearly 20 years. Sherwood Magee had the honor in 1910. Ed Delehanty had topped the heap in 1899, and Billy Hamilton in 1891.

O'Doul won the batting championship by 17 points from Floyd [Babe] Herman of Brooklyn. The Robin outfielder took the runnerup position from Hornsby by a single point.

BOSTON DEFEATS TORONTO, 6 TO 2, FOR 8TH IN ROW

Boston, Mass., Dec. 25.—(AP)—The Boston Bruins ran their string of consecutive victories to eight here tonight when the Toronto Maple Leafs were humbled, 6 to 2. Cooney Weiland, midget center, scored two of the champions' tallies, thereby increasing his total scores to 25, the highest individual figure in the National Hockey league.

Both teams battled evenly during the first period. But the Bruins opened up in the second and left the ice with a 3 to 0 lead. During the final period the Bruins caged three more and their defense was so tight the Leafs were able to poke the rubber through Tiny Thompson only twice.

While the Leafs were pressing hard late in the third period Dutch Gainor hurled his stick at an opponent and drew a major penalty.

SOUTHERN LOOP FROWNS ON TILT WITH GRID PROS

Richmond, Va., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Dr. N. W. Doughty of Knoxville, Tenn., president of the southern conference, tonight said conference athletes who participate in the New Year's day football game scheduled here between Benny Friedman's all-star professional team and a Virginia collegiate team will be ineligible for further intercollegiate competition and will be barred from coaching or officiating in conference institution games.

Al Kellett's just missed a free throw in the second half of the Bruins-Fort Wayne basketball game. And this is how the players reach for the ball with one hand and shove with the other. Tillie Voss (right) bats at the ball, taking care a Hoosier shall not get it. On the other side of the free throw lane Honey Russell keeps Chadwick, Fort Wayne center, under control and prepares to handle the ball if it comes his way.

There Is No Foe Like Former Friend, Baseball Chiefs Find

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, N. Y., Dec. 25.—It is a very unhappy spectacle which is presented just now by those three quondam friends and neighbors and pals in the bond of clean sport, John J. McGraw, Charles M. Stoneham and Francis Xavier McQuade, partners in the ownership and operation of the New York Giants.

The boys have fallen out with one another and now with the bitterness of love to hatred turned are lawing at each other in the courts and threatening to emit squawk for squawk until all the tender intimate confidences of their joint and several past careers have been spread upon the public record.

Voted Out of $10,000 Job.

Judging from the rather threatening demeanor of Mr. Stoneham and his honor, Judge McQuade, who is a city magistrate of New York, these disclosures will be such as to discomfit all concerned and contribute nothing to the cause of sportsmanship in which they originally joined their efforts. His honor, the judge, a man of very excitable temperament, began the lawing some time ago and now Mr. Stoneham has lawed back at him with a demand for $250,000.

Mr. McGraw does not appear as a separate party in the litigation. The situation presents a fine opportunity to be sore at both of the others and Mr. McGraw's disposition is such that the more people he can be sore at and the sorer he can be at them, the merrier things are to him.

It would be not only difficult but presumptuous in a cause pending before the honorable courts of the state of New York to sort out the complaints of the three high spirited boys. About a year and a half ago, Judge Francis Xavier McQuade suddenly discovered one day that he had been voted out of his office as treasurer of the Giants' baseball firm, with its salary of $10,000 a year.

That evening he was quite angry and issued a paper for the press threatening to tell various interesting things about Mr. Stoneham. But when the newspaper chaps called around to bend a number of eager ears to hear the squawk of the honorable judge against his late colleague, Stoneham, he send out another notice, reading in substance, "Squawk postponed; wet grounds."

One Squawk Deserves Another.

Presumably this is the squawk which the honorable jurist of New York and minor statesman in the councils of Tammany hall purposes to emit now and on the theory that one good squawk deserves another, the squawking promises to be unconfined.

I have gathered that the proprietorship of the New York Giants has been one of the incidental embarrassments of Judge K. M. Landis, the baseball commissioner, in his efforts to square the practice with the idealistic pretensions which he enunciated in the first blush of his authority as commissioner czar of the baseball industry.

Just before Judge Landis consented to do himself the honor of attesting the virtue of the baseball industry, an athlete employed by the Giants was taken by the police in an act of apparent sin concerning a mislaid automobile. The athlete was an out-

Referee—Kennedy [Brooklyn].

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Chicago's Bruins shoved Fort Wayne out of its share of third place in the professional basketball league last night and took charge of that position themselves by defeating the Hoosiers, 24 to 15. And by this performance the Bruins broke their own record of never having won a series from Fort Wayne, having defeated Fort Wayne last Sunday night, 18 to 15.

Five thousand saw the holiday battle, another record, for this was the largest attendance of the season. It was more of a basketball crowd, for here and there the wise cracking artists, solo rooters, instilled an atmosphere which has been missing since the professionals graduated to the Stadium.

Calls 26 Personal Fouls.

The players displayed no holiday spirit. True, they gave cheerfully of the pushing and punching which always marks a Chicago-Fort Wayne game, but it cannot be said that they accepted return gifts as cheerfully. Twenty-six personal fouls were called by Referee Kennedy, a newcomer to Chicago's court. These violations—holdings and pushing—were evenly distributed between the two squads. Gil Ely of the Bruins and Davey Banks of Fort Wayne acquired the legal limit of five each and retired for substitutes.

Referee Sinnott, who was in charge of the Sunday game, found it necessary to call 39 fouls, but the decrease didn't mean that the players suddenly had become mild mannered. Quite the contrary. They blocked with the effectiveness of the gridiron. In addition, they put Referee Kennedy on the pan early in the game and kept him there.

Ralph Miller, as vitriolic of tongue as he is rough in his playing, made several speeches, the subject matter of which tended to prove to the official that he was utterly incompetent. And squat Davey Banks seconded every motion. Davey's earnestness, no doubt, was engendered by the effectiveness of Honey Russell, Bruin guard, who had the Fort Wayne star tied in knots. Banks couldn't break away; neither was he successful in long distance shooting.

Score 6 to 5 at Half.

Davey's lack of heighth was no handicap to his defensive efforts. He wrestled with Russel as if he sought a mat title, but eventually he had five fouls selected from the great number he committed and he retired for Topel.

If there's any proof necessary of the roughness of the game, the score at half time is exhibit A. The Bruins led 6 to 5, one of the lowest totals this year. And, moreover, the count was 3 to 2 in Fort Wayne's favor at the end of 17 minutes of play. Then Kennedy scored on a follow shot and Kellett sank one from center court, during which time Saunders got loose under Fort Wayne's basket to complete the action of the half.

Nat Hickey and Ray Kennedy, Bruin captain, were the sharpshooters of the final period. Each counted three field goals and Kennedy added two tosses from the free throw line to pile up a lead Fort Wayne could not overcome. Kennedy's ten points topped all. Hickey was next for Chicago with seven, while Rus Saunders, as usual, was the most effective of the Hoosier stars, registering eight points. However, Saunders only made two of his seven free throws, and this inability not only affected his floor play but that of his mates who began to believe it was impossible to make the ball perform properly.

Bruin Defense Relaxes.

For 18 minutes of the second half Fort Wayne scored only three points, all by Saunders. During this time Kennedy and Hickey went wild, but they also had valuable passing assistance from Russell, Ely, and Kellett. With two minutes remaining Chicago led, 22 to 8.

Saunders got a point on Tillie Voss' foul, and then Miller, Chadwick, and again Miller put the ball through the loop for field goals. The game was so nearly completed that Chicago's defense relaxed a bit. But it didn't matter, for victory was assured. Kennedy scored the final two Bruin points with a shot from the center circle as the whistle sounded.

The Midwest Athletic club quintet defeated the South Bend Stephensons, composed of former Notre Dame players, 31 to 22. The victory evened the score between the teams since South Bend won last Sunday, 18 to 16. Colerick was the best point getter for South Bend, while Lutz was the offensive star of the Chicago five.

In the other preliminary game the lightweight team of the B. B. R. won easily from Stamford Park, 28 to 4.

PITT GRID TEAM STARTS WEST TO BATTLE TROJANS

Plans to Practice Three Times En Route.

Pasadena Bound

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Thirty-three football players of the University of Pittsburgh, their coaches, and other members of the official party entrained tonight on special cars of the Pennsylvania road for their trip to the Pacific coast. The Panthers meet the University of Southern California in the Tournament of Roses classic at Pasadena, Cal., New Year's day. The team will practice three times en route to the coast.

University of Pittsburg officials tonight announced that Head Coach Sutherland, at the university here since 1924, had signed a new five year contract.

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pasadena, Cal., Dec. 25.—With the departure of Pittsburgh tonight and resumption of practice tomorrow by Southern California, interest in the intersectional football game between the Panthers and Trojans in Rose Bowl New Year's day again has been kindled.

Although the game is being discussed more than any other Rose Bowl struggle, neither team has been made a favorite. Those who favor Southern California are waiting to get a glimpse of Pitt. These partisan fans know what the Trojans can do if they have one of their good days.

Scrimmage Billed Today.

Stories have reached these parts relative to the strength of the Panthers and their reserve power. Even now, Coach Howard Jones and members of the U. S. C. squad realize they have a battle impending. In practice Southern California has tried all sorts of combinations. Second string backs have been working with the regulars to perfect timing of formations and team play. The same has been true of the forwards. Indications are the Trojan coach will use, at least, thirty players.

Southern California was excused from practice today but has been ordered to report tomorrow for a long scrimmage drill.

Arrival of the Panthers eagerly is awaited. Followers of football are anxious to secure glimpses of Donchess, Uansa, Montgomery and Parkinson, four players who were selected on first or second all-American elevens. Not since the days of the Four Horsemen of Notre Dame has a quartet been mentioned so often. Donchess is being favorably compared with Tappaan, the all-American end of the Trojans, and all sorts of wagers have been made that either Russell Saunders of Southern California or Uansa of Pittsburgh will gain the most ground.

Pitt is scheduled to arrive Monday. According to Coach Jock Sutherland's plans, practice will be held in the Rose Bowl that afternoon and Tuesday. Southern California will move to Pasadena after Saturday's practice and also will work in the bowl.

ARMY SCRIMMAGES END.

Chicago Maple Rollers Earn $2,477 Purse

Toledo, O., Dec. 25.—[Special.]—Chicago and Detroit bowlers carried off high honors in the 11th annual tournament of the Central States Bowling association which closed here Monday, according to the official prize list of winners completed today by Secretary William Mattison.

Chicago bowlers collected $2,477 prize money. Detroit led with $2,629, and Cleveland was third with $1,000. The Chicago bowlers won $1,257 in the five men event, $457 in the doubles, $685 in the singles, and $78 in the all events.

The W. A. Henderson Plasterers and the Edelweiss carried off the high Chicago prize in the five men event. These two outfits were tied for third prize money in the main event with a 3,126 score. The Duffy Florals were second high with 3,097, which netted them $200, and the Mineralites were third with 3,066, which earned them $175.

B. Bemichi won high honors of the meet in all events with 2,090, a new world's record, which won him $40. The Chicago winners follow:

fielder of some note, and although he was subsequently given a writ of exoneration by the people, per the courts, and notwithstanding his apparently undiminished proficiency at outfielding, he was whispered out of the baseball industry, and did not reappear.

In view of this prime interpretation of the quality of virtue it was inconsistent of the baseball commissioner to take no action at all on Mr. Stoneham himself when, at a later date, he became involved in an action having to do with the liquidation of a stock brokerage firm in which he was interested. The baseball player was whispered out of the industry upon a mere indictment and his formal exoneration, for lack of sufficient evidence, or whatever cause, was insufficient to reinstate him.

Landis Takes Other Tack.

But when one of the proprietors of the firm was called upon to account for conduct of much greater consequence, and even when, in the final adjudication of the case, written opinion of Superior court found unmistakable evidence of an intent to defraud, Mr. Landis did not feel called upon to whisper the proprietor out. Of course one cannot whisper a proprietor out of the possession of his stock in a baseball corporation, and this, possibly, is the reason why Mr. Landis ignored the matter entirely.

On the surface of things it might appear to the public that the presence of a learned jurist in the official family of the Giants would be a guarantee of dignity and the most meticulous ethics, but there are courts and judges and again there are other courts and other judges. His honor Judge McQuade ornaments the bench of the lowest or most minor tribunal in the New York system and city magistrates are not held in the same regard as judges of the Supreme court or the Court of Appeals.

City magistrates appear who have been boys among the boys around the town for years and who, upon their accession to the bench, remain, in their hours off duty, boys among the boys. I would not care to be understood assuming the dignity of Magistrate McQuade's bearing, even when he is off the bench, but it is no libel to intimate that there is a certain lack of restraint about him which will always set him apart from Harlan F. Stone and William Howard Taft.

Mr. Kenny Gets Into It.

Indeed, Mr. Stoneham, in his bill of petition for $250,000 against Judge McQuade, speaks of incidents in which his late pal socked certain cash customers at the ball yard and his causing the ball club to be tossed out of certain hotels on the spring training trips. Such hotels, in my observation, are quite tolerant, so the decorum which Mr. Stoneham has in mind would seem to have been unusually carefree even for a jurist carrying so light an impost of dignity as that of a New York City magistrate.

Years ago when the Messrs. Stoneham, McGraw and McQuade bought the baseball firm, in a mood of extreme chumminess, they made an agreement that none should ever be permitted to sell his stock without the consent of the other two. This compact binds them together still in a domestic arrangement that has become irksome of recent years.

Among the minority stockholders who are opposing and accusing Mr. Stoneham is a new one, Mr. William F. Kenny, contractor, politician and friend of Al Smith, who testified that he would peel the shirt of his back for his friend Al and who recently, while touring Europe, cabled home to New York to his barber to meet him in London and give him a decent shave.

Mr. Kenny does not seem to regard publicity as distasteful, but then he has not really seen any publicity yet as compared to the kind he is likely to experience by the time the boys of the old ownership have squawked their last squawk in court. This looks like no place for a gentleman whose taste in publicity turns to harmless whimsies about the sacrifice of his shirt and thousand dollar shaves.

MASSEY BEATS DATTO AS FANS BOO DECISION

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Lew Massey of Philadelphia won an unpopular decision over Johnny Datto, Cleveland slugger, in the ten round windup of the Christmas matinee at the Arena today. Each scaled 125½ pounds. The verdict, given by the referee after the two judges had disagreed, was hooted by the fans.

Paul Bunyan Earns $7,000 at N. O. Track

New Orleans, La., Dec. 25.—[Special.]—Paul Bunyan became the leading money winner of the Jefferson Park meeting by galloping to victory in the $5,000 Christmas handicap today. The winner's share of $3,850 brought his total earnings during the meeting to $7,000.

The mile and a sixteenth race brought out sixteen starters. Chancellor, the favorite, was crowded out in the early stages and Calf Roper moved up to set the pace to the stretch. Then Paul Bunyan came fast on the outside and stood off the challenge of Patricia Marian to win by a head. Uncommon Gold was third.

TORCHILLA BEATS CLEAR SKY.

HAVANA, Cuba, Dec. 25.—[Special.]—Torchilla, a 2 to 1 shot, racing in the silks of Clyde Van Dusen, won the $2,500 Christmas handicap here today. He beat J. E. Smallman's Clear Sky by two lengths, with King David third.

Jockey McCrossen took Torchilla to the front in the early stages and led all the way.

ARLY DEFEATS IME HOOSIERS OR BIG 9 RIVALS

BY HARLAND ROHM.

Indiana, rarely at a loss for good basketball players, is doubly dangerous to its conference opponents this season. Co-champions in the 1927 race, the Hoosiers flopped sadly in the 1928 campaign, finishing with four victories and eight lost, an unusually low standing for them.

Three reasons were many. There were cases of dissension. There probably was overconfidence that resulted in a surprising series of early season defeats. Lastly, the Hoosiers were the youngest team of the conference, for they scored exactly as many points as their opponents. The answer is seven of their eight defeats came by an average of three points a game.

Seven Letter Men Return.

This season Indiana starts with seven veteran team, the five men who played together the last part of last season being back. The "trouble makers" are gone. Any overconfidence the team might have had should have been completely eliminated by the practice game defeats. If those defeats seem to indicate the Hoosiers will be strong this year, consider the conquerors. DePauw, which won from 26, is strong and Pittsburgh, which was barely able to win 15 to 31, is one of the strongest collegiate quintets in the country. The Hoosiers appeared at their worst in losing to Pennsylvania.

Indiana lost four letter men—Dale Hood, captain and forward; Schell, forward, guard, and Correll, floor guard, by graduation, and Dee Cooper, a forward, did not return to school. But seven players who got their letters last year are back: Branch McCracken, captain and center; Jasper, center; Ashby, Rose, and Strickland, forwards; Vaughn, floor guard, and Gill, back guard. Starting with all those letter men, two freshmores apparently have proved themselves good enough to push the veterans out of the regular lineup—Joe Reiser, a forward, and Billy Blagrove, a guard.

McCracken to Play Center.

McCracken will jump center and use his lack of the skyscraping proportions of most modern basketball stars, he is about as good as any in the conference. He was tied for second in individual scoring two more years, scoring 123 points as a sophomore and 102 as a junior. Ivan Strickland, who has scored more than 80 points in each of the two conference seasons, has one guard position reserved for himself. The other is a toss-up. Zeller and Veller, both sophomores, have been starting at that place and both have played well, so whichever one gets the final call for the position will be well played. Ward Lyons will play the back guard position, with Aaron Veller of Linton will hold down his usual spot at floor guard and Eber of Muncie High school probably beats him out.

The Hoosiers open their conference season at Chicago, Jan. 11 and in addition play Northwestern, Michigan, Wisconsin, Ohio and Minnesota.

Foreign Programs Are Heard in Rebroadcast.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

"Wake up; wake up; Holland is on the air." Through my chamber door came those commanding words shortly after 11 o'clock yesterday morning. I could not believe it, for along with it there came from the loudspeaker in the living room the clear voice of a woman singing a solo. But it was true. Holland, rebroadcast locally through KYW; time 11 to 11:30 a. m.

After Holland a broadcast from Germany was heard. Germany held the ear of the world from 11:45 a. m. to 2:5 p. m. Though the broadcast did not seem quite so clear, the program was a lovely one. It was a string quartet program, in which the first violin gave the melody much greater prominence than is customary in the United States. A Christmas "Noël," "Holy Night," and "Swanee River," among others, were played. Broadcasting like this should form ties that would bind nation to nation.

And then, from 1 to 1:30, came a broadcast from England, a radio drama entitled "Christmas Day in the Trenches." A peach of a playlet, and punctuated liberally with the typically British expressions. At the close of the British broadcast the announcer stated that he "hoped this program could be heard as clearly as we heard NBC (Schenectady) this afternoon." All announcers at each of the foreign stations wished the United States a Merry Christmas.

The dramatization of Handel's oratorio, "The Messiah," presented from WGN, 3:30 to 5, was, I take it, a wholly original undertaking. It was very effective, both as to the narration and the music. A cast of characters assumed the rôles called for in the oratorio, and in some respects the dramatic characters took the place of the chorus. And, none of the chorus numbers was sung. So, the musical portion consisted of the orator's recitatives. These were admirably sung by Madeline Bail, soprano; Lillian Knowles, contralto; Walter Preston, tenor, and Mark Love, bass. The lovely orchestral score and accompaniment was played by the WGN Symphony orchestra, Gaston de Moulin conducting. The dramatization was the work of Jean Conover of the W-G-N staff.

Say Sandino Is Living High on Nicaragua Bribe Money

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 25.—(AP)—The newspaper Universal reported today that the communist party of Mexico, the Mexican chapter of the Anti-Imperialist league, and the "hands-off-Nicaragua" committee were investigating rumors that Gen. Sandino, exiled Nicaraguan Liberal leader, had accepted $40,000 as the price of his leaving Nicaragua. Sandino has been living at Merida, where, according to charges brought by the three political groups, he is leading the life of a millionaire.

Salesman and Wife Die When Train Strikes Auto

Findlay, O., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Arlington Keel, 34, candy salesman of this city, and his wife, 53, were killed today when their automobile was struck by a Nickel Plate freight train at a crossing in the village of McComb, about eight miles northwest of here.

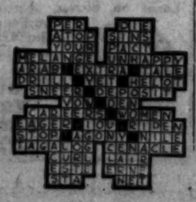
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Little Willie

FORMER ARMY OFFICER TAKES HIS OWN LIFE

Broker's Letters Found in His Pocket.

New York, Dec. 25.—[Special.]—Paul J. Diemer, 38 years old, an ex-officer of the 149th Field artillery and former commander of the Montclair American Legion post, committed suicide this morning just outside the Seventh precinct police station in Jersey City.

Two Pistols Found.

The police said they found a pistol near the dead man's body and another in his car, which was nearby. In his coat there were several letters, one of which indicated Diemer might have been influenced by Wall street affairs in taking his own life.

One letter was apparently a reply from a letter sent by Diemer to a broker asking either for assistance or a job. His occupation was that of a customer's man.

Extravagance Blamed.

The broker explained in his letter, according to police, that his first duty was to persons involved in the recent disaster, and that Diemer was not such a victim but was rather the victim of his own extravagance.

In another note, the police say, Diemer explained he was taking his life in order that his estate might benefit by about $16,000 insurance.

Box Car Robber Shot, Two Escape When Surprised

John Pavlis, 29 years old, 952 South Morgan street, was shot in the right leg last night by Felix Bird, 2848 West 22d place, a watchman, who surprised Pavlis and two companions while they were robbing a box car on the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad tracks at 16th and Morgan streets. Pavlis was taken to the Bridewell hospital. He refused to tell the names of his two companions who escaped.

Auto Drives Into Crowd of Children; Injures 20

Jamestown, N. Y., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Twenty persons were injured tonight, some seriously, at Cherry Creek, near here, when the automobile of Stanley Rankowski, 55, ploughed through a line of children waiting to receive presents at a community Christmas celebration. Mayor G. Sheldon Frost suffered a broken leg. Most of the injured were small children.

KILLS SELF ON CHRISTMAS.

DAWES GETS YANKEE TOBACCO AS A GIFT; THEN PUFF, PUFF, PUFF

LONDON, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Ambassador Dawes puffed away on his understung pipe in complete happiness tonight after Christmas dinner at Lady Astor's, for he got one Christmas present that pleased him very much. It was not from Lady Astor, but from the embassy staff, each and every member of which yesterday received a generous personal gift from the ambassador.

The appreciative staff sent scouts to find what Gen. Dawes wanted in his own stocking. With great decisiveness the ambassador said that he did not want anything to eat, wear or drink, and added emphatically that he certainly did not want flowers.

After thinking for a while, he said that if any one could find him some of his favorite American smoking tobacco he would be pleased. The embassy staff found a big jar of it at a London tobacconist's, and the old understung pipe worked overtime tonight.

SON CONFESSES KILLING FATHER TO SAVE MOTHER

Serano Crucitti, 25 years old, of Mishawaka, Ind., was being held in jail there last night for the inquest into the death of his father, Alphonse, 60 years old, whom he beat to death with a shotgun at his home on Christmas eve. Crucitti surrendered to the police after the killing and was ordered held by Coroner C. B. Crumpacker.

Crucitti said his father attacked his mother during a quarrel over a broken dish, and was beating her when he interfered. The elder Crucitti then grabbed a shotgun and drove the son from the house, according to his story to the police. When they reached the rear porch, the younger man wrested the gun from his father and clubbed him over the head, leaving him dying on the floor of the porch.

Spinal Meningitis Fatal to 5 More at Indianapolis

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 25.—[Special.]—Five persons died here over night of spinal meningitis, prompting city health authorities to broadcast a general warning here today against the epidemic which has caused twenty-two fatalities in two weeks. Thirty active cases are being treated, but serums have proven of little value. An epidemic also is reported at Columbus, Ind.

I. C. Engineer Gets Hoover Medal for Saving Woman

President Hoover has awarded a medal of honor to C. M. Collins, an Illinois Central locomotive engineer of Gilman, Ill., it was announced yesterday. Mr. Collins, on April 14, 1929, leaped in front of a speeding passenger train at Clinton, Ill., and dragged Mrs. J. M. Dale to safety. Engineer Collins was the thirty-third man to receive a medal under an act of congress passed in 1905.

DANIEL GALVIN, CARPENTER UNION OFFICIAL, IS DEAD

Daniel Galvin, who directed the business negotiations of the Chicago Carpenters' District council in the Landis award, died yesterday morning after a brief illness at his home at 5511 West Adams street. He will be buried Saturday morning in Mount Carmel cemetery after services at Resurrection Catholic church.

Mr. Galvin was secretary-treasurer of the Chicago Council of Carpenters for twenty years and resigned from that position three years ago. He came to Chicago from Castle Cove, Ireland, in 1885. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Jennie Peters Galvin, and two daughters, Mrs. Gerald Moran and Ethel Galvin.

Representatives of the Chicago Building Trades council and the Illinois and Chicago Federations of Labor have made plans to attend the funeral.

Mrs. Hannah Drury Funeral Rites Will Be Held Today

Funeral services for Mrs. Hannah Drury, 80 years old, for 55 years a resident of Wilmette, will be held at 2 p. m. today at the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. Mildred Spear McAllister, 719 Cummings avenue, Kenilworth. Burial will be at Rosehill cemetery. Mrs. Drury died on Monday evening at her granddaughter's home, where she had lived for the last year. She was the widow of Edwin Drury, former postmaster of Wilmette, and was a charter member of the Wilmette Woman's club and a special member of the Shawnee Country club. Besides her granddaughter she is survived by a foster daughter, Mrs. Myrtle Ling.

Gold Nugget Discovered in a Christmas Goose

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 25.—(AP)—A goose that gave evidence of being descended from the famous fowl that laid the golden egg was served for Christmas dinner today at the home of Mrs. Cora Warren. The "evidence" was in the form of a gold nugget found in the bird's stomach while Mrs. Warren was preparing it for the oven. The nugget is about one-quarter of an inch in diameter. The goose was purchased at a local market.

Lou Tellegen Burned; Falls Asleep Smoking

Atlantic City, N. J., Dec. 25.—[Special.]—Falling asleep in bed in his room at the Hotel Jefferson, early this morning, with a lighted cigaret in his mouth, Lou Tellegen, actor, was severely burned about the body.

The actor was carried from the room unconscious and taken to the City hospital, where it was found he was badly burned about the hips.

Mr. Tellegen refused to stay at the hospital tonight and went to the theater, where he played his part in the opening of the show.

3 Electrocuted as Auto Fells Power Line Post

Castle, Okla., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Three men were electrocuted tonight when their motor car struck and felled a high tension power line post. The dead are Mike Carson of Prague, Okla., Lawrence Williams, Norman, Okla., and R. Gordon Dovall, Paden, Okla.

Dr. Joseph Bank, 65, Dies While at Children's Party

FUGITIVE LONESOME IN BIG CITY, SO GOES BACK TO PRISON CELL

Trenton, N. J., Dec. 25.—[U.P.]—Solitary confinement was much more desirable than solitary existence in New York City to John Anibite, who escaped from Leesburg prison farm ten days ago, so he sent a prepaid telegram to Edward B. Stone, principal keeper, saying that he was returning.

"I'll be back in prison before midnight," the escaped prisoner's message read. "Stop your search."

It was 11:40 p. m. when John was readmitted through the prison farm gates. Visitors at that hour generally are turned away, but John, thanks to his foresight in making a reservation, was admitted without question. He is serving a five year term for robbery and was committed in February, 1927. He explained that he found New York a strange and terrifying city and that he was haunted continually by the fear that he was being trailed.

WOMAN SAVES TO HELP POOR; IS REWARDED

Kansas City, Dec. 25.—(AP)—A grimy dollar bill dropped upon the table from an equally grimy envelope. It fell among other bills, most of them of larger denomination, many from tinted, scented envelopes.

The clerk in the charity bureau looked a bit disdainfully, perhaps, at the crumpled newcomer. And then he read the accompanying note, penned in shaky lines that bespoke old age.

Today the bill lay in a drawer by itself and a special fund was being raised for its donor.

Los Angeles County Sued by Big Dam Contractors

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 25.—[Special.]—"Anticipated profits" in building the San Gabriel dam, near here, are the basis of a claim made by the contractors against Los Angeles county for $1,200,000. The state recently ordered work on a dam halted because of faulty foundation rock conditions. The contractors already have been paid $1,700,000 for excavation work on what was to be a $25,000,000 pile of masonry.

KILLED INVADING FARM.

Henryetta, Okla., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Charles Williamson, 14 year old Henryetta High school student, was shot and killed today by a farmer named Simpson, as the boy and an older brother were walking across the farmer's peanut field.

"BUSTER" COHEN

REM does double duty in this home

Back and forth to school in all sorts of weather. Outdoor play afterwards, often in wet and cold. That's how "Buster" Cohen of 1146 E. Lombard St., Baltimore, spends his time. Naturally he doesn't escape coughs, but his mother has learned what to do for them. Her husband had tried REM when he had a bad cough and "found it so good that since then we don't use any other cough medicine." So when Buster starts coughing, out comes the bottle of REM—and the cough doesn't linger long. One reason for REM'S remarkable effectiveness is the special ingredient it contains that isn't found in ordinary cough syrups. Harmless—pleasant—effective—what more could you ask?

E. I. du Pont de Nemours.

H. A. H.: E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. reported net income of $20,029,831 for the three months ended Sept. 30, 1929. After deducting $1,489,138 for debenture stock dividends there was a balance available for common dividends amounting to $18,540,693 for the quarter. This was equal to $1.80 per share on 10,322,481 common shares (par $20).

Net income available for dividends in the corresponding quarter of 1928 was $18,209,034, equal to $6.84 per share on the 2,661,658 no par shares then outstanding.

For the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1929, net income was $61,566,243. After deducting $4,350,581 for debenture stock dividends there was a balance of $57,215,662 available for dividends on the common stock. This was equal to $5.64 per share on 10,153,014 common shares, the average number outstanding during the nine months' period.

Net available for common dividends in the first nine months of 1928 was $48,234,159, or $18.16 per share on 2,661,658 no par common shares.

Current assets were $112,035,674 and current liabilities were $23,333,624 on June 30, 1929. This left a net working capital of $88,702,050, which compares with $72,162,464 on June 30, 1928.

The company's earnings statements for the quarter and nine months ending Sept. 30, 1929, show a decided increase in the income derived from the company's own operations in the chemical field. However, the larger proportion of the company's income is still derived from its investments in General Motors corporation.

The company has announced that it will spend more than $25,000,000 on building projects during 1930, including $16,000,000 to complete projects already under way.

Dividends on the $20 par common stock are $4 per year. An extra 70 cent dividend has been declared payable Jan. 4, 1930, to stock of record Nov. 27, 1929.

The common stock is high grade.

Brown Fence and Wire.

A. O. H.: Brown Fence and Wire company reported net income of $624,930 for the year ended June 30, 1929, against $758,243 in the preceding year.

Earnings in the year ended June 30, 1929, were $5 per share on the class "A" stock and $2.49 per share on the class "B" stock, against $5.83 on the class "A" and $3.57 on the class "B" the year before.

As of June 30, 1929, current assets were $2,758,865 and current liabilities were $193,498, leaving a net working capital of $2,545,367. Surplus was $1,672,773.

CENTRAL ALLOY STEEL CORP. MAKES PLANS TO INCREASE PRODUCTION

Central Alloy Steel corporation, Massillon, O., is pushing plans for increased productive facilities for stainless steel products and present capacity output will be greatly expanded in January, it is announced by F. J. Griffiths, chairman.

The firm's product is manufactured in this country under Krupp license and Central Alloy is taking a leading part in getting it into quantity production. A large program to this end, including construction of a new 25 ton electric furnace, is under way. Central Alloy will become a part of the new Republic Steel corporation, the new independent steel combination recently announced by the Continental Shares-Eaton interests of Cleveland.

IMPORTERS TO ASK ERECTION OF NEW BUILDING

Chicago importers, acting in conjunction with the Chicago Association of Commerce, will send a delegation to Washington early next month to urge the erection of a new federal appraiser's building for Chicago.

The present antiquated structure, erected in 1891, at a total cost of only $334,000, is so sadly inadequate that many large local importers are entering their imported merchandise through other ports in order to avoid the annoying delays necessarily involved at Chicago. This condition is badly retarding Chicago's recognition as one of the leading import centers of the country.

Brazil to Pay Coupons on Four Loans in Gold

PARIS, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Brazil has made France a greatly appreciated present by offering to pay coupons on four loans in gold. The ministry of finances today issued the following note: "The Brazilian embassy has just informed the ministry of foreign affairs that all necessary measures have been taken for the payment in gold of the coupons on the four per cent Brazilian loan of 1911, due Jan. 1, 1930. The Brazilian government will also pay in gold all coupons due on three loans that The Hague tribunal recently ruled on, namely those of 1909, 1910, and 1911."

AUTO INDUSTRY GAINING, BANK REVIEW STATES

Cleveland Trust Notes Changes.

"Improved sentiment has appeared in the automobile industry, and present indications are that the trade is beginning to turn the corner toward moderate improvement," says the review of the Union Trust company of Cleveland.

"The industry is now looking forward to the January motor shows," the bank says. "Meanwhile, orders for steel, parts and other materials are showing some increase. The rate of improvement will depend upon developments in the trade in the coming year. It does not appear likely that the situation will justify an immediate upswing to high peaks of production."

The bank estimates the replacement demand for cars and trucks in the United States and Canada during 1930 at 5,000,000 units and total output at somewhat, though not greatly, below 5,000,000 units, as against approximately 5,600,000 produced in 1929.

Plan Schedules.

"Most automobile companies," says the bank, "are planning their schedules for the resumption of operations on a gradually increasing scale early in 1930. The majority are not expecting to reach the peaks of 1929 activity in the coming year, although one large company is reported to be preparing for a substantially larger output.

"The coming motor shows are expected to give an indication of the trend of demand for next year. No dramatic changes in design and engineering are known to be in the making, but some interesting developments are indicated.

"One factor on which the automobile industry is pinning its hopes for 1930 is a further growth in the number of 'two car' families. The increasing efficiency and finer appearance of small low priced cars is making their use more common in well-to-do families to supplement the larger cars."

However, the new high standards of the lower priced cars are making it increasingly hard to sell high grade used cars at a profit. It also reports announcements by the heads of a number of leading automobile companies that they will keep output closely in line with retail requirements, so as not to force dealers to resort to the uneconomical sales methods largely prevailing in former years.

Exports Decline.

"Recently there has been a recession in exports of automobiles compared with preceding months," says the bank. "This recession in exports has resulted partly from reduced sales abroad and partly from the growing tendency on the part of American producers to acquire production facilities in foreign countries. The first factor came about partly as a result of the high money rates in this country, which caused a virtual drying up of loans to Europe, thus affecting the purchasing power of foreign borrowers and buyers.

"The building of plants abroad by American automobile manufacturers may be expected to have some influence upon exports from this country. However, this may not be as great as expected by some, because of the fact that many of the foreign plants are merely assembling plants and the various parts for cars in the main are shipped from the United States to these assembling plants."

CONTRACT CALLS FOR LOAN OF 27 MILLIONS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 25.—A building contract calling for the loan of $27,500,000 in connection with the construction of the 80 story Empire State building on the site of the old Waldorf-Astoria hotel has been filed in the county clerk's office today. The papers were signed in behalf of the Empire State, Inc., by Robert C. Brown, vice president.

Under the terms of the contract the money is loaned at 6 per cent until the completion of the building on April 1, 1931, when the interest will be reduced to 5½ per cent. When the loan has been reduced to $24,475,000 the interest will run at the rate of 5 per cent.

Salvadorean Coffee Men Organize Defense Society

SAN SALVADOR, Dec. 25.—[U. P.]—A coffee defense society has been organized here by a group of leading Salvadorean coffee growers. The society adopted a motion to ask the government to suppress all taxes on coffee exports with the exception of a 25 cent tax per bag of 240 pounds, which would be devoted to support of the new organization. Another motion adopted by the society urged the minister of foreign relations to investigate methods adopted by other coffee growing countries for the defense of their product.

British Like Their Dividends; U. S. Firms Conserve Cash

BY SCRUTATOR.

Some vital differences between the American and the British attitudes toward corporation profits and dividends becomes apparent in almost every study of what leading companies on the two sides of the Atlantic do annually.

The British like their dividends. In the public mind of the isles there is no leaning toward investing money in a concern that may some time in the future give a return that is worth while. The investors like a dividend showing. Before the recent slump in the American markets, however, few good stocks were giving comparable yields and some of the most popular were paying nothing at all on common issues.

A compilation made by the Times Trade and Engineering Supplement for the year 1928-'29 and reprinted by the United States department of commerce covered about 125 leading British firms in thirteen industrial groups. Shipping and rubber companies as a class paid out more in dividends than they earned on their capital, using some of the past profits to make up the deficits. Moreover, the coal, iron and steel concerns showed a ratio of profits to capital amounting to only one-half of 1 per cent, but of dividends to capital the ratio was 3.3 per cent.

Not a Good Year.

The year considered was not a good one for most of the lines surveyed. Ten of the thirteen had smaller profits than in the preceding twelve month and three larger profits. Declines in dividends paid were likewise noted in ten industries, while in three there were slight increases.

Earnings, seemingly, were more fully handed out to stockholders than is usual in the United States. Electrical groups, leading in this respect, withheld about 20 to 25 per cent of their distributable funds. Chemical, brewing, wool, tea and cotton firms left from 10 to 20 per cent of earnings in their treasuries.

The showings may give an unfair picture of individual firms. Probably the dividends were declared by the more prosperous corporations in each group, while the losers gave none save those on preferred stocks. Admitting this, however, it seems fairly certain that British firms get rid of a larger part of their profits annually than do the leading American firms.

Hope Plays Part in U. S.

This could be considered a commentary on the financial ideas of the two countries. Americans for several years bought hope for the future rather than consolation in the form of dividends. Our biggest corporations are noted for conservatism in distribution. Many of the greatest successes among them were built up by retention of funds sufficiently large to finance expansion programs. This deferment of returns for consumption probably could not have been carried on in a country like England, where the line between capitalist and laborer is more sharply drawn.

The British insistence on the dividend has a disadvantage to management in that the large percentage distribution sometimes prevents the scrapping of machinery that has become obsolescent. Several months ago, in the cotton mill troubles at Manchester, it was learned that machines a half century old were in use. Some of Britain's industries are built so solidly that they cannot shift to meet new conditions. American economy is built on the proposition that nothing is likely to remain the same for a long period.

Otis Steel Company Keeps Furnaces Open Christmas

Cleveland, O., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Demand from automobile companies for semi-finished steel is so great that the Otis Steel company operated its open hearth furnaces today. E. J. Kulas, president, said that one rush order from a large motor car manufacturer calls for enough auto body sheets for 135,000 fenders.

NORTHERN PACIFIC NET OPERATING REVENUE DROPS IN NOVEMBER

The net railway operating income of the Northern Pacific railway in November was $2,050,033, and for the eleven months of 1929 the total net was $20,333,407, according to the monthly report of revenues and expenses filed with the interstate commerce commission.

The November, 1929, net decreased $1,180,202 when compared with November, 1928, while for the eleven months in 1929 the decrease was $2,824,722, when compared with the corresponding period in 1928.

The railway operating revenues for November, 1929, totaled $7,895,406, while in November, 1928, the total was $9,241,226, and for the eleven months of 1929 the total operating revenues were $89,814,321, to be compared with $93,704,907 in the corresponding period in 1928.

Only 180 N. Y. Exchange Rights Remain Unexercised

New York, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Only 180 rights, each equal to one-fourth of a seat on the New York Stock Exchange, out of a total of 1,100 issued last spring, remain unexercised. The 920 rights, or 230 memberships, exercised to date include 20 rights for which approval is expected to be given by the exchange soon.

Deny Reports of Fairbanks Merger Plan

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 25.—Denying reports of a possible merger with some other company, George M. Naylor, president of the Fairbanks company, said that "various favorable statements which have appeared recently with respect to the earnings of the company and its affairs generally do not accurately represent the facts."

According to the books of the company the statement said, "the net earnings for October, 1929, were $32,763 after interest, depreciation and federal taxes, which is now the high monthly record in the company's history. Regarding possible dividend payments the Fairbanks company has outstanding $1,111,181 of serial notes, and the indenture under which they were issued provides that the company will pay no dividends on any class of its stock until the amount of such notes is reduced by $500,000."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 25.—All financial and commercial markets, home and foreign, were closed today for the Christmas holiday. On no other day of the year is suspension of business throughout the world so spontaneous and complete. Perhaps this Christmas week has brought an unusually large sheaf of vain regrets to the financial community. Nevertheless, a certain atmosphere of cheer surrounds even the year-end markets.

The two months since the Wall street crisis have at least not created the apprehension of impending calamity which hung over Christmas day in such years as 1920 and 1914 and 1893. It may be wholly in accord with the spirit of the season that the trade reviews, instead of drawing from the week's great shrinkage in productive activity the inference that hard times are ahead, should be predicting that this curtailment of orders will so far reduce supplies for necessary purposes that an equivalently sharp recovery in trade orders and trade activity will develop early in the new year.

Reaction Is Real.

Of the scope of trade reaction at the moment there can be no question. Steel reduction is down to 40 per cent of capacity, the lowest of any winter month since 1921, and comparing with 80 per cent two months ago. Movement of goods on the railways is falling to a lower weekly total than at any time since the deflation period. What the Christmas trade has actually been as compared with other years is not yet clearly evident but there is evidence of forced retrenchment in many directions.

This was expected after last autumn's prodigious speculative losses and the lavish expenditure of paper profits which had shortly preceded them. It is still to be determined how far this represents serious impairment of nation-wide purchasing power.

Positive conclusions on that question at the moment might easily be premature. It should not be forgotten that reaction in trade activity was visibly under way, even before the Wall street breakdown. Consumption had been running under abnormally high pressure during a good many months, and so high an authority as Henry Ford has publicly admitted that the early months of 1929 were a period of overproduction. What he meant, apparently was not so much that unsold supplies had banked up in awkward quantities in dealers' hands—though that also seems to have occurred in one or two industries—as that the consumer himself oversupplied his needs.

Parallel Cases.

In 1927 and 1924 the halt of a few months seemed to restore equilibrium on the previous scale of consumers buying or on a still larger scale. The parallel with those incidents is not, however, exact, for the obvious reason that in those years the previous expansion in consumers demands had not been comparable with the recent expansion and that the financial setback which followed had been a trifling compared with that of last October and November.

FINANCIAL NOTES

This week will witness the usual holiday decline in new financing. Especially when Christmas occurs in mid-week, investment houses offer the bulk of their new issues during the preceding week for the January reinvestment demand and this year was no exception to the rule. Less than $10,000,000 in new bonds was brought out this week, these consisting entirely of municipals. During the corresponding week last year, the total was $30,914,000. Last week the volume of new bond financing was the heaviest of the year, amounting to $227,479,000.

While the weekly car loadings figures continue to show decreased business activity, compared with that prevailing a year ago, the decline has not yet assumed the proportions which several experts predicted. One well known economic service has been advising its clients that trade during the first six months of 1930 would be at approximately the same pace as it was during the business depression of 1924. Thus far, however, the car loadings figures have shown that the depression has not even been as severe as was the recession in trade in 1927, which was not as sharp as the lull in 1924. Last week's car loadings were 40,428 less than the corresponding week of 1928, but were 54,498 more than the corresponding week of 1927. It was the ninth successive week in which car loadings had fallen behind the figures for 1928.

Final Plans to Be Decided This Week.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 25.—Final steps in the formation of a national cotton corporation, the third of the series of central marketing agencies being set up by the federal farm board, will be taken Friday at a conference of cotton coöperative leaders with members of the board in Washington.

The two national corporations already formed since the farm board's creation six months ago are the $20,000,000 Farmers' National Grain corporation, incorporated on Oct. 29, and the $1,000,000 National Wool Marketing corporation, the papers for which are expected to be filed before Jan. 1. The grain agency, with headquarters in Chicago, has been actively functioning for several weeks.

All of the preliminary arrangements for the new cotton organization were completed at a meeting of cotton coöperatives at Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 11, and the conference Friday will be to iron out the details of a charter and by-laws.

Organization Committee.

Those to attend are members of a subcommittee selected at Memphis to put the finishing touches on the organization plan for its incorporation. They are:

A. L. Morley, Oklahoma City, Okla., chairman; Harry Williams, Dallas, Tex.; N. C. Williamson, New Orleans, La.; Allen Northington, Montgomery, Ala.; U. B. Blalock, Raleigh, N. C., and A. H. Stone, Greenwood, Miss.

When the national cotton corporation comes into existence the board members feel they will have hurdled the last of the three difficulties encountered in the pioneer stage of their work—namely, the setup of marketing agencies for the most important farm products—grain, wool, and cotton. With these as models, they believe, organization of agencies for the lesser commodities will be a relatively simple task.

Shortly after its inception, the farm board, as provided under the relief act, designated as separate and distinct "agricultural commodities" ten group of farm products, announcing at the time that other commodities might be designated in the future. The ten chosen were: Grains, wool, cotton, livestock, dairy products, tobacco, rice, poultry, seeds and potatoes. It is probable that apples and deciduous fruit other than apples will be designated as commodities in the near future.

Livestock to Come Next.

Soon after the cotton corporation is completed the board's program calls for attention to the proposed $1,000,000 national livestock marketing association, which probably will be the fourth of the central sales agencies. General plans for the livestock corporation were laid at a Chicago conference Oct. 24 and these are now in the hands of a subcommittee.

Next in line will be the fruits and vegetables coöperatives, whose leaders have been summoned to Washington for a conference Jan. 14. In the meeting call issued by the board the underlying policy that the growers can be aided "only by creating national coöperative sales organizations" was again emphasized and one or more such organizations will probably be initiated at the conference. The chief point of discussion will be whether to place the various fruits and vegetables in separate organizations or to merge them into one.

Has Made Fine Progress.

Despite delays now and then caused by disputes between existing local and regional coöperatives and political interferences in Washington, the big scale organization program of the farm board, under the direction of Chairman Alexander Legge, has in the opinion of most observers made amazing progress. In less than seven months two national corporations have been completed and two others are well under way. Meanwhile aid in the form of loans have been extended to many of the smaller coöperatives.

The theory underlying the formation of the nationals is that eventually the board will deal through them with the local and regional bodies, and in the course of several years the whole vast marketing machinery will be functioning by itself.

Asset in Revolving Fund.

During the present stages of the farm board's program its strongest asset is a $500,000,000 revolving fund authorized by congress. Only $150,000,000 of this sum has been appropriated and only a part of the appropriation has actually been spent. As the national corporations, one after the other, are set up and financed, however, the board expects to call on congress for further appropriations which will be loaned out to the corporations and through them to the coöperatives and their grower members.

New Bedford, an important New England community, is now being served by the Associated System

New Bedford Continues Her Industrial Advance---

Today, New Bedford continues her commercial and industrial advance. Primarily an industrial center of diversified manufacturing, New Bedford employs 35,000 wage earners.

New Bedford has a larger percentage of owned homes than any city of 100,000 population or over in New England. Savings bank deposits in 1928 were $447 per capita compared with $237 for the country as a whole.

Opportunity for New Industries

New Bedford, with ample skilled labor and electric power and gas at attractive rates, offers numerous advantages to industry. A deep harbor and excellent highway and railroad transportation facilities bring it close to the rich consuming markets. For a survey based on your specific needs, write to our Industrial Department or the Industrial Development Division, Board of Commerce, New Bedford, Mass.

LEGAL NOTICES.

STATE OF ILLINOIS,
DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS AND BUILDINGS,
SPRINGFIELD, ILLINOIS.
ADVERTISEMENT.
Notice is hereby given that sealed proposals will be received at the office of the Department of Public Works and Buildings, Springfield, Illinois, until ten o'clock, A. M., Friday, January 3rd, 1930, for all Portland Cement required during the period from April 1st, 1930, to March 31st, 1931, for use on the highway, bridge, and culvert work included in the proposal, which is to be built by or under the direction of the Department of Public Works and Buildings, Division of Highways.
The amount of cement required by the Department for its 1930 construction programs cannot be definitely determined until pending legal suits relating to the Motor Fuel Tax Law are disposed of. The figures shown in the proposal under "Estimated Amount of Cement Required" are approximate only and are based upon the assumption that the motor fuel tax funds will be made available for construction. The Department assumes no obligation to use the entire quantity therein designated as the definite amount of cement, and furthermore reserves the right to purchase only such amounts of cement as may be required for the construction actually completed during the period specified.
Proposals must be made on forms provided.
The Department of Public Works and Buildings reserves the right to reject any or all proposals.

WE MAKE SECOND MORTGAGES

We confine the loans we make to ...second mortgages on homes [construing ...up to a three-flat building as a ...home]—and because of this concentra...tion on a single type of transaction ...we are able to give lower rates and ...better terms on second mortgage loans ...to home owners than can be obtained ...anywhere else in the city of Chicago.

Our charges are not based on a sliding ...scale, and do not vary. We charge ...7% interest, which accrues monthly, ...and commissions, which work out as ...follows:

$90 per $1,000 for 3 Years.
